GANDHI BARES 'PEACE' TERMS IN INDIA CELL

1st Interview Since British Jailed Him.

BULLETIN.

BOMBAY, India, May 21.—(Wednesday.)—(AP)—Headquarters of the All-India National congress here were surrounded and raided at 1 a. m. today by 300 unarmed policemen and 50 armed men under high British officers. At Dharasana British police arrested Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, who succeeded to leadership of the Indian civil disobedience campaign after arrest of Gandhi and Tyabji. She was taken into custody in a raid by Nationalist volunteers on the salt depot. One hundred of the volunteers were injured.

POONA, May 20.—I have had two conversations with Mahatma Gandhi in prison. He is confined as a state prisoner in the Central Yeravda jail, several miles outside of Poona.

It is one of the oldest prisons in India. Its exterior is quaintly Victorian, but inside its high walls are a number of low cell blocks, one of which is reserved for Mr. Gandhi. Both political and ordinary prisoners are confined there, but Mr. Gandhi receives certain privileges.

Until I saw him he had seen no visitor from the outside world.

My conversation with the mahatma took place in the presence of three British officials, Maj. Doyle, inspector general of prisons; Maj. Martin, prison superintendent, and District Magistrate Gould. The prisoner seemed to be on excellent terms with all three.

Reads "Pilgrim's Progress."

Mr. Gandhi's cell door opens on to a wide veranda. His spinning wheel occupies a prominent position in his cell. Among the books at his beside I noticed a well thumbed copy of Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," the work of another famous prisoner.

From the cool darkness in which he spends his days in meditation, the man reverenced as a saint in India by millions of his countrymen, emerged to greet me with a shy smile.

During our interview on the shaded veranda, the mahatma abandoned the cross legged position in which he is familiar to hundreds of millions and sat on a cane chair. Otherwise he was as the world knows him—bare except for a loin cloth, brown and emaciated, like an anchorite of the desert, but well and even cheerful.

Burning Love, Burning Hate.

Only the spectacles on the mild, shining eyes, the mouth with its queer toothless smile, and a childish trick of dropping the sandal from one foot, as he sat with one leg crossed, rendered the apostolic figure human.

Two things seemed to me as clear as crystal during the four hours I spent with him—his burning love and his burning hate. He loves India as he loves all mankind. He hates the British domination in India as he hates evil.

The British in India are to him oppressors, the source of all maladministration and suffering, yet he has no personal hatred for the British or for any one.

He has a warm regard for the viceroy. He has treasured friends in England. There are even many things in British history, British character and British commonwealth that he admires. Once India is free, Great Britain, I suspect, will have no warmer friend than Mr. Gandhi.

His Meaning of Independence.

Our conversation began with a general exchange of ideas on the British-Indian policies. I then asked him to explain frankly what he meant by "independence." Did he demand independence as ultimately implied in dominion status, or did he insist on separation from the British commonwealth?

"I have always heard," he replied, "that in England dominion status is understood to mean independence, but, by Indian authorities, it is not so understood. Therefore, when independence is resisted we naturally ask for independence in contradistinction to dominion status."

When I asked him if he thought Canada and South Africa were not, in all essential respects, independent, he acknowledged that they were.

"But we are not offered a status like theirs," he added.

Fully Aware of Perils.

I asked if he had calculated the perils involved in his campaign of civil disobedience. He replied he had.

"I have taken what has been called

PASSENGER ON ZEP DESCRIBES FLIGHT OVER SEA

BULLETIN.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, May 21 (Wednesday).—(AP)—A radio from the Graf Zeppelin at 4 a. m., G. M. T. (11 p. m. Chicago time) said that Teneriffe, chief city of the Canary islands, had just been sighted and that the Zeppelin has passed east of the city

ABOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN OVER THE ATLANTIC, 8:30 P. M., ship's time, May 20.—Because of bad weather west of Madeira, the Graf Zeppelin has changed her direction southward to Teneriffe, which she will pass after midnight.

The distance covered in the first twelve hours from Seville is 600 nautical miles (approximately 700 land miles).

The weather continues fair, but opposing winds have been met during the day and are still continuing.

The great airship probably will have to refuel and take on gas supplies at Pernambuco when she lands there before going on to Rio de Janiero.

Averaging 70 Miles an Hour.

We lost some time in starting from Seville because the military crew on either side of the ship could not quite agree among themselves to do the same thing at the same time, but at last we came up splendidly.

We are heading now under a perfectly blue sky directly from Cadiz for the African coast until we reach Cape Magador, where we shall have to pass a low pressure district. We are making a good seventy miles average speed.

The new passengers taken on at Seville include Mrs. Mary Pierce of New York, who behaves like a regular old-timer, though her only previous experience was in the unlucky landing at Toulon.

Airship Short of Water.

The Spanish Prince Alfonso, cousin of the king of Spain, is a linguistic genius. So far he has addressed every passenger, each in his own language, even in the very peculiar Swiss-German.

The ship is a bit short of water and it is said the Spanish officials did not supply enough.

The first day of the ocean flight tells a story of trade winds. Science asserts they will prevail daily from Madeira to the Cape Verde islands, but today they were not found in the whole weather map.

All kinds of other winds prevailed instead. Also the temperature contradicts science. With every mile we go to the south the air becomes chillier. Opposing winds from the Moroccan low pressure urge us more toward the middle of the ocean than we intended to go.

The speed earlier in the trip was only fifty miles, but that is still double the speed of the steamship Europa.

Reported by Several Ships.

SEVILLE, Spain, May 20.—(AP)—With evenly purring motors the Graf Zeppelin tonight swept along, under the brilliant subtropical skies, toward the equator, which no dirigible ever before had crossed, on her voyage to the new world. All was well aboard the giant of the air. She was reported on the way to the Canary islands by several ships.

The Zeppelin took the air for the second leg of her journey at Seville at 9:30 a. m. [3:30 a. m. Chicago time] amid scenes of great enthusiasm, with a distinguished passenger list and many thousands of pieces of mail.

The passengers were delighted with the crowd which came with the early daybreak to see the start of the trip. All the color of Seville and Andalusia was there.

Throughout the night new supplies, fuel, water ballast, and mail, and cargo were loaded onto the Zeppelin. Aboard the big ship as she sailed was a large quantity of last minute mail which arrived in two planes from Germany. There was not an inch of spare space left aboard the Zeppelin.

The civil guard, crack police force, was delegated to watch for stowaways. The officer in command was asked if any had been found. He emphasized his negative reply.

ROBERTS IS O. K., SENATE DECIDES WITHOUT DEBATE

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—Without any discussion the senate today confirmed the nomination of Owen J. Roberts of Philadelphia for justice of the Supreme court of the United States. Mr. Roberts will take the seat which has been vacant since the death of Associate Justice Edward T. Sanford and to which Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina was appointed first by President Hoover. There was no roll call and no votes were heard in the negative.

The nomination went through with a dispatch which caused surprise.

Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], assistant majority leader, called up the nomination at the end of the day's session, saying that he would like either immediate consideration or an agreement to vote at a definite time on a later date. Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], the minority leader, said he understood that the judiciary committee had submitted a unanimous report in favor of approval of the nomination.

Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], chairman of the committee, said this was true. Senator Robinson then said he had no objection to immediate consideration. Vice President Curtis put the question of confirmation to a vote and he declared it carried.

Chicago Wins Senate Fight on Lake Water

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—The senate commerce committee, in session tonight, approved the Illinois waterway item in the house rivers and harbors bill. As agreed to by the committee the bill leaves unchanged the provision authorizing expenditure of $7,500,000 for completion of the waterway by the federal government.

Prior to approval of the Illinois waterway project the committee by a vote of 8 to 10 rejected an amendment offered by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] to limit diversion from Lake Michigan into the waterway to 1,500 cubic feet a second, the ultimate maximum flow permitted under the recent Supreme court decision. It also adopted a compromise plan for the New York state barge canal and ironed out several other controversial paragraphs.

Who Voted Against Chicago.

Senators voting for the amendment to restrict the Illinois waterway diversion were Senators Vandenberg, F. M. Simmons [Dem., N. C.], Hiram W. Johnson [Rep., Cal.], Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.], Robert B. Howell [Rep., Neb.], Gerald P. Nye [Rep., N. D.], and Henry J. Allen [Rep., Kas.].

Those voting against the amendment were Senators Charles S. Deneen [Rep., Ill.], Roscoe C. Patterson [Rep., Mo.], J. E. Randell [Dem., La.], Duncan U. Fletcher [Dem., Fla.], William J. Harris [Dem., Ga.], Morris Sheppard [Dem., Tex.], William E. Brock [Dem., Tenn.], Royal S. Copeland [Dem. [N. Y.], Hubert D. Stephens [Dem., Miss.], and Harry B. Hawes [Dem., Mo.].

Senators Porter H. Dale [Rep., Vt.] and Arthur R. Gould [Rep., Me.] were absent.

An Acrimonious Debate.

The vote on the amendment was preceded by an acrimonious debate during which Senator Vandenberg, a militant foe of the Illinois waterway proposal, attacked Chicago for its "water steal." Senator Deneen replied with a long speech opposing the amendment and urging the necessity of retaining the house provision, which allows the diversion of sufficient water for the feasible operation of a commercial waterway.

At the close of tonight's session, which lasted for nearly three hours, the committee adjourned until tomorrow, when it is hoped that the action on the bill will be completed. Chairman Johnson and other members of the committee, pleased with the prog-

BIG BUSINESS MEN OF PHILADELPHIA GIVE WET HEAVY MAJORITY

Philadelphia, Pa., May 21.—[Special.]—The exclusive "Main Line" district, home of leading bankers, railroad and corporation officials, and often described as the wealthiest suburban area in the world, voted wet in yesterday's primary election.

Lower Merion and Radnor townships, which take in all of the main line territory, both returned pluralities for Francis H. Bohlen for senator and Thomas W. Phillips for governor.

Prof. Bohlen polled more than twice as many votes as Secretary Davis and had a substantial lead over Mr. Grundy among the Main Liners in the senatorial race, while his running mate, Mr. Phillips, more than doubled the Pinchot vote and was not far from doubling Mr. Brown's total.

ROADHOUSE CHEF SHOT TO DEATH BY TWO BANDITS

Michael Mechalls, 50 years old, a chef, was killed last night by two robbers who tried to hold up the Lincoln inn at Glenwood-Dyer road and the Lincoln highway, five miles east of Chicago Heights.

The robbers entered the bar, off the main dining room and dance hall, and ordered Jacenti Labuda, the proprietor, to put up his hands. When he refused one of the bandits felled him with the butt of a sawed-off shotgun. The robbers then lined up six patrons and had started to search them when Mechalls appeared in the doorway leading to the kitchen. Seeing the robbers, he turned to flee and the man with the shotgun shot him.

The bandits fled without loot.

Pinchot Lags in Pennsylvania Primary Race

BULLETIN.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 20.—(AP)—Returns from 4,416 of the 8,701 districts in the state, including 1,120 of the 1,590 in Philadelphia, gave Secretary of Labor Davis for senator a lead of 124,000 over Senator Joseph R. Grundy. The figures were: Davis, 376,637; Grundy, 252,644; Francis H. Bohlen, wet candidate, 113,405.

For governor in 4,444 districts Francis Shunk Brown had a lead of more than 41,000 over Gifford Pinchot. The figures were: Brown, 340,802; Pinchot, 298,983; Thomas W. Phillips, wet candidate, 140,137.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 20.—[Special.]—With returns in from approximately one-fourth of the state Secretary of Labor James J. Davis at midnight appeared to have won the Republican senatorial nomination from Senator Joseph R. Grundy by a decisive majority. Davis, backed by the Vare machine and running as a "mild dry," was forced to divide some of his votes with Prof. Francis H. Bohlen, who entered the race at the last minute on a dripping wet platform demanding repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Brown Leading Pinchot.

The race for the gubernatorial nomination between Francis Shunk Brown, "extra mild dry," Vare candidate, and ex-Governor Gifford Pinchot, bone dry, was closer, with Thomas W. Phillips, Bohlen's "dripping wet" running mate, piling up a surprisingly large vote, in third place.

Notwithstanding Brown's lead of more than 40,000, Mr. Pinchot predicts his nomination. He issued the following statement:

"The returns are not yet all in, but enough of them are in to make the results almost certain. The combination of gang politicians in Philadelphia has been beaten. The only thing that remains in question is the majority of votes."

Wet Votes Large.

The returns indicate that the wet candidates, Prof. Bohlen and Phillips, drew heavily from Davis and Brown.

In the first twenty wards of this city, the so-called organization strongholds, where sentiment normally is wet, the machine was able to hold the voters in line for Davis and Brown. But in the other twenty-eight wards, where organization control is not so strong, the Bohlen-Phillips vote was surprisingly heavy.

Another remarkable evidence of the prohibition repeal sentiment in the state came from Erie county in the extreme northwest corner of the commonwealth. The first 24 districts there gave Phillips 1,866 votes to Pinchot's 1,344 and Brown's 988. In these districts Bohlen also ran ahead of his opponent.

Bohlen Concedes Defeat.

Prof. Bohlen has conceded the nomination of Secretary Davis and insisted that the wet issue would be dominant in the November election. An independent state wet ticket may be placed in the field, since the wets marshaled such an overpowering vote.

"We have made a good fight that will show that the eighteenth amendment cannot be taken out of politics until repealed," Mr. Bohlen said. "We are prepared to keep up the wet organization and will put all our strength to defeat any one who runs either as a dry or a straddler for state or national office."

In the soft and hard coal regions Secretary Davis is running ahead of Mr. Brown nearly two to one, while

Trade Leaders Point to Benefits.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Mayor Thompson signed the indeterminate transit franchise late yesterday afternoon, as forecast, and utilized the occasion to make his first extended speech on municipal affairs in about a year. He spoke with apparent pride. He said he did not desire undue credit for the accomplishments resulting from the lake front ordinance passed during his previous administration, and then intimated that its benefits will be equaled by the transportation ordinance.

The ordinance provides for consolidation of the surface and elevated lines into one company and for 300 miles of extensions of street car, elevated and bus service. The mayor's signature insures that a public referendum on the ordinance will be held on July 1 as planned.

Predicts Referendum Success.

"From my experience, I believe," said Mayor Thompson, "that the new cars, extensions, better transit facilities, the increase in business, boost in property values and the relief of unemployment will cause the people to feel favorably disposed to the ordinance at the referendum."

The scene of the signing was the mayor's office. James Simpson of the citizens' transit settlement committee and heads of civic and business organizations and labor unions were there to petition Mr. Thompson to affix his signature.

Because of the illness of Chairman J. B. McDonough of the local transportation committee of the city council, Ald. James B. Bowler presented the ordinance and the gold pen. He said the ordinance "is about the best procurable."

Simpson Praises Ordinance.

Mr. Simpson reviewed the appointment and purpose of the Citizens' committee and then recited several reasons why the ordinance should be signed promptly. He went on:

"It represents the best available thought and effort of able minds in the city government, in the transportation industry, in the financial world and in prominent civic groups; and we believe that it will provide the most efficient local transportation system of any large city in the world."

"One of the most important immediate benefits will be its effect upon unemployment. As soon as the new company is organized and has accepted the permit, work will begin on the agreed improvement. Within the first three years $65,000,000 will be spent by the company and a total of $200,000,000 will be spent in 10 years.

City to Build Subway.

"Concurrently the city will be at work constructing subways from money now in the city transit fund and from special assessments, expending in the neighborhood of $100,000,000. This means employment of thousands of men in many trades and occupations and the consequent improvement of industrial conditions in the city."

After summarizing the improvements pledged, Mr. Simpson said they "will benefit every citizen and will be of inestimable value in promoting the growth of the city."

"The citizens' committee," he continued, "believes this ordinance fair to the city, just to the companies and of immense value to the people."

In view of the lack of substantial opposition at the public hearings and in the city council, Mr. Simpson told Mayor Thompson that he would be "amply justified in assuming that a great majority of the people want this ordinance as drafted."

Labor Leader Urges Plan.

Patrick F. Sullivan, head of the building trades council, said that the 115,000 members of his organization are more interested in this ordinance than any other group in Chicago. He explained that his workers require good transportation to travel from one job to another in good times.

"In my 25 years the present is the worst depression I have known," said Sullivan. "Probably 75,000 of our members are walking the streets. My colleagues here, Martin P. Durkin of the steam fitters, Joseph P. Corr of the ironworkers, and George W. Jones of the roofers, concur in my plea."

S. Charles Iversen of the Chicago Real Estate board said that organization has employed engineers, lawyers, and other experts to examine the ordinance and that all have reported favorably.

"In a referendum of our membership," said Iversen, "250 voted for the ordinance and 14 against it."

"There has been nothing so impor tant in my time as this ordinance," said John C. Bowers of the Central Uptown Business association. "We believe that the ordinance is the very best Chicago can hope for."

Frank J. O'Brien of the Greater South Side Chamber of Commerce said he believes that the ordinance "supplies the most good to the largest number" and suggested that it be signed at once.

Mark Shanks of the West Side Chamber of Commerce urged that the people be given an opportunity to express their views on better transportation.

Joseph K. Brittain, representing the Chicago Association of Commerce, said that organization will give its full support to the ordinance. He added: "In my 40 years in Chicago nothing has been of greater importance."

Ettelson Makes a Speech.

Corporation Counsel Ettelson reviewed the work of his assistants in preparing the ordinance and then switched to the lake front ordinance. "That ordinance was settled in a previous administration of Mayor William Thompson after wrangling and fights for 40 years," Ettelson said. "The results have been wonderful. It permitted the Field museum, the Shedd aquarium, the Adler planetarium, the Buckingham fountain, and brought other immeasurable benefits to the people. History may repeat itself."

Mayor Stresses Employment.

In his speech Mayor Thompson stressed the referendum clause in the ordinance, the provision for pensions and the employment which the transit extensions will create.

"It is my duty to do everything in my power to create employment and better business conditions," said the mayor. "I have always tried to be a builder, and, in my opinion, the lake front controversy could have been settled twenty-five years earlier if the same effort had been put into it which was expended during my previous administration.

"This ordinance received a remarkable vote in the city council, 47 to 3. One critic of it said that it is a perpetual franchise. Perhaps he was speaking deliberately, but possibly he had not examined it thoroughly. He was told it was not the truth and that there was no warrant for his statement. If I believed it is a perpetual franchise I would not sign it.

"Give Voters the Truth."

"Let me admonish you that the voters should be given the truth. If they do not get the truth they cannot vote intelligently on the ordinance. Get them the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, and let the majority view prevail."

From the citizens' committee there were present besides Mr. Simpson, John A. Carroll and Joseph R. Noel, Attorney Sidney S. Gorham, and Allan T. Gilbert. George Hodges of the Union Labor Advocate was another witness of the ceremony. A number of city department heads also were present.

SENATE INQUIRY UNLIKELY

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.] — Senator Frederick Steiwer [Rep., Ore.], chairman of a senate subcommittee, today indicated to former Ald. Wiley W. Mills and Attorney D. H. Tone of Chicago that the pending Norris resolution, for an inquiry into charges that the Chicago Railways company receivership is the result of collusion inspired by Insull interests, will be pigeonholed.

Mills and Tone, granted a hearing by Senators Steiwer and J. J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.], attacked the receivership as a phase of an alleged plot by transit company officials and Chicago bankers "to force a perpetual franchise upon the people of Chicago," and both asserted that the pending solution of the city's transit problem espoused by the so-called citizens' committee is "a complete surrender to the traction companies."

Ostensibly the Norris resolution would make the inquiry the basis for possible legislation to limit the jurisdiction of federal courts in receivership proceedings.

"It would be an imposition on senators to ask them to conduct the investigation on the basis of this resolution," Senator Steiwer declared. "It may be necessary to have the legislation suggested, but it cannot be secured at this session anyway."

The Norris resolution charges that in spite of the fact it had "many times" the $67,075 alleged to be due the Westinghouse company on deposit, the Chicago Railways company consented to the appointment of receivers who were both directors of the Commonwealth Edison company, headed by Samuel Insull, and the latter with Henry A. Blair, it is charged "wrongfully formed the purpose" . . . to deprive participation certificate holders of their equities in the company.

This, it is charged, frustrated an application to state courts for foreclosure of trust deeds secured by 100 million dollars of bonds which had been defaulted since Feb. 1, 1927.

Hoover Watches Sham Battle at Sea; Reviews Fleet Off Virginia Capes

Aboard the Cruiser Salt Lake City, Off the Virginia Capes, May 20.—[Special.]—A large section of the American navy passed in review before President Hoover on these historic waters today.

From the decks of this vessel, the first of the 10,000 ton 8 inch Washington treaty cruisers to be completed, the commander in chief of the United States military and naval establishments watched the fighting ships of the United States battle fleet steam smartly past in review and later stage a spectacular demonstration of naval warfare as it would be fought today on the surface of the ocean, under the sea, and in the air.

Fifty-three battleships, cruisers, aircraft carriers, destroyers, and submarines took part in the program, which included an aerial attack against capital ships from the flying decks of the aircraft carriers Lexington and Saratoga and the staging of a mimic naval engagement which emphasized this country's shortage in cruisers.

Sees Latest Air Tactics.

During the eight hours spent aboard the Salt Lake City the President witnessed the launching of planes from catapults, watched a naval plane hitch on to the giant dirigible Los Angeles, and obtained a glimpse of the navy air arm's latest method of attack against surface ships, the diving bomb attack.

Sunshine and good visibility greeted the reviewing party when it reached the drill grounds and continued during the day. The President's party included Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahnke, and Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief of naval operations. President Hoover stood in the shadow of the big 8 inch guns to watch part of the spectacle. The rest of the time he stood on the bridge with Capt. O. L. Oliver of the Salt Lake City and acknowledged the salutes of the passing warships from that vantage point.

As an aviation enthusiast, President Hoover's interest was keenly aroused by the launching of the planes from the decks of the Lexington and Saratoga, this country's 33,000 ton aircraft carriers.

The two carriers sent off 150 fighting and bombing planes. Within twenty minutes after the first red, yellow, and blue tipped plane raced down the runway and gracefully attained altitude the air was dotted with fighting aircraft.

The final demonstration of the review was a successful hookup between a plane in flight and the Los Angeles. According to naval officers, it marked the first time such a stunt has been performed at sea. Lieutenant Commander Charles A. Nicholson took off from the Saratoga. The Los Angeles was in flight 3,000 feet overhead. The pilot approached it slowly from the rear, gradually drew even and moved slowly beneath the huge belly of the dirigible for a moment, and then maneuvered so that a large hook projecting above his plane caught in a trapeze arrangement suspended beneath the airship. The motor of the plane was shut off and the plane hung suspended. Messages were exchanged between the officer and the commander of the Los Angeles and a few moments later the plane returned to the mother ship below.

The President and his party boarded the Salt Lake City at Old Point Comfort shortly after 8 o'clock this morning and headed immediately for the drill grounds, sixty miles away. During the trip the President took advantage of the opportunity to look over one of the 8 inch gun type of vessels which has figured so conspicuously in the London naval treaty obligations.

Called "Tinclad."

As the first of the Washington treaty cruisers the Salt Lake City is somewhat of an experimental model, and no more ships will be built on this design. It is so lightly protected that it already has been called a "tinclad."

The first units of the fleet sighted were the submarines V-2 and V-3. When about a thousand yards from the reviewing vessels they submerged for ten minutes. Upon their return to the surface they started the movement of the fleet past the Salt Lake City.

The subs disappeared very rapidly. Smoke on the horizon announced the approach of the cruiser divisions, commanded by Rear Admiral Frank H. Clark.

Destroyer Division Next.

Five minutes after passing the Salt Lake City the cruisers increased their speed and turned to the left, disappearing over the horizon as the destroyer division came into view. This division consisted of twenty-six destroyers, eight of them the destroyer squadron of the battle fleet. The destroyers joined the cruisers to prepare for the mimic attack upon the battleships, which soon came into sight led by the Texas.

Immediately after passing the reviewing ship the battleships maneuvered into battle column and steamed away. A half hour later the battleships, while engaged in a sham battle with a simulated battleship fleet several miles away, were attacked by light cruisers, destroyers, and aircraft.

Cruiser Weakness Felt.

Having only eight light cruisers available for operation, the fleet being short by more than 200,000 tons of the number of vessels of this type considered necessary for efficient operation by the navy, the battleships were forced to go into action without any cruisers in the protecting screen always thrown about the capital ships. As a result the destroyers were able to steam up and deliver their torpedo attack almost without opposition. The diving machine gun and bomb attack from the air was a spectacular part of the program.

Engines wide open, the planes darted down towards the target at terrific speed. At 1,500 feet the thirty pound simulated bombs were released and the ships changed direction and zoomed upward to avoid crashing into the water.

Back Home After Review.

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—President Hoover returned to Washington shortly after 10 o'clock tonight from his trip to the Virginia capes where today he reviewed the United States fleet.

BOSTON BANKER DIVES TO DEATH FROM SEA CLIFF

Frail Valet Badly Hurt in Plunge to Save Him.

Boston, Mass., May 20.—[Special.]—George E. Phelan, of Concord, a Boston banker and manager of the six million dollar George White fund for municipal improvements, committed suicide tonight by leaping off Pulpit cliff on Eastern Point, Nahant. He plunged to the half submerged rock 70 feet below.

His chauffeur-valet, Crescencio de Fernandez, a frail little Filipino, who had been in his employ only five days, leaped after him in an attempt to save him. The chauffeur was dragged from the water, battered and bleeding, by coast guards and police. They had been summoned to the scene by Mrs. Willard D. Johnson, wife of the caretaker on the estate of the late Henry Cabot Lodge, who heard the chauffeur's cries for help.

Ill Health; Despondent.

Despondency over a three year nervous breakdown was assigned as the cause of Mr. Phelan's act. He had suffered a relapse about two months ago and recently had moved from his Beacon street house in Boston to the home of a close friend, George A. Brown, in Swampscott, on the advice of physicians, for rest and seclusion. Five days ago he hired De Fernandez to drive his car, give him massage treatments and aid the caretaker of his Marblehead estate, which he was planning to open soon.

Fernandez told the police that his employer had seemed excited when he shaved him this morning, and that instead of taking the usual afternoon drive about the north shore estate in his own car, Mr. Phelan had suggested they use the chauffeur's smaller machine.

Through Estate to the Cliff.

"When we got near the Cabot Lodge estate," De Fernandez said, "Mr. Phelan asked me to stop. We got out and walked through the estate to the shore, when suddenly when he reached the top of Pulpit Rock he went over the cliff. I jumped, too, and did my best to save him."

Medical Examiner Nathaniel Breed of Lynn said that an examination showed Mr. Phelan died of injuries received in his leap rather than from drowning.

The medical examiner said an official suicide verdict would doubtless be issued later.

A liner of the same company will extend the journey to Salt Lake City by 1 a.m. (eastern standard time). Large, comfortable chairs will be provided to enable passengers to sleep. The last leg from there to San Francisco will be made in a plane of the Western Air Express. It arrives there at 3:30 p. m. (eastern standard time) or at Los Angeles at 5:30 p. m.

GERMAN STORES WORRY AS FRENCH ARMY QUITS RHINE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 20.—French troops today started marching out of the Rhineland following yesterday's agreement between Premier Tardieu, Foreign Minister Briand and German Ambassador von Hoesch. The last of the troops will quit German soil several months before June 30, the final date stipulated by The Hague agreement. Since Germany has carried out all her obligations. Less than 30,000 troops remain in the Rhineland, and they are chiefly located at Coblenz, Wiesbaden, Mainz, and Palatinate.

The Rhinelanders are divided between joy and sorrow over their liberation, as while they are glad to see the foreign troops leave, they are worried over the thousands of flats and lodging houses which have been used as billets and which will now be empty. The tradesmen are worried also over the loss of the soldiers, who were good customers.

The Rhineland towns are in a unique position, being the only communities in Europe where there are plenty of apartments available for rent. Every other city and town on the continent is suffering from a lack of lodging accommodations.

Movie Star Divorces Director

JAMES CRUZE AND BETTY COMPSON.

Gay Parties Cause

Los Angeles, Cal., May 20.—[Special.]—Betty Compson, film favorite, won an interlocutory divorce decree from James Cruze, director, today, after testifying that Cruze filled their home with so many friends in such stages of sobriety that she was crowded out of her own home and suffered a breakdown.

Judge Harry Archbold awarded the decree on grounds of cruelty. Cruze, who was sued under his real name of James C. Bosen, did not contest. Miss Compson stated her name was Lucille Bosen.

Miss Compson is severing all the ties of her domestic life with Cruze by auctioning her furniture and possessions at a Hollywood shop. The pair were married here Oct. 14, 1925, and at one time formed one of moviedom's best known partnerships, Cruze directing his wife in a series of hits.

Firemen were leading a hose to the building when the brick frontage collapsed, injuring five.

POLICE QUESTION KIDNAPED GIRL'S MOTHER AND DAD

Balked at every turn in the investigation of the kidnaping of 2 year old Mary Agnes Moroney, Stock Yards police last night called in the child's parents, Michael and Kathryn Moroney, 5200 Wentworth avenue, for a thorough review of the case.

The Moroneys were questioned for more than an hour by Detective Arthus Specht and John Barton, after which the policemen declared themselves satisfied that the woman known as Mrs. Julia Otis, who posed as a social service worker, had taken the child.

Search for Mrs. Otis has been conducted in Chicago, Los Angeles and on California bound trains. A letter received by the parents last Friday, the day following the kidnaping and signed by Mrs. Julia Otis, said the kidnaper was taking the child to California and would return her within two months.

GRAIN TRADER IS FOUND SLAIN, GUN NEAR BODY

Simons Once Partner of Ex-Gov. McCray.

William Simons, member of a well known Indiana family, former business partner of ex-Gov. Warren T. McCray of Indiana, a broker on the Chicago Board of Trade for the last 20 years, was found dead early yesterday beside a road three miles north of Kentland, Ind., his country home. Three bullet wounds were found in his head and body.

Although investigating the possibility that Mr. Simons had been slain by others, Sheriff John D. Bartholomew and Coroner Allen Kenoyer of Newton county declared the indications pointed to suicide.

Revolver Near Body.

A revolver with four discharged cartridges in the chambers was found near the body. Two loaded cartridges of the same make and caliber as those in the revolver were found in Mr. Simons' pocket. Mr. Simons had been in ill health since an automobile accident in which he was injured five years ago, and lately he had suffered new business reverses, it was said.

Drs. W. C. Matthews and George H. Van Kirk, who examined the body, said all of the wounds might have been self-inflicted, only one of them being of a nature to cause instant death.

Mr. Simons had planned to leave Kentland for Chicago on a 4 o'clock train yesterday morning. It had been his custom for years to live in Chicago during the week, spending his weekends at his Kentland home. Mrs. Simons retired early, setting the alarm clock for 3 o'clock. She wakened at 2 o'clock and, not finding her husband beside her, went downstairs. She found the alarm clock set for 1 o'clock and her husband gone. She concluded he had taken the bus for Chicago, which leaves Kentland at 2 o'clock. At 3:45 a. m. the body was found by a passing motorist.

Grain Dealer Here Since 1910.

Mr. Simons was 50 years old and a native of Newton county. He was connected with McCray, Morrison & Co., grain dealers in Kentland, until 1910, when he came to Chicago and joined the Sawers Grain company, of which he was president from 1912 until the company failed in 1923. This was at a time when Gov. McCray, who was a heavy stockholder in the Sawers Grain company, was involved in financial difficulties which finally led to his losing the governorship and being sentenced to the penitentiary.

McCray's difficulties were generally credited with embarrassing the Sawers' company's standing.

Since that time Mr. Simons had engaged in grain brokerage on a small scale.

Mr. Simons made his home in Chicago at the apartment of Miss Mary E. Brooke, an intimate friend of the Simons family, for many years. She lived at 755 Montrose avenue, but last April 28 she moved, part of her furniture being sent to the Simons home at Kentland. Informed of the tragedy Miss Brooke went to the family home.

Surviving Mr. Simons, besides his widow, are nine children.

HELEN REYNOLDS.

Miss Helen Reynolds, secretary to Building Commissioner Christian P. Paschen, appeared at the state's attorney's office yesterday and announced that she was ready to be a witness in the investigation into city hall pay rolls. She was wanted as a witness before the grand jury in the investigation started before the April election by State's Attonrey Swanson, but she could not be found at that time.

Assistant State's Attorneys Homer Dodge and Grenville Beardsley took Miss Reynolds before the grand jury and gave her an immunity waiver to sign. It was explained to her that she could be indicted on her own testimony—if testimony of a crime developed—if she signed the waiver.

Miss Reynolds refused to testify under such conditions, and the prosecutors said they did not want her as a witness under any other conditions. She did not testify.

Rows Two Miles in Lake to Rescue Boy Boatmen

Rowing two miles out into the lake, Capt. Fred Stebbins of the Jackson park coast guard station last night rescued Thomas McGuiean and Joseph Duale, both 16 years old and living at 7251 South Shore drive. The captain had sighted the lads through his binoculars. They had rigged up a boat and were fishing off 68th street when their rudder broke and they started drifting with the wind. The boat was half full of water when Capt. Stebbins overhauled it.

Warsaw Tears Down U. S. Gratitude Shaft; 'Inartistic'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, May 20.—The American gratitude monument, located on the main street of this city; is undergoing rough treatment at the hands of municipal monument breakers, who are busy tearing the edifice down, obviously with the intention of preventing Ambassador John N. Willys, who arrives Thursday, from seeing it. The monument, erected in 1922, commemorating Herbert Hoover's relief work for Polish children, has been regarded as inartistic by the population, and during the last few years some of the shaft disappeared.

LOBBY INQUIRY HALTS IN ROW WITH McBRIDE

Dry Leader Refuses to Answer Blaine.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—Reports submitted to the senate lobby committee today before its hearing ended abruptly in a wordy row between F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, and Senator J. J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.], disclosed that the dry organization and its state subsidiaries have collected and spent more than $5,700,000 in the last four years.

State subsidiaries, it was shown, collected a total of $4,539,128 from 1926 to 1929, both inclusive, while the national organization, according to McBride, testified that 90 per cent of the league's activities are political in nature, collected $1,204,773 in the same period, making a grand total of $5,743,901 for the four years.

State Collections Fall Off.

The reports filed today showed a slump of $250,000 in the income of the state leagues during the four years and revealed that they had spent $8,390 more than they received, as follows:

Year.	Receipts.	Disbursements.
1926	$1,255,189.29	$1,256,636.96
1927	1,139,748.57	1,141,406.52
1928	1,138,323.11	1,126,635.27
1929	1,005,867.15	1,023,440.71
Total	$4,539,128.02	$4,547,518.43

The statement submitted a few days ago by McBride for the national organization that its revenues likewise had fallen off from $919,984 in 1919 to only $265,237 in 1929, and that they fell to the latter figure from $333,375 in the last four years.

Today's clash between McBride and Blaine, the noisiest in the many between witnesses and senators which have featured the lobby investigation, was precipitated when the Wisconsin senator accused the dry chief of dodging queries on a "score card" devised by the superintendent of the South Dakota league to classify candidates for public office.

Patent, Sells "Score Card."

McBride, reddening under the jibes and jabs of Blaine, who was conducting a one-man hearing, angrily insisted that the league considers other qualifications than devotion to prohibition when considering candidates to be indorsed. Blaine produced a copy of the score card, patented and sold, it was disclosed, for $2.50 a thousand by H. E. Dawes, superintendent of the South Dakota league.

Reading from the card, Blaine showed how candidates known to be dry are given 50 out of 100 possible points and other qualifications, education, and ability, may win a maximum of 10 points each, public record, 15 points and church affiliations, family relations, Sabbath observance, associates, and lodge memberships ratings of 2 points each.

Church Attendance 2 Points.

In spite of McBride's protest that the national organization never has indorsed or adopted "the score card system," Blaine persisted in asking what rating would be allowed a candidate who "shouts dry and drinks wet," and he twitted the dry leader for only allowing 2 points for faithful church attendance.

"You are pretty hard put this morning for something on the Anti-Saloon league," began McBride, leaping to his feet, "let me explain that."

"You've been explaining—what you have to do is answer the questions," shouted Blaine, also on his feet.

"When you ask questions, I will answer them," retorted McBride.

"I am not going to sit here and quarrel with the witness—Mr. Chairman, I demand——" began Blaine, turning to discover that Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.] had left the room. "I shall adjourn this hearing until we get a quorum."

"If you expect to get off this witness stand this summer you better answer the questions," declared Blaine. "You may bulldoze members of congress, but I hope you have discovered I cannot be bulldozed."

"And I'm not fussed by your attitude," retorted McBride. "You ask a decent question and you'll get a decent answer."

Round of Dry Applause.

A round of applause broke from the drys in the hearing room crowd and Blaine demanded that one of the group stand and give his name. The man was former Representative William Upshaw [Dem., Ga.], defeated for reelection to the house after a senate investigation in 1926 revealed him as one of several members of congress on the league's pay roll as dry lecturer.

Upshaw declared he had not begun the applause, but said he believed McBride made a "brave and spunky answer."

Meanwhile, Senator Caraway, recalled to the room, listened patiently to McBride's complaint and dismissed the dry leader with the warning "you had better come back tomorrow prepared to answer the question put to you, sir, because I'll see to it you do answer."

Blaine and McBride tangled early in the hearing when the Wisconsin senator, having brushed aside the dry leader's explanation of the league's standard for judging candidates as the "rambling speech any dry lecturer would make," asked McBride if the league inquired into the attitude of candidates toward the 14th and 15th amendments as well as to the 18th amendment.

"We are not an organization that speaks on the 14th and 15th amendments," answered McBride, after some squabbling.

"Why aren't you frank about it, Mr. McBride, and say that the only qualification you require of a candidate is that he vote dry?" asked Blaine.

Admits Supporting Denison.

"Did not you support Denison in Illinois?" asked Blaine when McBride continued to insist there were other qualifications.

"Yes, in the primary," admitted McBride.

"And didn't you support, two years ago, other members of congress whose trunks leaked on their return from Panama?" asked Blaine.

"No; name your man," demanded McBride, protesting that Representative E. E. Denison [Rep., Ill.] never had been tried on the indictment against him for illegal possession and transportation of liquor. The fact that he is only indicted and never has been convicted "is a different thing," McBride explained.

Gets a Jail Term for Hookup of Pipe and Still

A gas pipe leading up through the office of Barney Callahan, teaming contractor of 3501 North Clark street, caused him to be sentenced to six months in jail and fined $750 yesterday by Federal Judge Woodward. He was charged with violation of the prohibition laws.

Callahan pleaded not guilty to charges of maintaining a nuisance in the form of a still above his office and waived a jury trial. He declared he rented the space on the second floor of the building.

ASKS DIVORCE FROM UPDIKE, AN INDIANA DRY

Wife Links Ex-Congressman with Woman.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 20. — [Special.]—Ralph E. Updike, former member of congress from this district, has been sued for divorce in Washington. Mrs. Updike, the mother of four children, charges that he "had been running around with women" for two years in Washington, where he served in congress from 1924 to 1928.

Until thrust into political prominence by the Ku Klux Klan and the Anti-Saloon league, Updike was an obscure attorney in Indianapolis.

Wife Manages Campaign.

Mrs. Updike charges she found Updike in their automobile in Washington with a young woman who lives in their apartment house. She then learned, she asserts, that Updike first started courting this woman when Mrs. Updike was back in Indianapolis in 1926 managing his campaign for reelection. He was nominated that year by the big majority usually given by Klan and Anti-Saloon league supported candidates in the Indianapolis Republican primary election, but was defeated in the general election by Louis Ludlow, a Democrat.

Last summer Mrs. Updike gave birth to twins. Updike flew from Washington to Indianapolis to attend their birth and then hurried back to the capital. Later she returned to Washington, where she asserts he urged her to go back to Indianapolis, saying he would care for their older boys, 8 and 11, and would notify her when he obtained a job.

Lists Salary at $4,000 Year.

Mrs. Updike charges the former congressman gets $4,000 a year from his job as an employé of the U. S. internal revenue department in Washington, and also compensation from the United States Veterans bureau. Yet since Jan. 18, she alleges, he has given her less than $40 a month for the twins and herself, and she has been doing odd jobs in Washington. She charges improper care, also, of the older boys, saying they were left alone nights while Updike went out with women. She asks a limited divorce and alimony.

Cleveland, O., May 20.—(AP)—A cat is entitled to a bite if some one steps on its tail, a Common Pleas court jury decided today. The jury, after deliberating 35 minutes found that neither cat nor its owner could be blamed or held liable for $10,000 damages sought by Mrs. Alice Compton, 56, who alleged a feline bit her when she stepped on its tail in a grocery store.

HOLE IN MICHIGAN DRY ACT SETS 16 PRISONERS FREE

Lansing, Mich., May 20.—[Special.]—Sixteen prisoners convicted of prohibition law offenses under an act which the state supreme court has invalidated were ordered released from Michigan prisons today by Gov. Fred W. Green.

The governor acted following investigation of each of the 16 cases by Commissioner Arthur D. Wood of the pardon and paroles division.

Those ordered released today includes one fourth offender, Perry O. Gish of Mackinaw county. The others are: William J. Reardon, Genesee; Philip Rookus, Eaton; William Herman, Huron; Joe Hailo, Allegan; Earl Warren, Kalkaska; William H. Hickey, Hillsdale; August Kopischke and George Downing, Missaukee; Mel Johnson, Van Buren; David Fitzpatrick, Kalamazoo; Alphonse Nette, Muskegon; Laney Warner, Allegan; John Reynolds, Gladwin, and Isom McKee, Bay county.

Boy Plays Judge

When youthful offenders were ushered before the bench in the Boys' court yesterday they found a boy scarcely older than themselves perched on the high seat usually occupied by Judge Francis B. Allegretti.

But when cases were called one after another a hint of admiration was seen on the faces of the defendants as "Judge" Irving Epstein, 19 years old, of 1864 South Homan avenue meted out justice. From time to time he conferred with Judge Allegretti when consultation was necessary.

Among other ceremonies of the sixth day's program of Boys' week was the awarding of distinguished service medals at the old Jones school, Plymouth court and Harrison street. George W. Dixon, president of Boys' Week federation, an alumnus of the school, which is now known as Commercial Continuation High school, was one of those to receive a medal. He was graduated in 1882. The same recognition was given to Lillian Blitz, 16 years old, of 4916 Hutchinson street, and Michael Wagner, also 16, of 3304 Polk street.

TWO NEW GROUPS ENTER ILLINOIS WAR ON DRY LAW

Women Arrive to Launch Chicago Campaigns.

The Illinois division of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, recently organized here, has been joined in the battle against prohibition by two rival organizations, it was revealed yesterday. While heads of the three groups agree that a dry is a dry and a common enemy, it seems that there are various degrees in the matter of being a wet.

Miss Lenora McAninch of Washington, a vice president in the Congressional Districts' Modification league, a national organization incorporated in the District of Columbia, arrived in Chicago yesterday, announced the opening of temporary offices of the league in room 489 of the Adams-Franklin building, and made it clear that her association had nothing whatever to do with the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

Calls Public Meeting.

Almost simultaneously Miss M. Louise Gross of New York, national chairman of the Women's Moderation union, arrived in Chicago and from her room in the Stevens hotel announced plans for the first public meeting of the Illinois division of the union in the Stevens at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

"Our league, which includes men and women, any one above 21 years of age, is entirely different from the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform, headed by Mrs. Charles H. Sabin of New York," Miss McAninch said. "You don't have to have any social standing or anything like that to belong to ours. Every citizen of the United States can belong.

"We're beginning on a house to house canvass of Chicago. We'll probably have 20 workers. Yes, of course they're paid workers. We don't just get a lot of names. Every one pays one dollar for membership for a year. We're for the return of light wines and beers and our members sign a petition we're going to send to congress. We have some of the biggest people in the United States in our league."

Meet to Merge Forces.

The Congressional Districts' Modification league and the Women's Moderation union both were among the anti-prohibition organizations which met on May 9 in the Mayflower hote, in Washington to affiliate, but Mrs. Sabin's organization and the Association Against the Eighteenth Amendment, in which Mr. Sabin is treasurer, "wouldn't join," Miss McAninch said.

Miss Gross disapproved of house to house canvasses, "where money is collected," saying the method of her organization is to hold meetings, where women who wish to be active members contribute $5 and those who wish to be inactive members may pay $1. The object of the group is to support wet candidates.

"I was in this work before Mrs. Sabin," Miss Gross said. "I belonged to the Molly Pitcher club in New York, the first women's organization against prohibition. Of course, all the women's organizations do good.

"I have some of the biggest names in the country on my letterheads. Mrs. Sabin has tried to take some of them away from me, but they just told her they'd stick with me. I won't give out the names of the Chicago women in my group yet, but there are some very prominent women among them, as will be seen Monday."

Mrs. William H. Mitchell, co-chairman of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, in its offices at 700 North Michigan avenue, said:

"I know nothing about either of these organizations—except that today a prominent woman in Chicago came to our office and said that Miss Gross had tried to get her to head her Chicago group. She was enthusiastic until she found that that group is for modification, not for repeal. Then she changed her mind. Of course, we're for repeal.

"Naturally, we can't work with other women's organizations. If they want to join us and be under our head, all right, but we make no affiliations. Not that we wish to be snooty, but it wouldn't be practical. Then, you know, all our workers are volunteers. Money is no consideration with us."

Woman Member Sees 'Labels of Dry League' in Congress

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—Representative Mary T. Norton [Dem., N. J.], one of the three feminine wets in congress, created a mild sensation in the house today when, in the course of a blistering anti-prohibition speech, she told her colleagues that many of them wear "the unsavory label" of the Anti-Saloon league.

Charging that congress is and has been controlled to some extent by the dry organization and its allied church groups, the "gentlewoman from New Jersey" asserted that "the time has come when this stranglehold on perfectly honest members of congress shall be destroyed and paid lobbyists shall be driven from the halls." She urged those who are conscience-free to sign a petition for her bill providing for a national prohibition referendum.

Several male members of the house twisted uneasily in their seats as Mrs. Norton lashed the Anti-Saloon league and applied a woman's logic to various phases of the wet and dry problem.

Proved by Lobby Inquiry.

"I feel certain that many of you would like to be relieved of the unsavory label of the Anti-Saloon league," she declared, adding that the recent testimony before the senate lobby committee "conclusively proves this league to be what we have always suspected it to be, an organization of clever men who prey upon ignorance and prejudice for their own personal gain.

"If altruism prompted these men," she continued, "we could forgive their mistakes, but no such reason has been or ever will be found for the terrible crimes they are responsible for in their despicable work of threatening men and distorting facts."

Mrs. Norton turned from the Anti-Saloon league to the administration, calling attention to a recent speech by Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, asking Americans to travel at home and so encourage "Hoover prosperity."

Why Americans Leave Home.

"I wonder if Dr. Klein realizes that one of the principal reasons why so many Americans go abroad every summer is because greater freedom can be had in other countries?" she commented.

"The latest cruise offered now is an ocean trip to no particular port; just to relax and enjoy a cool drink beyond the eighteen mile limit—'enjoy violating the prohibition law while cruising on the high seas and return.' I imagine it will be a most popular trip for tired business people and of great financial benefit to our British brethren under whose auspices, I understand, the trip is planned."

Asks Wickersham Budget.

Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] today introduced in the senate a resolution calling upon the controller to make an immediate report upon the expenditures of the Wickersham commission, which now has a request pending before congress for a $250,000 appropriation to continue its investigation for a year after July 1.

Senator Glass declared that the "so-called law enforcement commission" has made "no adequate report in connection with prohibition enforcement."

COOK MEMBERS TO CAUCUS TODAY TO UNIFY ACTION

Will Demand "Relief" Measure Come First.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—All Cook county state senators and representatives have been summoned to a conference tomorrow morning for united action on the demand that the Emmerson and downstate forces consent to consideration of the Strawn relief bills for Cook county and its governmental subdivisions before disposition of the proposed revenue amendment to the state constitution is attempted.

If solidified upon a definite policy the group will control more than one-third of the votes of the two houses and be in a position to prevent the two-thirds vote required for approval of the amedment resolution.

Will Put It Up to Governor.

This situation will be made known to Gov. Emmerson and the decision whether he will permit the Shrawn committee's bills to have emergency consideration sought for them, or, as the spokesmen for the Cook delegation put it, throw the special session into a deadlock.

The supporters of the conference will recommend that all Cook county members take the position that they will not vote upon the constitutional proposal at this time while the situation is complicated by the delay of the pending emergency bills.

The plans for the alliance between Republicans and Democrats from Chicago and its suburbs took form during the second day given up to speakers on the constitutional question. an effort for united action could not be deferred longer?

Two Amendments Offered.

Senator Mason today presented for printing, so they may be considered when the constitutional resolution is taken up, two amendments to the recommendations of the revenue commission. One of these would add the following language:

"The state shall not receive more than 10 per cent of the net proceeds of any tax based upon income except by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the members elected to each house of the general assembly. Such distributions [to local governments, counties, etc.] shall be in accordance with the territorial source of the revenue."

The second one would wipe out the present proposal to eliminate the provision for uniformity of taxation and authorize classification of property. It reads:

"Taxes levied and exemptions established shall be by general law and uniform upon all objects or subjects of the same class. All real estate shall be in one class except that mineral land and land devoted to reforestation may be in different classes."

Speakers Are Heard.

A long list of speakers for and against the amendment proposed by the joint commissions on revenue created at Gov. Emmerson's request last year kept the two houses in joint session today and tonight. More of the speakers were opposed to the amendment—and the income tax, for which it would open the way—than were for it in its present form.

Attorney David R. Clarke, on behalf of the Illinois Manufacturers association, opposed both the amendment and an income tax.

"The proposed amendment to the constitution," he said, "will make Illinois an unsafe place for industry and for any interests that have income or property.

"Neither a classified state income tax nor the classification of intangibles for the purpose of lower rates will bring substantial relief to real estate. This is demonstrated by the results of the operation of such taxes in other states.

Would Drive Away Industries.

"A classified income tax and a classification of intangibles for taxation—if so used as to raise enough revenue to give real estate any material relief from its present taxation—will drive large property holders and industries away from Illinois. This is because they would carry the entire burden. The large property owner does not have to do this and the large industry cannot do this and live in present day competition.

"The real problem is too much taxes; and it is tied up inextricably with a lack of proper administrative laws and proper administration in local governments.

"The correction of this condition of lack of proper administrative laws and of proper administration of local fiscal matters must come before the state can intelligently consider new forms or additional forms of taxation."

Great Powers to Assembly.

"The general assembly under such an amendment," Mr. Clarke continued, "would have the power to adopt any and all additions and forms of taxation now known or which may hereafter be invented by man.

"The general assembly would have the power to create different classes of persons, of corporations, of property and of income for the purpose of applying to any of these different classes different forms of taxation and different rates of taxation.

"The general assembly would have the power to provide revenue by the single tax, by the sales or commodity tax, by the graduated income tax, by general property tax, by classified property tax, by occupation taxes, by excise or stamp taxes, and by any conceivable combinations or applications of any of these taxes.

Grant of Power Too Broad.

"The general assembly would have the power to distribute the proceeds of any of the taxes for which it might provide, practically as it as it might see fit.

"It other words, the adoption of such a proposal would place in the general assembly of Illinois the entire power of taxation, both state and local, without any substantial limitation upon that power.

"Probably there is no state where such a sweeping away of the limitations upon the power to tax would be so dangerous as in Illinois. We have inherent practical conditions in Illinois that make such a wide open power in the general assembly impractical and totally objectionable from the standpoint of industry, and, we submit, from the standpoint of all other elements in our political and economic life.

"The increase in the power to tax will mean more taxes," he declared. "It always has meant more taxes and it always will mean more taxes. The increasing of the power to tax and the provision for more taxes will not relieve real estate nor will it relieve any other tax payers."

Riley and Lutz Heard.

The first speaker before the joint session was Harrison B. Riley of the Chicago Title and Trust company. He described the operations of the joint revenue commission, of which he was a member, and the reasons for its conclusions. He declined to answer directly questions put to him by Representatives Schnackenberg and Igoe concerning his opinion on the necessity of apportionment in advance of the amendment proposed by the commission.

He was followed by Dr. Harley L. Lutz of the faculty of Princeton university, who began by saying that he was discussing the topic academically.

Attorney John Lyle Vette, representing the Chicago Real Estate board, opposed the classification of real estate and predicted that an amendment that would permit an income tax without protection for Cook county against injustice would be defeated by the people at the polls.

Other speakers were B. F. Lindheimer, for the Real Estate Taxpayers' association; Newton C. Farr, president of the Chicago Real Estate board; William Castleman, for the Illinois Taxpayers' league, and Attorney William F. Struckman.

At the evening session the speakers included Earl C. Smith and John C. Watson of the Illinois Agricultural association, and Douglas Sutherland of the Chicago Civic federation.

SOUTH DAKOTA G. O. P. CONVENTION CHOOSES GREEN FOR GOVERNOR

Pierre, S. D., May 20.—(AP)—Warren E. Green of Hazel, "dark horse" candidate, was nominated for governor by South Dakota Republicans at their state convention here late today, over four other candidates, including Miss Gladys Pyle, secretary of state.

Miss Pyle led in most of the ballots but was defeated when Brooke Howell of Frederick, her strongest opponent, withdrew. Howell's support then was thrown to Green, who received more than the majority of 55,995, necessary to nomination, on the eleventh ballot.

The woman candidate for the nomination led the field in the state primary two weeks ago, but failed to poll the requisite 35 per cent vote, throwing the nomination into a party convention.

The final vote on the eleventh ballot was: Green, 64,223; Pyle, 47,985; Carl Trygstad, Brookings, 4,340; Howell, 3,441, and Carl Gunderson, Mitchell, none.

Receive Bids on Lane H. S. After Plans Are Revised

Bids were being received yesterday for the proposed $6,500,000 Lane Technical High school at Addison street and Western avenue. The previous bids had been rejected by the subcommittee of the building and grounds committee of the board of education when it decided the plans as drawn were too ornate and sent them back to the architect for revision. The new bids will be passed on Monday.

DISABLED VETS WILL GET FIRST CALL FOR CIVIL SERVICE JOBS

Albany, N. Y., May 20.—[Special.]—Preference must be given disabled war veterans in civil service appointments, regardless of the position of their names on eligible lists, Attorney General Ward declared today in an opinion construing the veterans' preference act, which went into effect April 8.

In his opinion, given to the state civil service commission, Attorney General Ward also ruled that the time of application for an appointment by a disabled veteran is to be determined by the time when he or she notifies the appointing officer of willingness to accept appointment.

MOTHER SUES TO STOP "LIFE OF JEANNE EAGELS"

New York, May 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Julia Sullivan Eagels of Ossining, mother of the late Jeanne Eagels, star of "Rain" and other Broadway plays, applied today to Supreme Court Justice Valente for an injunction to restrain Liberty magazine from releasing for sale copies of the publication containing a series of articles on Miss Eagles' life. Argument on the application is to be heard tomorrow.

The magazine story of the actress' life was written by Edward Doherty. It was to have started May 31 to run for fifteen consecutive weeks. Advertisements described the series as the life of Jeanne Eagles "genius, drunkard, artist and hellion, poet and devil." The first five issues are already off the press, and to keep them off the stands, it is said, would cost the magazine more than $1,000,000.

Macdonald de Witt, attorney for the magazine, will argue against the application for the writ. He pointed out that while Mrs. Eagels seeks the injunction on the ground that the magazine story is a libel on the memory of her daughter, there is no provision in law to prevent its publication.

ADMIRAL SAYS IT'S FINE TREATY —FOR ENGLAND

Great for Japan, Too, Colleague Asserts.

ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—A procession of witnesses before the senate foreign relations and naval affairs committees today characterized the naval limitation treaty negotiated recently at London as disadvantageous to the United States.

Rear Admiral Jehu V. Chase, member of the navy general board, whose appointment to command of the United States fleet has just been announced, expressed the opinion that the treaty perpetuates the superiority of the British over the American navy and forces upon us a distribution of types of ships unsuited to our national defense requirements.

He also pronounced inimical to our best interests the increase of the Japanese ratio by 10 per cent so long as we are compelled to abide by the abandonment of our bases in the west ern Pacific, in consideration of which Japan accepted a 60 per cent ratio at the Washington conference.

Admiral Pringle Tells Flaws.

Rear Admiral J. R. P. Pringle, president of the navy war college, and a member of the general board and one of the naval advisers at London, said that he was called before the delegation only once for advice. That was on Feb. 5, when he opposed recession by the delegation from the demand for a minimum of twenty-one eight inch gun cruisers. He said he was never consulted on increasing the Japanese ratio. This increase, he said, leaves America with "less than an even chance" of victory in the event of war with Japan, which necessarily would be fought in the orient, far from our bases.

Capt. W. W. Smyth and Commander Harold C. Train, two other naval advisers at London, criticized as an "unwise concession" the acceptance of the British proposal which restricts us to eighteen big cruisers, less than we need, and allowed us to build more small ones than we need.

The only witness favoring the treaty was Admiral H. E. Yarnell, chief of the bureau of engineering, also an adviser at London, who said he thought the treaty would impel congress at last to build the navy we need.

May Wait Till Next Summer.

The hearings on the treaty will continue the remainder of this week before the foreign relations committee and probably longer before the naval affairs committee. The treaty will be favorably reported by the foreign relations committee and Chairman Borah will endeavor to procure its ratification before adjournment of this session. If, however, he should be unable to report the treaty to the senate by the time the tariff bill is disposed of, there will be a widely supported demand that consideration of the treaty be postponed till the winter session.

Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], majority leader, thinks that congress will adjourn about June 10.

"If the treaty should be reported to the senate before the tariff bill is out of the way," said Watson, "we could not run away from it. But if it is not ready to be acted on by that time I do not think it would be possible to hold senators here for another month to debate it."

Reed and Johnson Clash.

Toward the conclusion of the hearing in the foreign relations committee room Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] administered a severe rebuke to Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], whom the Californian accused of twisting testimony to impeach criticism of the treaty Reed helped to negotiate.

Reed had drawn from Admiral Chase the statement that the first three of our eight inch gun cruisers we have completed of the Salt Lake City class are vulnerable to six inch gun fire up to a range of 15,000 yards and the remaining ships to be built are being redesigned to provide greater armor protection.

"Only three out of the eight have been finished according to the specifications of the general board," said Reed, "five are still being built, and yet you now find they are so defective that you are not going to build any more of them."

"There was not anything of the sort said," Johnson exclaimed, turning wrathfully upon Reed across the table. "Let us repeat the witness' testimony with some degree of accuracy. I have not corrected you often, but when we repeat and when we comment let us do it with some degree of accuracy—I do not say fairness."

"May I ask the senator what led him to think that I was repeating testimony?" asked Reed. "I am not repeating his testimony. If I did I would be wasting time. I am asking a question."

"That sort of remark," snapped Johnson, "ought not to be made by you of all people sitting at this table. You ought to be here in a judicial frame of mind, and you ought to be here willing to listen to the testimony that is given here. Sitting here as proponent, as witness, as advocate, as judge, and as jury, you ought to be exceedingly fair in respect to the testimony of witnesses."

"I am grateful to the senator for his lecture and I will try to keep his own temperate frame of mind," said Reed.

"Thank you, sir."

"—And absence of bias."

"You will be infinitely better if you do," was Johnson's last word.

Our Naval Defenses.

Admiral Chase previously had directed attention to the fact that there was no consideration at London of a revision of Article XIX. of the Washington treaty under which the United States, Great Britain and Japan agreed to maintain the status quo of defenses in outlying possessions in the western Pacific.

"The territory of the United States to which these restrictions apply," said the admiral, "is greater in area and value than is the territory of either Great Britain or Japan to which the same restrictions apply. Moreover, in the case of the United States these Pacific possessions are much farther from the nearest point of support.

"Article XIX., therefore, operates decidedly to the disadvantage of the United States and places this country in an obviously inferior position. The defense of these overseas possessions of the United States, so long as this article remains in force, becomes an exceedingly difficult problem. The influence of this article is far reaching, and produces a marked effect upon the number and military characteristics of the various naval units needed to make up the categories of the navy of the United States."

Affects Japanese Status.

Admiral Chase could not comprehend how the increase in the ratio of the Japanese to the American navy provided by the London treaty could be justified "so long as Article XIX. of the Washington treaty remains in force."

Responding to a question by Senator Johnson, Admiral Chase said that naval men generally consider the life of a cruiser to be 20 instead of the 16 years fixed by the treaty.

"Under that clause changing the age limit for certain cruisers, in 1936 will Britain and Japan have a large amount of cruiser tonnage under construction which we cannot match?" asked Johnson.

"Yes, sir," the admiral replied.

"That of itself gives an advantage, does it not?" Johnson pursued.

"It would appear so to me, sir," Chase answered.

The admiral said that under the reduction of cruiser life to 16 years the British will be able to have all but two of their cruisers except two in course of replacement in 1936, when the treaty expires.

Old Ships Versus New.

Senator Johnson questioned the admiral on the contention of the American delegation that parity in battleships is attained by the right to modernize our capital ships conceded by the British. Admiral Chase said the British battleships Rodney and Nelson are faster than any and outrange in gun fire most of ours.

"Will modernization made an old battleship equal to one of new construction, such as the Rodney or the Nelson?" asked Johnson.

"No, sir," the admiral replied.

Senator Reed asked Admiral Chase if it were not true that instead of three-fifths Japan now has 2½ times our cruiser tonnage.

"When you talk of maintaining a ratio of five for us and three for her, we have no such ratio to maintain, have we?" Reed demanded.

"I think, Senator," Chase replied, "it might be pertinent in answering that to refer to a report of our delegation on the Washington treaty. It at least seems to me that Japan acceded in principle to the ratio of 5-3 in all categories. They could not agree to any categories except capital ships and airplane carriers in that treaty."

Questioned by Reed.

"In the Washington conference they tried to limit Japan to 5-3 in cruisers and did not succeed in limiting her at any ratio, did they?"

"They did not succeed in placing the limitation, but she accepted the principle. That is the point I wish to make, sir."

"If she accepted the principle why did she go on and build up more than two and a half to our one? That is not accepting a principle, is it?"

"She did what she considered was right. Because we did not go ahead and maintain that ratio was no fault of hers. It was rather a fault of ours, I should say."

"If a ratio of 5 to 3½ in cruisers exposes the United States to some danger, then we must be in grave peril at this moment, are we not?", Reed pursued.

"I would hardly put it in grave peril, sir, but I do not think it is a condition that we should perpetuate."

Senator Reed asked if it will not be to our advantage that under the treaty Japan stops building cruisers and we build past her. Admiral Chase assented, but insisted the Washington treaty ratio should have been preserved.

3 LEGISLATIVE CANDIDATES ASK VOTE RECOUNTS

An invasion of the north side by floaters at the April primaries was charged in three petitions filed in court yesterday asking for recounts on three Republican legislative nominations. Wallace F. Kirk in filing a contest against Senator John T. Joyce, who won in the 29th district by 271 votes, charges that 1,000 nonregistered persons voted for Joyce and that persons other than the judges were permitted to count the ballots. The vote stood: Joyce, 4,268; Kirk, 3,997.

Herbert W. Auw in contesting the nomination of Senator Herman J. Haenisch, who won in the 31st district by 252 votes, alleges in his petition that his watchers and workers were intimidated at the polls, and that "disreputable characters" interfered with the returns. The final count was: Haenisch, 11,664; Auw, 11,412.

Roy Juul, in asking a recount on Republican state representatives in the 31st district, alleges that 1,000 floaters came into the district to help his opponents. The count stood: James McVicker, 29,358; Blaine H. Milligan, 24,091; Juul, 23,972. Juul failed of winning one of the two places by 119 votes.

Eliminate it from your home by installing a Timken Oil Burner

AUTOMATIC
No work. No worry. Heat as you want it, when you want it.

Everything has its day and passes into history as progress provides a better way. The old coal oil lamp is an antique to your children. Their children will look upon the fuel scoop as a relic of old-fashioned heating methods—in days not very far distant.

Timken Oil Heat makes obsolete the old, hand-wrecking fuel scoop, and the manual labor it represents. Ashes and dust and dirt become things of the past. Home heating is made easy and carefree. As dependable as water service or electric light, and usually more economical than old-fashioned fuels.

For the simplified Timken Oil Burner, with only one moving part, has nothing to get out of order—and nothing to cause noise. It is reliable and it is quiet. Automatically, it keeps the house uniformly warm regardless of changing outdoor temperatures. There is no work. No worry. No uncertainty.

Now, when house cleaning is the order of the day, why not clean house in the basement, too? Why not replace your old-fashioned heating equipment with a modern Timken now!

CLEAN
Make a new recreation room where the coal bin now is.

This picture is visionary, to some extent, of a time not far distant when every home will be heated without need of manual labor—without worry or concern—automatically—as the quiet running Timken Oil Burner does it.

Only $50 now—nothing more until next fall
(In territories served by our branch offices)

This very special spring offer enables you to secure Timken labor-saving comfort and peace of mind for cool mornings and evenings at a very low cost. It permits installation with no inconvenience. It assures preparedness for next fall and winter.

Pay only $50 now. That will give you a complete Timken outfit, to exactly suit your needs, expertly installed. You need not pay one penny more until next fall when the real heating season begins.

Remember, too, that the great Timken organization is behind the Timken Oil Burner. That's a guaranty in itself—a guaranty that means something. Trained men make Timken installations. When service is required, which is very infrequently according to many thousands of users, trained men are at your command.

GANDHI REVEALS TERMS OF PEACE IN INDIA CELL

Gives Out First Interview Since British Jailed Him

a mad risk," he remarked, "but it is a justifiable risk. No great end has been achieved without incurring danger."

Nevertheless, he said he was gravely alarmed by the violence said to have been committed at Sholapur. He was grieved at the death of the two policemen killed there, but he was convinced the violence had not come from civil resisters. He said they had been ordered to suffer everything, even violence, without resistance.

I asked if he thought that in a struggle between law breakers and the authorities the government could acknowledge defeat.

"I am an optimist," he said, smiling. "In forty years of struggle I have frequently been told that I was attempting the impossible, but invariably I have proved the contrary."

Nevertheless, he did not refuse to negotiate, he pointed out, adding:

"My life has been nothing but a record of settlements."

Lists His Own Terms.

From our subsequent conservation I gathered that even at this critical hour a settlement is possible and that Mr. Gandhi was prepared to recommend to his congress the suspension of the civil disobedience movement and coöperation in the round table conference, which will meet in London Oct. 20, on the following terms:

1. The terms of reference to the round table conference shall include the framing of a constitution giving India the substance of independence.

2. Satisfaction shall be granted to Mr. Gandhi's demands for the repeal of the salt tax, for the prohibition of liquor and for a ban on foreign cloth.

3. Amnesty shall be accorded to prisoners convicted of political offenses, to coincide with the end of the civil disobedience campaign.

4. The remaining seven points raised in Mr. Gandhi's letter to the viceroy shall be left for future discussion.

Britain Needs His Coöperation.

I believe the British Indian government will court disaster if it persists in the tragic error of regarding Mr. Gandhi and his congress as a negligible political force in India. Mr. Gandhi's coöperation alone can make the round table conference a reality. Is the government prepared to make an honorable peace with him?

Negotiation is still possible. After my two meetings with Mr. Gandhi in prison I am convinced that conciliation will be met with conciliation, but that violence on either side will never compel surrender.

3,000 Raiders Jailed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CALCUTTA, May 20.—A fourth government salt factory on the west coast has been besieged by Gandhi followers, it is reported here. No important disorders in any region have been reported recently.

Arrests, exceeding 3,000, have been made for salt raids alone. Pandit Malaviya, who led the Wadala salt raid with 250 volunteers, has been arrested, although all but 25 of the raiding party escaped capture.

The eighth consecutive editor of the Hyderabad Hindu has been arrested and this paper is now being issued by means of a stylograph from the headquarters of the national India congress.

N. Y. 'JAYWALKERS' FINED $5 EACH, BUT IT IS SUSPENDED

New York, May 20.—[Special.]—Ivor Loren of the Hotel Breslin, first of the "jay-walkers" caught in the new police campaign to regulate pedestrian traffic, was found guilty as charged and fined $5 when he appeared before Chief City Magistrate William McAdoo today.

His fine was suspended. One by one, each of thirty-six other persons given summonses yesterday, followed Loren to the bar, and were dealt with in similar fashion.

"Bargain day lasts one day only, however," Magistrate McAdoo warned. "I feel that citizens had very short notice of the new rules. For the last 150 years pedestrians have enjoyed the privilege of using the streets at will."

The Loren case, despite the suspension of the fine, is to be made one of the "test" actions to determine whether the police commissioner's power to regulate use of the streets extends to pedestrians as well as vehicular traffic.

DAVIS DEFEATS SENATOR GRUNDY IN PENNSYLVANIA

ex-Gov. Pinchot, for whom labor is strong, is getting almost as many votes as Secretary Davis, who is supported by organized labor and carries a union card. Mr. Brown is being cut greatly by labor and suffering from the defection of the organization wet vote.

That the Vare machine here has lost little of its power to deliver for its chosen candidates was demonstrated by these returns from 785 districts in Philadelphia:

For Senator: Davis, 114,769; Grundy, 24,987; Bohlen [wet], 44,422.

For governor: Brown, 114,589; Pinchot, 22,410; Phillips [wet], 46,321.

The effectiveness of the opposition to Senator Grundy was being shown in the returns. The powerful Pennsylvania railroad, which was viciously attacked by Grundy, the utility companies and other dominating industries were arrayed against him, and supported Davis. Senator Grundy's campaign was affected by his early denunciation of Gen. Atterbury, whom he charged with political trickery, and of awarding contracts without competition to the Vare contracting concern.

While the anti-Grundy interests were just as active behind Brown, the wet opposition centered largely upon him because of his "straddle" position on the 18th amendment.

In Philadelphia, ward leaders reported today that gunmen patrolled voting places and that voters were frightened into letting organization workers mark their ballots.

The police and special observers were advised that votes were openly purchased at $5 each, and that liquor had been exchanged for ballots. Two Grundy workers in the first ward were set upon by six men, who beat them severely and fled in an automobile.

INJURIES FATAL TO AUTO VICTIM; TOLL NOW IS 330

John Gorman, 68 years old, 66 West Van Buren street, a laborer, died at the county hospital yesterday from injuries received when he was run down by an automobile last April 14 at Van Buren and Canal streets. James Shackleford, 6056 South Racine avenue, driver of the machine, was not held.

This death increased the county motor toll for the year to 330.

Carbon monoxide gas from the exhaust of his automobile yesterday caused the death of Edward P. Neumann, 54 years old, who was found seated in his machine in the garage at the rear of his home, 321 South Cuyler avenue, Oak Park. The body was discovered by his daughter, Mrs. Grace Campbell. Police said Neumann apparently shut off the motor just before he was overcome.

SHOT ROUTS LONE BANK ROBBER.

REPORT IL DUCE BACKS BOY, 17, AS KING OF HUNGARY

Story Says Otto Will Take Throne in November.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, May 20.—Backed by no less a power than Benito Mussolini, premier of Italy, Archduke Otto, heir to the throne of the Hapsburgs, will be crowned king of Hungary next November, according to a story published today by Pravo Lidu, a daily Prague newspaper, which claims to have inside information.

Otto becomes of age—18 is the legal age of the Hapsburgs—on Nov. 22 of this year, and on that date, according to the story, his engagement to Princess Maria, youngest daughter of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, will be announced.

Duce Said to Approve.

Il Duce and the papal secretary, Cardinal Pacelli, are said to have given their stamp of approval to the match.

On the same day, Nov. 22, the Hungarian parliament will officially proclaim the termination of Admiral Nicholas Horthy's regency, says the paper, and will name Otto as king. A statement is already reported to have been prepared for reading to parliament, declaring that the Hapsburgs were dethroned by force and that Otto, as legal heir, will succeed to the crown of St. Stephen at the will of parliament.

Little Entente Fights Move.

Little credence is given to the story by circles in close touch with the Hungarian monarchists.

Legally, Hungary is still a kingdom, and undoubtedly the sentiment of the majority of Hungarians favors crowning Otto as king. But both the little entente nations and their protector, France, have announced that they will resort to arms before allowing the restoration of the Hapsburgs.

LADY ASTOR IS TOLD SHE'S "NOT A LADY" BY WORKING WOMAN

NOTTINGHAM, England, May 20.—(AP)—Lady Astor was told today—and by a working woman—that she was no lady.

The American born member of the house of commons was addressing a women's meeting, and in the course of her speech referred to George Lansbury, first commissioner of works, as "a dear old soul, muddle headed and half witted."

Whereupon the woman of the working class interjected heatedly:

IRVING POND IN GYMNAST ROLE AT AGE OF 72 YRS.

Irving K. Pond, Chicago architect, donned trunks in the Pond athletic room at the City club yesterday and, despite his 72 years, showed an admiring group of fellow club members some gymnastics that might stump many men of half his age. His stunts included a back flip off a springboard, a forward somersault in the air and juggling of a volley ball.

A talking picture was made of Mr. Pond's exhibition, which marked the formal opening of the athletic room named in honor of Mr. Pond's late brother, Allen B. Pond, who also was a well known architect. The athletic room is restricted to members of the City club. A luncheon preceded the exercises. Edward Seghers is director of athletics at the club.

CONFEREES NEAR AGREEMENT ON TARIFF MEASURE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—Tariff conferees of the senate and house today predicted a complete agreement on the items remaining in dispute tomorrow or the next day. The conferees had a preliminary discussion on duties on lumber and cement, but did not reach the export debenture and flexible repeal provisions on which the senate voted yesterday to give them a free hand.

Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah] said he thought the conference report could be submitted to the senate by the end of the week and that favorable action should be taken by the two houses within a week or ten days.

The conferees are certain to eliminate the export debenture provision, and will adopt a compromise flexible tariff provision which will be closer to the house than to the senate language.

The President, it is expected, will retain the power to change duties as in the house bill, but on the basis of differences in costs of production as provided in the present law rather than to equalize competitive conditions as provided by the house bill. The tariff commission will be continued as a bipartisan commission of six members, as provided by the senate bill, instead of a nonpartison commission of seven, as in the house bill.

Wife, 19, Granted Divorce; Sister Backs Cruelty Plea

Mrs. Norma A. Beaupre, 19 years old, 210 Eugenie street, yesterday won a divorce from her husband, John R. Beaupre, an electrician, in Judge Charles A. Williams' court. She charged her husband with repeated cruelty and her testimony was supported by her sister, Miss Virginia Harrison. The couple were married in Crown Point on Dec. 22, 1927, and separated on Jan. 19, 1930. Mrs. Beaupre was represented by Attorney James J. O'Toole.

BARBER'S STORY OPENS NEW ANGLE IN CANAL INQUIRY

Quiz Party Leaders on Expense Accounts.

Robert C. Scelze, Hotel Sherman barber, who confessed before the special grand jury in the renewed sanitary district investigation that he was a pay roll dummy for Democratic politicians, opened the way for the calling of some well known ward leaders before the grand jury. First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, in charge of the investigation, made this announcement yesterday as he took two Democratic ward chieftains before the jury to explain expense accounts equal to or exceeding their salaries.

Scelze, in his confession before the jury Monday, disclosed what prosecutors described as a system of draining the district treasury by use of expense accounts. Scelze also named the brother-in-law of a Democratic member of the draining board under the régime of Timothy J. Crowe as the man with whom he split his salary and expenses. The prosecutor declined to divulge this name.

Says He Did No Work.

Scelze said he did no work for the district other than collect salary checks as an employé of the permanent plant and structure department. A similar name also appeared on the law department investigator pay roll, Prosecutor Northup said. Scelze collected $1,773.69 during 1928 for "expenses."

The prosecutor said that Scelze collected approximately $500 per month and retained $150 of this sum, paying the remainder to the politician who had him "put on the pay roll."

As a result of Scelze's confession the prosecutor said he has started to call before the grand jury every person shown as collecting a large expense account in addition to a salary.

Connors Principal Witness.

William J. Connors, the Forty-second ward Democratic chieftain, who was under indictment in the original investigation but who escaped prosecution through the four term act when the state's attorney's office failed to prosecute him, was the principal witness.

Prosecutor Northup said he asked Connors, formerly chief clerk in the law department of the district, a one time member of the Dever cabinet, to explain the $4,136.51 expense account issued to "William Connors." His salary was $4,400 per year. Several other expense accounts appear under initials such as "W. G. Connors," and the prosecutor was anxious to learn, he said, if they all went to the witness or to other persons of a similar name.

Maurice [Mossy] Cullerton, a southwest side Democratic politician, who now owns a restaurant near the new Criminal court building, was asked to explain, Northup said, a $4,561.90 expense account as a law department investigator as compared with a $3,300 per year salary.

Other ward leaders to be called within the next few days, it was announced are Arthur P. O'Brien, a former city hall employé under the Dever regime, who drew $4,870.62 for expenses as compared with $3,666.52 per year salary; D. A. [Doc] Moses, north side politician with an expense account of $2,201.95; E. D. Potts, Crowe-Galpin chieftain in the 27th ward with an expense account of $2,386.26 as compared with a salary of $3,150; J. J. McLaughlin, with an expense account of $2,607.67, and Harry Eckstein, 542 South Dearborn street, listed with an expense account of $3,453.26. McLaughlin is an official of the White Cliff Road Base Material company in the Conway building.

State's Attorney's detectives hunted in vain yesterday, Assistant State's Attorney Jo Calvin Webb said, for George L. Chamberlain, head of the U. S. A. company, electrical contractors, who installed the $1,000,000 lighting system on the north shore channel road. He was to be a witness before the jury today.

Jack L. Devine, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge John J. Sullivan.

WHALEN HANDS HIS POLICE STAR TO MULROONEY

New York's "Greeter" Goes Back to Old Job.

New York, May 20.—[Special.]—New York City has a new police commissioner—or will have at noon tomorrow when he formally takes the oath of office. He is Edward P. Mulrooney, 57, until now deputy chief inspector of the department with a record dating back to January, 1896, when the late Theodore Roosevelt put him on the force.

Mulrooney was called to the difficult post of heading New York's "finest" this afternoon when Grover Whalen, widely known as the administration's official "glad hander," tendered his resignation to go back to Wanamaker's Department store where he resigned as manager about a year ago to become a police boss.

Announcement of the appointment of a man from the force came as a big surprise generally. A dozen or more luminaries of politics, among them Richard C. Patterson Jr., commissioner of correction, and Maj. William Deegan, tenement house commissioner, had been suggested for the job.

The fact that the choice settled on Mulrooney was accepted in knowing circles as conclusive evidence that the retiring commissioner had dictated as his successor a man he elevated to the post of assistant chief inspector.

NEW POLICE HEAD IS APPOINTED TO CLEAN UP DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., May 20.—[Special.]—Harold H. Emmons, the business man who four months ago was appointed police commissioner and told to clear the city of thugs and gamblers, was fired this afternoon by Mayor Bowles, the man who appointed him.

Thomas C. Wilcox will succeed him. Wilcox resigned today as chief of the United States department of justice in this city, and announced that he will give this city a "law and order" police administration.

Wilcox has been a police detective, a reporter for Chicago newspapers, confidential investigator for cities and police departments throughout the United States and for the last 12 years one of the star agents of the department of justice. He has served four presidents of the United States—Wilson, Harding, Coolidge and Hoover—as a confidential investigator operating directly from the White House.

BRITISH CABINET CHIEF QUITS OVER UNEMPLOYMENT

Oswald Mosley Disagrees with MacDonald.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 20.—Climaxing the strong divergencies of opinion concerning the government's unemployment policy and as a protest against that policy, the MacDonald government received a severe blow tonight when Sir Oswald Mosley, chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, resigned. Sir Oswald had a long interview with the prime minister tonight, at which the latter accepted the resignation.

The split follows last night's unemployment debate in the house of commons, when the government barely escaped defeat with a majority of 15 votes. Sir Oswald, whose wife is Lady Cynthia Curzon, daughter of the first marchioness of Curzon, the former Mary Leiter of Chicago, was one of the cabinet ministers especially appointed by Mr. MacDonald to assist with the unemployment problem. His resignation is the culmination of a long feud with J. H. Thomas, unemployment minister, over the latter's methods in tackling the problem.

Wanted More Action.

Sir Oswald recently drew up a memorandum urging a bolder approach to the question, but Mr. Thomas refused to adopt the proposals. This led Sir Oswald and two cabinet colleagues, George Lansbury and Tom Johnston, to submit a special memorandum direct to the premier over Mr. Thomas' head. A special cabinet subcommittee examined Sir Oswald's scheme for relief work, which involved the expenditure of a billion dollars. The subcommittee turned down the proposals.

Sir Oswald then decided to resign, insisting that the government's policy did not meet the demands of the situation. He will join the government critics on the back benches and is planning to start a national campaign in support of the policy rejected by the cabinet subcommittee. Sir Oswald, who is a millionaire, has a large following among the Labor rank and file, and is one of the half dozen figures in Labor circles whose possibilities politically are incalculable.

Conservatives Also in Trouble.

The opposition also is having its troubles. A section of about ninety Conservative diehards are worrying former Premier Stanley Baldwin by their stand against the ratification of part III. of the London naval treaty, which contains the agreement between the United States, Great Britain and Japan but excludes Italy and France. Mr. Baldwin received a deputation of these Conservative back benches today and expressed the opinion that an official opposition to the naval treaty as suggested might open the door to a possible misrepresentation in the country concerning the Conservative attitude on disarmament. It is probable that as a result of his view the motion, which already has been placed on the order paper in the house of commons, may now be withdrawn.

EDITORS DISCUSS PRESS PROBLEMS AT CONVENTION

The problems of newspaper operation, as viewed by the editors and publishers of more than 200 dailies published in fourteen central states and Canada, were discussed yesterday at the Morrison hotel in the first sessions of a two day meeting of the Inland Daily Press association. The convention will close this afternoon.

Weighing features and comic strips on the one hand and local and national news on the other, the editors discussed "What the Public Wants" in a symposium. Business matters occupying their attention included advertising promotion, cost finding, and "Local and National Advertising Rate Differential," which was discussed by N. P. Poynter, publisher of the Kokomo (Ind.) Dispatch.

LOESCH RENEWS PLEA TO CHECK CICERO GAMBLING

Sheriff in Reply Says His Force Is Inadequate.

Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime commission, yesterday made another appeal to Sheriff John E. Traeger for a concerted drive against gambling in Cicero. In a letter to the sheriff Mr. Loesch stated the only result of the occasional raids has been greater enthusiasm among gamblers, larger attendance at the gambling tables, and more profits for Alphonse Capone.

"Since Dec. 31, 1928," Mr. Loesch wrote, "the crime commission has written 50 letters to you concerning conditions in Cicero—giving detailed information as to locations, attendance and methods."

Although many of the smaller places have been closed, Mr. Loesch said, this has caused only a concentration of the gambling business in a few large resorts. Attendance at these places is so great that men stand six deep around the tables, the sheriff was advised.

Replies From Officials.

"At intervals raids have been made on places that reopened within a few hours," the letter stated. "As this activity is a fruitful source of income to a group of public enemies, your attention is again directed to the desirability of closing these places and keeping them closed."

Mr. Loesch's letter drew statements from Sheriff Traeger, Martin Wojciekowsky, police chief in Cicero, and others, that the raids will be continued but that the situation is fairly well under control.

"Gambling in Cicero has always been a curse to Cook county," the sheriff said. "I will do what I can."

The difficulty in keeping the places closed, he said, is due to a shortage of policemen. Since Cicero is an organized community and has more policemen than the sheriff's office, he said, the problem is really one for Cicero to handle.

Lacks Men, Sheriff Says.

There are only 75 men on the county highway police force, Traeger explained. Working in three shifts and with several men always on the sick list there are only about 20 men available to cover the county at one time, he said.

NATIONAL CONFERENCE NEXT WEEK ON RELIEF OF HIGHWAY TIE-UP

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—Separation of grades and wider roadways will be two of the outstanding recommendations for metropolitan area traffic relief made by the national conference on street and highway safety which convenes in Washington for its annual three day meeting next Tuesday.

Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont today made public an advance report of the conference committee on traffic congestion stressing the "growing impatience with the rate of travel in metropolitan areas and the insistence for average speeds that approach those possible on the highways in the less populated districts." The committee, which has conducted an intensive study of congestion problems, is headed by E. J. Mehren of Chicago.

"Permanent relief measures must include creation of major thoroughfares in accordance with traffic flow needs, improvement of intersections, elimination of grade crossings with high frequency of vehicle or train movement, widening of roadways, street extensions, parallel routes, new arterial highways, development of by-pass routes, construction of parkways, development of off-street parking and loading, and provision for playgrounds for children," the report said.

The report gives particular attention to intersections described as "invariably the points of greatest congestion," proposing grade separations as preferable to temporary expedients such as traffic lights.

OLD DOCTOR'S IDEA IS BIG HELP TO ELDERLY PEOPLE

In 1885, old Dr. Caldwell made a discovery for which elderly people the world over praise him today!

Years of practice convinced him that many people were endangering their health by a careless choice of laxatives. So he began a search for a harmless prescription which would be thoroughly effective, yet would neither gripe nor form any habit. At last he found it.

Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out of sorts, weak or feverish; with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. It relieved the most obstinate cases, and yet was gentle with women, children and elderly people.

Today the same famous, effective prescription, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is the world's most popular laxative. It may be obtained from any drug-store.

CRIME BELONGS ON PAGE ONE, IN RANDOLPH VIEW

He Gibes N. Y. Papers for "Burying" News.

News of Chicago crime should properly be placed on the front pages of the city's newspapers, Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, told members of the National Safety Council at a dinner at the Union League club last night.

"You can't clean a room by sweeping the dirt under the bed," he declared.

Then he smiled in the direction of several New Yorkers present as he added that news of major crimes in New York is often conspicuously absent from the front pages of that city's newspapers and is "more frequently found tucked away amongst the advertisements inside the paper."

Blames Booze for Crime.

The illicit liquor traffic, "whatever may be thought about the Volstead law," is largely responsible for Chicago crime, Col. Randolph said.

"Beer costs $2 a barrel to produce and sells for $60," he went on. "Alcohol costs 40 cents a gallon to cook and they get $12 for it. Enormous profits there. And the paying of enormous graft to somebody goes with it. Illicit liquor couldn't be distributed otherwise.

"We can't hope to cope with crime as long as this source of enormous bootlegging profits exists."

Gangs perpetrating almost every kind of crime in Chicago—bootlegging, hi-jacking, labor racketeering—are interlocked," he declared. "If the booze industry gets dull they turn to something else," he said.

Tells of North Side Shooting.

The recent north side shooting in which "Limpy" White, Investigator Altmeier of the state's attorney's office and two other men were killed was "significant," Col. Randolph declared. He said that White was trying to organize the telegraphers' union when he was killed. Col. Randolph told of the efforts of the "Secret Six" committee of the association of commerce to obtain evidence, which he described as "a most difficult job."

Awards to the winners in the annual steam railroad accident prevention contest were presented at the dinner. Employes of the following railroad systems won trophies: the Union Pacific; Oregon-Washington Railway and Navigation company; Los Angeles and Salt Lake railway; Gulf Mobile and Northern railroad; Duluth and Iron Range railroad; Conemaugh and Black Lick railroad, and the Pullman company. Lew R. Palmer, a past president of the safety council, presided.

NEW YORK ASSURED $12,000,000 SEPARATE U. S. COURT BUILDING

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—New York City virtually is assured a separate federal court building to cost more than 12 million dollars. This was learned at the treasury today.

Negotiations have progressed to a sufficient degree with the municipal authorities that officials felt safe in saying that arrangements would be made for the erection of a monumental structure to house the courts and another building for a postoffice station to replace that in City Hall park.

Arrangements will be made to vacate the City Hall postoffice site and turn it over to the municipality, to be worked into the plan for the municipal center.

The government probably will buy a federal court building site.

BUNDESEN PRAISES CHICAGO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—Stories about crime, corruption and all around wickedness in Chicago were denounced by Coroner Herman Bundesen of Chicago at a breakfast given by the Chicago Advertising council at the Willard hotel.

The Chicago breakfast represented a new form of community advertising intended to help counteract Chicago's unfavorable publicity. It was sponsored by the advertising council in conjunction with the Chicago Real Estate board, Better Business bureau, and Association of Commerce at the opening of the annual convention of the Advertising Federation of America. Special guests included Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont, Senators Charles S. Deneen and Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.], and Chicago members of the house of representatives.

Dr. Bundesen described as "absolute folly" and "gross misinformation" current statements that Chicago is a lawless city where citizens fear to walk abroad at night and where corruption is accepted as a part of the town's daily life.

"Chicago's homicide rate is not the highest in the nation," he said. "In the number of murders per 100,000 population during 1929 Chicago stood not first nor second but last in a list of 39 large American cities.

"Much also has been said about Chicago's demoralized financial affairs, and yet our per capita debt is about one-third of New York's, less than one-half of Philadelphia's, and a little more than one-half of Pittsburgh's and Detroit's."

CHICAGO WINS A VICTORY FOR LAKE DIVERSION

Senate Committee O. K.'s Illinois Waterway.

ress tonight, were inclined to believe the bill now stands a good chance for passage.

"I believe that the chances for putting the bill through are immeasurably improved," Senator Johnson stated. "I am hopeful that the bill may be reported to the senate Thursday. Of course, it will be open to amendments and a fight on the floor, but I do not think a filibuster will develop."

Filibuster Is Unlikely.

Senator Vandenberg said that although the bill seemed "less objectionable" to him with the compromise on the New York barge canal provision that he still is opposed to it. He did not say, however, that he will start a filibuster.

Senator Vandenberg has been hostile to the New York canal plan providing for federal acquisition and improvement of the canal, on the ground that it would endanger the St. Lawrence waterway project.

As amended by the senate committee, the bill authorizes the secretary of war to accept from the state of New York the Erie and Oswego canals and to operate and maintain them at their present depth at an annual estimated cost of $2,500,000 "as barge canals only and not as, or with any intention to make them, ship channels, or to hinder or delay the improvement of the St. Lawrence waterway.

Compromise Provisions.

The compromise provision provides further that the transfer shall be made without liability for damage to the United States and shall include all land, easements, structures and appurtenances, adding that no project for widening or deepening the canals shall proceed with subsequent authorization of congress.

Following its disposal of the New York and Illinois provisions the committee rejected a proposal to include in the bill a flat authorization for deepening the upper Mississippi river channel from 6 to 9 feet. It approved, however, an amendment authorizing the expenditure of an unexpended balance of $10,000,000 on the upper Missouri river in addition to the $15,000,000 authorization in the house bill.

SCHOOL GIRL SUES DENISON; CHARGES HIS CAR INJURED HER

Harrisburg, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—Lloyd Melton, Harrisburg attorney, has filed suit in Marion City court against Congressman E. E. Denison, Marion, Twenty-fifth Illinois district, asking $20,000 damages for Thelma Knight, a Belknap High school girl, injured in an auto accident in which Denison was involved near Mounds, Ill., last fall. The accident is said to have occurred as Denison was on the way to Cairo to speak at the dedication of the bridge across the Mississippi river. A permanent injury resulted, the suit charges.

Denison figured prominently last year in connection with alleged discovery of liquor in his luggage after a steamer trip.

Denison Gives Version.

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—Representative Denison [Rep., Ill.] today said the suit filed by Miss Thelma Knight of Belknap, Ill., grew out of a mishap for which he was not to blame.

AIM TO REFOREST MILLION ACRES OF ILLINOIS LAND

Izaak Walton League to Seek Legislation.

Illinois' depleted timber lands, now reduced from 42 per cent to 10 per cent of the state's area, will be reforested if plans of the Illinois division of the Izaak Walton League of America materialize.

Dr. P. R. Blodgett of Chicago Heights, president of the division, yesterday announced a reforestation scheme, which, although it would extend over a period of years, aims at the eventual restoration of more than one million wooded acres. Each of the 22 local chapters of the league in Illinois is conducting a survey to specify the tracts of land which seem desirable for reforestation.

"We are aiming at restitution, not conservation," said Dr. Blodgett. "You can't conserve what you don't have. In this country we are cutting our timber six times as fast as we are planting it. Less than 25 per cent of the timber stand of the United States is left."

Will Seek Legislation.

The league will propose legislation at Springfield next winter, Dr. Blodgett said, for the state purchase of "borderlands" in the tier of counties extending south from a point perhaps 150 miles north of Cairo.

"Borderlands," said Dr. Blodgett, "are poor farm lands—lands on which tenants can eke out an existence, but which are not, economically speaking, agricultural lands. It would, we believe, be a good investment for the state to purchase a great amount of this semi-productive land, perhaps through a federal-state aid plan or on its own responsibility. If properly districted and reforested, it would yield, in time, sufficient lumber to care for the major part of the state's demands, without depletion.

"Large firms could obtain their entire supply of lumber without going to the expense of shipping it from other parts of the country, and, while the chief purpose of these forests would be economic, they would provide natural and very beautiful public parks. We can look to France and Germany for scientific reforestation. Their city, state, and national woods bring a definite return and furnish employment for hundreds of foresters."

The league survey of the lands will not be completed for almost a year, Dr. Blodgett believes, but he hopes to have the specifications of a number of desirable tracts by fall, so that they may be definitely identified in legislative bills.

The league is also in favor of turning back about 80 per cent of the marsh lands bordering the Illinois and Mississippi rivers which have been reclaimed as farm lands, Dr. Blodgett said.

"It would certainly seem advisable to let this land remain marsh, as a benefit to flood control," he said. "As it is now, the land is flooded annually by high waters and the farmers who occupy it must be 'rescued.' This rescue business is a dangerous subsidy. By the time we have rescued them three or four times we could pay for the land. It has little value now, but as marsh it would be ideal for fish and migratory birds."

HANGING FROM ROOF WITH NECK BROKEN, HE DIRECTS AID, BUT DIES

Le Roy, Ill., May 20.—(AP)—Dangling from a roof with his neck broken, George Harvey, 18, of Somerset, Ind., directed attempts to rescue him, but when he was loosened and lowered to the ground the youth was dead. Harvey was painting the roof of the Wrigley grain elevator when he slipped. The safety rope stopped his plunge, but became tangled about his neck, and Harvey was caught in mid air eight feet below the roof. Rescuers hurried to the roof of the building and tried to pull the youth to safety, but failed, and Harvey advised them to get an extension ladder. The ladder was too short and Harvey told them to procure another rope and lower him. This was done, but Harvey was dead when his body touched the ground.

SIGNS OF A REGIONAL AWAKENING.

Representatives of the commerce commissions of five of the central states have organized to oppose the Pittman bill now under consideration in Washington. This is the bill which would deprive the Mississippi valley by law of its former markets on the Pacific coast. These markets were lost when the cheap freights through the Panama canal placed the eastern seaboard in a position to undersell the central states, even though producers in this region are a thousand miles nearer the west coast than their eastern rivals.

The present commerce act permits the railroads to make special rates to the coast to compete with the shipping companies. For twelve years no advantage has been taken of this permission, and it is now proposed to deny the interstate commerce commission even the right to exercise its discretion in the matter should it ever change its mind. There is nothing remarkable in this type of legislation. Discriminations against this region in the past have been frequent and, incredible as it may appear, have generally had the support of a considerable part of the congressional delegations of the states which would suffer most from the enactments.

THE TRIBUNE has sought for years to show the spokesmen of the great interior valley how the interests of this region were being neglected for lack of an understanding of basic economic and geographical facts. The action of the state commissions is encouraging, for it indicates that at last the region is awakening to its own requirements. Our representatives have much still to learn, but at least they are growing aware of the fact that attempts are constantly being made to discriminate against their interests and are learning to organize for defense.

It is encouraging, too, to note that in Iowa one of the issues in the senatorial contest is Boulder dam. The fact that Congressman Dickinson voted for the bill is cited against him by one of his rivals for the nomination, Gov. Hammill. The governor thinks it is wrong to spend the money of Iowa taxpayers to build a municipal waterworks for Los Angeles and create irrigated farm lands to compete with Iowa acres. A few years ago a protest of this kind would have been so much breath wasted.

A night's ride from Chicago defines the most productive agricultural region in the world. It is, in addition, one of the greatest of manufacturing areas, unusually rich in natural resources. Railroads and highways can be built at low cost over the prairies, and the opportunities for cheap transportation by water are here, too. The central states, endowed as they are, have advanced in wealth despite the failure of our representatives to prevent discriminations against us. We will get along faster if our representatives represent.

GREEN STREETS.

Trees are good citizens. They rarely disturb the peace of city streets, such as there is. They offer shade and decency against the violence of the great town. At best a modern city street is harsh, unbalanced, crazy. Only the trees reclaim it from its alienation and make it livable.

The little grassy yards and trees that people plant before their houses save Washington boulevard for civilization. And Grand boulevard, or Irving Park boulevard, or Ashland boulevard would do as well. People care for things like trees and grass. Where they cannot find them naturally they set them out in little squares, behind small iron fences, to remind them of serene realities beyond the city's border. They smuggle nature in. The rows of elms are green beside the surge and drive of motor cars and men along the road. Trees are good citizens, along with those who plant them.

FOR A FRAGMENTATION OF WASHINGTON.

Washington, D. C., has gained only 11 per cent in ten years. Its population by this census is [illegible] and the inhabitants suggest a recount. It is a sad sign for the nation when Washington ranks any gain in population. It means that the federal government is hiring more hands, and if it is doing that it is increasing its activities. It means also that more of the governmental elect ought to be doing field work, if doing anything, have nested in the capital and that more office and career men are plying their trade.

A growing Washington is a growing bureaucracy concentrated in the city where the social contract is the bill of rights and where the moral-code boards constitute the political hierarchy. The census shows that Washington is too big by 480,000 people. It is valuable for its past but obsolescent in its present and ominous in its future. The conditions are embassy liquor and first place at the table. It is properly disfranchised, but, deprived of the rights of an electorate, it is bent upon breaking down democratic rights everywhere. It should be preserved as a tomb, in which memorial aspect it could be visited and revered. Its governmental activities should be scattered over the country.

The department of agriculture should be in Iowa. The department of justice with its new bureau of prohibition enforcement should be in Georgia, Alabama, or Texas, where it is needed. The treasury department should be in Chicago or New York, the navy department in San Francisco, Hawaii, or Guantanamo, and the war department at Sparta, Wis. The secretary of the interior should be at Beardstown, Ill.; the secretary of labor at Gary, Ind.; the secretary of commerce in Chicago, and the secretary of state at Red Desert, Wyo., if anywhere. The postoffice can take to a mail car. The White House should be at Grand Haven, Mich., and congress could be conducted by correspondence.

ENGLISH DIVORCE AND MORALITY.

The president of the English divorce court has announced that hereafter the discretion of the court permitting divorce when both husband and wife have been culpable will be exercised less freely and only upon complete confession of all pertinent facts. The rule is that a guilty man and a guilty woman cannot obtain release from their marriage, divorce being granted only if there is an innocent party, but the court has exercised the right of departing from an inflexible doctrine if conditions justified it. Recently a petitioner for discretion, asking that he might legalize an irregular attachment, was denied it because he had concealed the fact that the illicit relationship predated his equally guilty wife's bill for divorce. Instead of getting his freedom to marry his mistress and conform to social morality he was sentenced for contempt of court.

Divorce law in England seeks a superficial virtue. It is superficial because in giving the greatest consideration to appearances it produces notorious laxness. The legal ban on divorce has not protected the family relationship. Its consequences are not found in the fidelity of husbands and wives, but in infidelities to which society has become indifferent. Any superiority to which English society could pretend in sex morality above continental neighbors has disappeared in face of the known and acknowledged conditions in England.

Aristocratic habit is concerned only with the legal record which is supposed to sustain the virtues of English life if it does not reveal the vices. The prohibition of newspaper accounts of divorce proceedings was a measure taken to this end. It was a caste protection. The lower classes did not find their family scandals in the newspapers. The upper classes did, and the aristocratic formula was not to proceed against the causes of irregularity and promiscuity, but to muffle the publicity which the consequences got.

A low divorce record does not mean that English family life is an admirable thing in well bred circles. It indicates only that in well bred circles men and women may do anything they please except get a divorce, disentangle themselves from the causes of their plight, and reëstablish their lives honestly. Social decorum thus submits to a sanction of notorious misconduct and tightens up the divorce laws to save reputation while tolerating offenses and increasing disrepute. In consequence English life has the abandon of continental Europe without its intelligence. It makes undesirable and untenable marriage as little escapable as possible in law and then must condone the inevitable nonconformities.

QUETICO-SUPERIOR PRESERVES.

To preserve the levels of the lakes that lie upon our northern border west of Superior and to preserve the timber lands adjacent to their shores the Shipstead-Newton-Nolan bill now is before congress. It will complete the measures needed to protect this Quetico-Superior region on both sides of the boundary and will preserve for recreation and wise lumbering some of the finest of our remaining wilderness. The bill deserves support.

A project, backed by a lumberman of Minnesota, to build seven dams, divert streams from their courses, raise the levels of the boundary lakes from five to 85 feet and to drown out islands, beaches, waterfalls and rapids, is the alternative. It will impound the Rainy lakes and convert the boundary lakes into storage reservoirs for water to be used in a Winnipeg river paper mill, 150 miles away in Canada. With the Izaak Walton league and half a hundred other associations in Canada and the United States opposing him, Mr. E. W. Backus, the lumberman, will encounter difficulties. Groups opposing him run from automobile clubs, fur associations, sportsmen's clubs, to florists, landscape architects and woman's clubs. The support in America for the preservation of the Quetico-Superior region is widespread. While there is time the midwestern wilderness must be preserved in its more valuable and more interesting parts.

Editorial of the Day

DR. McBRIDE AND HIS HESSIANS.

[Detroit Free Press.]

From certain testimony given by Dr. F. Scott McBride before the senate lobby committee we gain the impression that the general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league is not unreasonably squeamish about the ethical character of the support he marshals for his cause. He is a "practical man" and while he prefers to command dry voting congressmen who also "drink dry," he does not necessarily refuse the aid of wet drinking congressmen who will vote dry on critical occasions; nor does he deny to such gentlemen the political support of his organization in return for their formal enrollment under the milk white flag of prohibition, even though they may continue to indulge in the cup that inebriates, and so do their part toward contributing to the prosperity of those bootleggers he considers seven ways damned.

How much of the "dry" strength in the house and senate is genuine, and how much is, in a manner of speaking, mercenary, time serving, and opportunist, or even the result of Hessianlike enslavement? In case the members of the national legislature become convinced that sentiment back home is really moist or wet, rather than dry—and the Literary Digest poll results are creating a lot of talk about that point—what is likely to happen to the present arid majority in congress? How much of it will stick? How much of it will melt like sugar plunged into a trickling stream of alcoholic moisture? These questions are not easily answered. Possibly Dr McBride would like to know the replies himself.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WELL, IT'S JUST TOO BAD— that an honest miner like James Brown, who has lived in a cottage that cost him only fifty dollars a year, has to go and live in Holyrood palace. But the king has appointed Jamie Lord High Commissioner of the Church of Scotland, so there's no help for it. And there's no steam heat in a palace, and no bath tub, and no patent ice refrigerating machine. And the rooms are as big as a garage, but not so cheerful. And you can't put window boxes on the window sill because there's some kind of a law put in force by William the Conqueror against anything like that. And no canary bird, and if you had a radio in the palace, parliament would be prorogued and the Channel Fleet ordered mobilized, to say nothing of calling out the Horse Guards.

And think of Jamie Brown sitting around on the front steps of Holyrood palace in his sock feet and smoking his pipe. Or walking out the front door of a morning with his tin dinner pail under his arm. And the wallpaper hasn't been changed for two hundreds years, and floors are all marked up where the knights in armor used to clank around on 'em with their spurs on. Poor Jamie Brown! But anyhow, he only has to stand it for a couple of weeks and then he can go back to his fifty dollar a year cottage and his job in the mine. And the bats, and the rooks, and the ghosts can move back into Holyrood palace. And Jamie and his neighbors will shake their heads and say fame and greatness are not all there is in the world after all.

CHANSON DU PRINTEMPS.

All through my life I have wanted
Some one with whom I could share
Not only my wit and my laughter
But also my loves and despair.

I had thought that my search was a vain one
Until suddenly you came along
To fill my heart with old gladness,
To give my soul a new song.

For years I'd been building a crystal wall
To protect from love's casual pain
A heart too warmly susceptible;
Now I've fallen in love again.

I know that you cannot be faithful;
I know that I cannot be true;
But any time that you want me there
I'll be happy only with you.

THE TARIFF BILL has squeezed through finally and is about ready for enactment. That's good, if the duty on whitewash is lower. We're using so much of it in this country right now, one way and another, that any lessening of the supply would be quite a calamity.

OUR NEW Black Horse troop will certainly add to the Chicago Beautiful plan. We get so tired of seeing the army and National Guard marching around in their old stable jackets and trench pants that when a smart outfit comes out on parade in knock-your-eye-out uniforms it deserves three rousing cheers. So when you see 'em give the little troop a great big hand.

"What a great story that bird could write," says Nacy Jones, "something like this—' There I stood with the big dynamite bomb in my hand. I had just lit the fuse and it was all ready to blow that pie-ranch to hellengone. And just then up jumped some horrid policemen. "Hey, there," sez they, "whaddayadoin' with that there lighted bomb?" Oh, I was so embarrassed! There I stood with that bomb sputtering in my hand and, really, for a moment I couldn't think of a single word to say. Embarrassed? My dear! Just imagine!'"

WE DON'T SEEM to be able to do a thing for the good news of good time editors this a. m. We can't find much increase in any industry except the divorce business. There's a lot more applications for divorce in May, this year, then there was in May, 1929, or May, 1927. Just how much more we haven't figured out, nor how much more a divorcée will spend than a married woman. But that's for the good news of good times boys to figure out—all we have to do is to call attention to the opportunity.

DEPARTMENT STORE HEALTH.

THE modern city department store has become a merchandise mart of great complexity and is, therefore, a source of health or ill health to a great number of employés and customers. Recognizing this, the New York City health department picked out twenty-five typical stores employing 41,000 people, and made a study of them from the health standpoint.

They found, for one thing, that they are more than stores. Several pages of the American Journal of Public Health were required simply to enumerate the activities of department stores. They listed fifty-three manufacturing, repairing, and altering activities carried on in the store building or on the premises. This in addition to selling and all the rest of the string. Some of these manufacturing processes are responsible for health hazards.

A part of the study was an analysis of 1,225 health and safety recommendations made to these twenty-five stores. The most frequent defect complained of was lack of sanitary drinking cups and glasses. Recommendations for greater cleanliness of some fixture ranked second. Safety repairs, third.

Then came, in order: Proper locker system, running soap, control of fumes, dust, ventilation, cleanliness of aisles and floors, proper towel supply, control of machine noises, proper seats, and better quality of lighting. The other subjects covered by the recommendations averaged less than one for each store, a level below which it is not necessary to go.

In the matter of health and comfort services the stores made very good showings. All of the twenty-five had restrooms and first aid rooms. Twenty of the number required that food handlers be examined for evidence of transmissible disease. Fifteen had training schools; ten continuation schools; six had libraries; seven, store bulletins or magazines; fourteen employed nurses, and a similar number had medical and surgical equipment. Eleven had physicians in attendance, four had dentists, one had a nose and throat specialist, two had eye specialists, one had a psychiatrist, seven had chiropodists, and six were served by specialists or clinics located elsewhere than in the store. Twelve treated employés only, and twelve treated customers. Nine had health examinations on beginning work and one had periodic health examinations of employés. Twelve had sick and death benefits and one had a pension system.

In some cities the department stores have for many years required vaccination against smallpox as a condition of employment.

ACID IN GRAPEFRUIT.

1. What acid is contained in grapefruit?
2. What action has the juice on the stomach?
3. Is it more benficial on an empty stomach or a full stomach?
4. Does the addition of sugar destroy the properties of the juice? Does it increase the properties?
5. Does salt have any effect on the juice?
6. Which is more beneficial with grapefruit, salt or sugar?

REPLY:

1. Principally citric; some malic.
2. None, on the average stomach.
3. As a rule, it makes no difference.
4. No to both questions.
5. No.
6. Both sugar and salt are used for the purpose of flavoring the juice. Some prefer one flavor; some, the other.

CHOCOLATE AND CIGARETS.

G. M. P. writes:

1. My sister and I have developed the habit of eating chocolate covered raisins every day. Is this injurious to the health?
2. Are they fattening?
3. Is inhaling cigaret smoke injurious to the health of a girl of 13?

REPLY:

1. Probably not.
2. Yes, if you eat enough of them.
3. Boys and girls are on a par as regards the effects of smoking. The habit is very harmful to some, and less to others, and very little so to still others, dependent on quantity of tobacco used and some other factors.

DIABETES AND INHERITANCE.

Miss L. A. R. writes: Is diabetes inherited? Is it possible for a son to inherit this from his father?

REPLY.

Inheritance is a factor of some importance in diabetes. The members of certain families are prone to diabetes. The same can be said of certain races.

ABANDONED EXCAVATION ATTENDED TO.

Chicago, May 11.—[Friend of the People.]—Many months ago an excavation for building purposes was made in the 1600 block of Melrose street. Water, garbage, a few dead animals, etc., made it an eyesore and the odors something vile. After much difficulty it was fenced and the element of danger averted. Warm days are renewing the malodorous conditions. Is there no way by which action can be forced?

H. P. L.

You are advised that, due to a former complaint, the following notice was served on the owner:

"Drain stagnant water from excavation."

Since a reinspection revealed that no compliance had been obtained with the foregoing order, this matter has been referred to our law enforcement division for further action.

ERROR IN TITLE.

Chicago, May 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Six years ago I bought a house. Three years ago I sold same. The party who bought it from me now wants to sell it. His lawyer now finds an error in the papers which was overlooked by my lawyer at the time I bought the house. My lawyer admits having overlooked this error. As a correction involves quite an expense, I would like to know just who is responsible.

M. A.

It should be obvious that we cannot advise to advantage without having the nature of the error and the other facts before us. If you gave a warranty deed you would in general be liable to your purchaser for breach of the warranty of title, but you would be entitled to recover from your lawyer if he failed to exercise the care and skill that he undertook to exercise when he examined the title.

VACANT COTTAGE UNSAFE.

Chicago, May 16.—[Friend of the People.]—I think something ought to be done about a vacant cottage in the 11000 block of Wallace street. It is very unsafe for the neighbors and for the children who play in there, often with matches.

Please be advised that this estate is in the hands of the public administrator. The owner has been out of the country for over a year and we have been unable to get a reply to our notices.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 21, 1865.

WASHINGTON.—Gen. Sheridan has been assigned to the command of all the forces west of the Mississippi. A force will be sent immediately to Texas to clear out the débris of the rebellion in that section.

NEW YORK.—A Washington special to the Post says that C. A. Dana has resigned as secretary of war and Maj. Eckert has been appointed his successor. During the war Maj. Eckert filled the arduous position of chief of the telegraph bureau of the war department.

WASHINGTON.—The session of the military court trying the Lincoln assassination conspirators was brief, the court not convening until 3 p. m. Assistant Secretary of War Dana and Maj. Eckert testified regarding the cipher letter found on the body of the assassin, J. Wilkes Booth. Maj. Eckert, who is an expert on ciphers, testified to the similarity of this letter to the one captured in the rebel state department at Richmond.

FORTRESS MONROE.—Jeff Davis, with his family, staff officers, etc., captured in Georgia, arrived here from Hilton Head, S. C., on the steamer William H. Clyde. Col. Pritchard of the 4th Michigan cavalry, with a strong guard, accompanied the rebel party. Rumors are flying that Davis has been landed somewhere along the beach. No communication whatever is allowed with the steamer.

DETROIT.—Some seventy or eighty rebels who have been prowling about in Canada for a year past have presented themselves recently to the provost marshal's office here, taken the oath of allegiance and claimed the benefit of President Lincoln's amnesty proclamation. They were from nearly every southern state and most of them were officers of the rebel army who had escaped from federal prisons into Canada.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY.

LONDON.—Some of the morning papers claim to detect several distinct signs of peace. The Express claims it has the best of reasons for stating that Lord Salisbury has received within the last 24 hours a new proposal from President Kruger, but all agree with the Times that there is but one basis of settlement, and that is unconditional surrender. Live news from the front is scarce. Rundle continues to advance and has reached Tromwell. A dispatch from Mequatlings Nek, dated May 16, says: "Gen. Brabant is reported to have captured 1,500 Boers at Clocolan." This is 20 miles from Tromwell. President Steyn has chosen his fourth capital at Vrede, in the extreme northeast portion of the Free State.

LONDON.—The Daily Telegraph's Cape Town correspondent says: "Advices received through the Transvaal report that the Irish-American ambulance corps suffered severely in the fighting before Kroonstad. The corps, 300 strong, left Chicago on Feb. 11. It was warmly welcomed by the Transvaal agents. When it arrived at Pretoria more than half the number took off the Red Cross badges, accepted Mauser rifles, and were sent to Brandfort." The corps was fitted out in Chicago by the United Societies, with Dr. John R. Macnamara as chief surgeon.

WASHINGTON.—Facts are coming to light baring a scandal in the proposal to sell the Danish West Indies to the United States. It is said that a syndicate secured an option on the islands for $1,000,000 and then tried to sell them to this country for $4,000,000. Secretary Hay learned of the scheme and will wait until the contract lapses and then negotiate direct.

NEW YORK.—Six detectives have been engaged to prevent newspaper reporters from witnessing the marriage of Miss Katherine Clark, daughter of the Montana copper king, to Dr. Lewis Rutherford on May 28 in St. Thomas' church.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 21, 1920.

WASHINGTON.—The interstate commerce commission, acting under its emergency powers to relieve the transportation congestion menacing business and threatening credit conditions in the country, issued orders which mean the restoration of unified operation of freight traffic such as prevailed under the railroad administration during wartime. The orders direct the railroads to dispatch freight shipments by other routes than those designated by the shipper, make daily deliveries of freight cars to other systems, and send solid trains of empty cars from one part of the country to another.

CHICAGO.—The committee on arrangements for the Republican national convention has asked James Cardinal Gibbons of the Catholic church to pronounce the invocation at the opening of the convention at the Coliseum on June 10. The cardinal will be in the city to participate in the silver jubilee of Archbishop George W. Mundelein and the celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the diocese of Chicago.

THE CAPTURE OF JEFF DAVIS.

Chicago, May 15.—In your "65 Years Ago Today" this morning you speak of the "4th Michigan cavalry, under Lieut. Col. D. B. Pritchard." The 4th Michigan was commanded by Col. Robert H. G. Minty, and it was while he was in command at Selma that he sent out the squadron of cavalry under his lieutenant colonel, Benjamin D. Pritchard, which, after covering 160 miles in 36 hours, captured the fleeing president of the confederacy, Jefferson Davis, and his escort near Abbeville, Ga., in May, 1865.

Jeff Davis' pistol and holsters are now in the possession of members of Col. Minty's family.

TAXES.

Chicago, May 17.—My home in the 10500 La Salle street block was built at the same time and by the same contractor who built my neighbors' homes on either side. They are identical except that one man has no garage, I have a one car garage, the third a two car garage. Yet the one with no garage receives a 1928 tax of $58, the one with the two car garage pays $65, while my tax is $108. This represents an increase of over 100 per cent in my case. I would not object to an increase in proportion with that of the rest of the neighborhood, but repeated trips both downtown and to the local assessor's office, in an effort to receive an explanation, have met with no success. It would be interesting to know just what the gentleman who assessed the block saw when he came to my home to have caused the valuation of my property to jump so far above those immediately surrounding it. All of these homes are modest frame houses, on thirty foot lots. Because I am over seventy years of age, and my income is small, it is a serious matter to me.

SWAN AUGUST NELSON,
10522 S. La Salle street, Chicago.

MORE ABOUT TAXES.

Stickney, Ill., May 17.—Talk about high taxes! What beats this? I live in a small suburban town, a one horse town at that. We have one policeman, no fire department, no postal service, no ash removal, no garbage removal, few streets paved, about a dozen lights throughout the town, and yet we receive a tax bill for the year of 1928 with an increase of 120 per cent over the previous year. I would appreciate it if some one will give us a reasonable explanation of the above increase.

ALBERT O. SKUDRNA.

TOO MUCH BASEBALL.

Chicago, May 18.—I think it is about time the radio stations of Chicago were told that all people are not baseball crazy.

B. JOHN BRABEC.

WHERE TO MOOR!

Chicago, May 14.—Anent your recent editorial on additional harbor space for Chicago, I might ask when the Jackson park harbor is going to meet the demands of Chicagoans who want to use a motor boat during the summer months. I am told by the office of the south park commissioners that there is a long waiting list for motor boat space; that only eleven new slips were built this season and these are already taken. Motor boating is bound to become increasingly popular as the streets of the city become more and more congested with automobiles. The lake lies right at our feet, offering to Chicagoans recreational advantages which few other cities possess. And yet, because of lack of mooring facilities, we cannot use it. Evidently before I can buy me a motor boat I must first build me a harbor.

ISABEL JARVIS.

CREPE HANGERS.

Chicago, May 15.—Why all the fuss about the present styles in women's clothes? No matter what styles are worn, there will always be a few crepe hangers who cannot wear those styles and who will try to ridicule the rest of the femmes. If you ask me, I'd say it is surely a relief to see most of the girls decently clad, with skirts three or four inches below the knee, after the last few years of viewing bow legs, knock knees, skinny, fat, and very few presentable legs. As for the evening styles, was there ever anything more graceful than a soft flowing skirt that may be hiding some of nature's frailties? Me for the longer skirt! And if those protesting young women have such beautiful limbs that they wish to advertise them, my advice is join the Follies!

G. E. SMITH.

SIMPLY IMPOSSIBLE.

Chicago, May 16.—My eagerness to read what is being said in the Voice of the People about present styles knows no bounds. "Nighties in the Daytime" and "Soiled, But Nice," more than voiced my sentiments. The styles are simply impossible; either a fool or a knave conceived them and I'm inclined to believe that they both did together. If women would just pass them by this summer, as a great many did last winter, by fall or next winter we'll be back to decent things again.

MRS. H. L. BETZ.

NO NEED FOR EXTREMES.

Chicago, May 16.—I am in favor of the present styles for women. Long dresses are at least respectable. No one said one should go to extremes and pick out a dress so long one cannot walk nor one that looks like a mess of rags tied in the middle. The advertising sections of THE TRIBUNE show any number of plain, sensible looking dresses and the smartest suits and blouses in that respectable length. Women were embarrassing to others if not to themselves the way they would sit in public places in those overdone short dresses. After all, if it be short, please sit correctly; if long, walk correctly.

MRS. ALVIN HALL.

HAPPY DAYS.

Chicago, May 13.—For some years now the styles have been very becoming to the short slim or the short stout type of woman. We of the tall and the slim species had a dickens of a time letting down hems and facing hems in order to keep our knees partially covered, as usually we were unsuccessful to an immodest degree. And those straight sheathlike garments did us no good. Negligies were emphasized and the billowy ones were happy. That was their day. But now our time has come. Now we can buy a dress which is long enough when we sit down, and the feminine, frilly, fluffy fashions of today are just what we've been waiting for! And so we intend to make the most of them! Just ask us!

A WILLOWY ONE.

HOLLAND.

Winnetka, Ill., May 15.—Thank you for the article about Holland, Mich. As long as I can remember, it has been just as it was described—unchangeable, stolid, and clean, a cleanliness that is a beautiful obsession with the people.

My grandfather, Dr. C. Steffens, was a professor of theology at Hope college. The school has always been noted for its theologians as well as its musicians.

The only thing that has changed in the town is the lack of wooden shoes which once hung before the stores.

ILLINOIS FARM PRODUCTS SHOW ECONOMIC GAIN

Annual Turnover Exceeds $600,000,000.

BY PAUL POTTER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 20.—[Special.] Agriculture, still the basic industry of Illinois, continues to strengthen its economic position as a business concern with an annual cash turnover in excess of $600,000,000, a survey of recent trends in the state discloses.

Farmers continue the fundamental pursuits of corn and hogs, but they are rapidly giving up the proverbial "all eggs in one basket" policy. This is indicated in the enormous growth made in the last five years in dairying, poultry production, fruit and vegetables, soy bean and field crop seed sales, which carry Illinois into front rank as a "diversified farming" area of the fertile Mississippi valley.

Canning industries, production of broom corn, oil and corn products mills and cheese factories have sprung up as further indications of this widening range of market outlet for rural production. Within a few hours of the world's greatest packing and food market, Illinois farmers still claim preeminence as provisioners in the nation's pantry.

Corn Crop Leads.

A. J. Surratt, statistician in Illinois for the federal and state departments of crop and live stock estimates, places the value of Illinois crops, as of Dec. 1, 1929, at $421,368,000. Fifty-two per cent of this valuation was in the corn crop, 15 per cent in tame hay, 13 per cent in oats, 8.6 per cent in winter wheat and the remainder in a wide variety of field crops.

Illinois leads the nation in production of soy beans, red top seed and sweet corn. It was second last year in production of horses, corn, peaches and timothy seed; third in hogs, oats, and clover seed sales; fourth in tame hay and broom corn crops, and fifth in number of dairy cows. The state's gross income from poultry and eggs alone exceed $70,000,000; its sales from dairy products click the cash register at more than a hundred million dollars, while the two big crops, corn and hogs, show a figure well over a quarter million dollars yearly. Illinois live stock was valued on Jan. 1 this year at $289,926,000.

Such an array of figures from the state's farm ledger takes no cognizance of the tremendous inventory of "land, plant, and equipment" this industry maintains.

Cold Hard on Peaches.

Fickleness of the weather man has developed a spring season the most unusual in many years, crop observers over the state report. Recent rains and cool weather came suddenly, but with little damage to the corn already in the ground, earlier than usual because of heavy snows followed by weeks of Junelike weather. Some fruit, such as peaches, have been entirely ruined by low winter temperatures, while apples will be plentiful. Berry crops were reduced in southern Illinois by drought early in the season.

Acreage in Illinois devoted to soy beans is expected to be appreciably greater this year than ever before, with decreased areas in wheat and about normal acreage in corn and oats.

MAYOR BOESS OF BERLIN IS FIRED AFTER SCANDAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 20.—Because his wife accepted a fur coat from the Sklarek brothers at a "rock bottom bargain price" Gustav Boess, chief burgomaster of Berlin, today was removed from office and his legal pension of $7,500 was cut to $5,000 by the Prussian disciplinary court for officials.

The court ruled that it could not prove that Herr Boess was involved in the graft scandals which shook Berlin recently, when the three Sklarek brothers were arrested on charges of defrauding the city of Berlin. However it censured him for failure to investigate the reports of untrustworthiness of the town's business associates, which, the court said, was "incompatible with the ideals of honor and respectability demanded by the high post entrusted to the mayor of the German capital."

Herr Boess was in the United States when the graft scandal broke and failed to reply to cables requesting him to return. The court found this ample proof of his lack of responsibility.

The court granted Herr Boess a pension of $5,000 instead of the $7,500 promised by his contract. Herr Boess plans to appeal to the Supreme court.

MANSLAUGHTER FOR AUTO DEATH.

Vincennes, Ind., May 20.—[Special.]—Charges of manslaughter were filed against Geoffrey E. Allen today by Sheriff Adolph Kruse of Knox county. Allen drove the automobile in which Arthur Joary was killed a week ago and five other persons were injured.

SEIZE WOMAN COMPANION OF SLAIN ANTHONY

"Mickey" Is Arrested by Canton (Ill.) Police.

The woman called "Mickey," who lived with Harry Anthony at the Greenview hotel, 6234 South Green street, until he went for his last ride on May 7, was arrested yesterday by the police of Canton, Ill.

Convinced that Anthony, a Toledo racketeer, more than 6 feet tall, had been slain by gunmen jealous of "Mickey," Detective Harry Newman of the detective bureau traced her through telephone calls to the hamlet of St. David just outside Canton, and procured a warrant for her arrest. Detective Newman left last night for Canton to return her to Chicago.

The blonde young woman identified herself to Canton police as Mrs. Mary Marshman, 23 years old, a former Northwestern university student and radio entertainer. She said she had known Anthony "only in a casual way."

Informed of her statement to Canton police, Lieut. Storms scoffed. He pointed out that for three weeks prior to his death Anthony and "Mickey" had been registered at the hotel as Mr. and Mrs. Harry Marshman.

"The questioning of this woman promised a solution of the case," Storms said. "We have learned that two days before Anthony was killed, while the woman and he were riding together on the south side, two men in another car forced Anthony's machine to the curb. They chased him into a garage, drew guns, and threatened to kill him unless he quit his association with this woman."

"It must have been the work of a drug fiend," was Mr. Marshman's comment on the murder, according to dispatches from Canton. "Mr. Anthony was a nice man and I'm sure he had no criminal connections. I am willing to return to Chicago and answer all questions. My only reason for leaving so suddenly was to escape notoriety."

BERLIN AVIATRIX LANDS IN CHICAGO ON U. S. AIR TOUR

Miss Antonie Strassmann of Berlin, one of Germany's leading women flyers, arrived in Chicago yesterday on a six weeks' tour of the United States. Miss Strassmann flew her Junkers two seater sport plane from Washington, D. C., accompanied only by her mascot, a white canary named Okeh. While in America she will demonstrate models of German planes and lecture to American women on aviation.

Although flying among women in Europe now is common, Miss Strassmann said, they do not compete with men. Transport licenses are not issued to women and they are not allowed to fly for money. Germany issues a special sport license for women flyers, and it is in sport that women must look for their future in flying, Miss Strassmann believes. Miss Strassmann, whose tour is sponsored by the German government, was given a special license to demonstrate planes.

Yesterday she flew a small Savoia-Marchetti amphibian of the Air-Sea-Land Aircraft company in a test flight. Today she will fly the plane to Milwaukee for a lecture and will return to Chicago for a demonstration on June 1.

Seek Home for Girl, 19, Charged with Robbery

Mary Flahive, 19 years old, 843 North St. Louis avenue, was placed in custody of a social worker by Judge Harry Fisher yesterday after the girl was arraigned on a charge of robbery. Her case was continued until July 1 and in the meantime an effort will be made to find her a home. The girl told Judge Fisher that several boys forced her to drink liquor and then had her call a drug store for some articles. The messenger boy from the store was robbed when he made the delivery.

BEGIN $1,000,000 IMPROVEMENTS IN LINCOLN PARK

Start Work on Jetties to Protect Shore.

A million dollar improvement program, exclusive of the new connecting outer drive and link bridge, was started by the Lincoln park commissioners yesterday. The program includes an expenditure of $200,000 for protecting jetties along the outer drive, $750,000 for the resurfacing and repairing of all drives and boulevards in the park system, and the creation of a new bathing beach between North and Fullerton avenues.

Work was started yesterday on the construction of nine protecting jetties extending along the lake front between North and Fullerton avenues. The contracts were let by the board several weeks ago to the Great Lakes Dock and Dredge company, and involve approximately $200,000. The jetties are designed to protect the drive against heavy northeast storms.

Drive Blocked by Storms.

Last winter high water and unusual storms made the outer drive impassable much of the time. Much of the drive was undermined by waves and only in the last week has the entire drive been open at all hours. Engineers say the jetties will break the force of the storm water and permit the drive to remain open at all times.

The bathing beach will be a development of the jetties. Although the park commissioners will spend no money on the creation of a beach this season, it is believed that a natural beach will result from sand washed in between the jetties. Superintendent H. O. Weege said that a crew of 24 life guards will be provided for this section as soon as the bathing season opens and that police protection will be provided as in the established beaches.

Part of Work This Season.

Only a part of the drives and boulevards will be improved this season, the commissioners asserted. A total of $750,000 is needed for the completion of the repaving and repairing program, but only $125,000 is available for this work now. The completion of this part of the park project probably will be deferred until next summer, but will be finished as soon as funds are furnished.

Most of the present funds will be spent in making the most needed repairs, with repaving waiting until next season. The outer drive in Lincoln park will be widened in an early stage of the work, so as to be ready to connect with the outer drive for through traffic as soon as the link bridge is completed.

Mother Fatally Wounded Taking Gun from Infant

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday in the case of Mrs. Margaret Mitchell, 27 years old, 7736 Oglesby avenue, who died early in the day at the South Shore hospital. Mrs. Mitchell was struck by a bullet from a revolver which was accidentally discharged when she tok it from her 13 month old daughter, Joan, after the child had found the weapon under a bed.

CLAIMS KINSEY FORCED HER TO ASSIGN ESTATE

Stepchild Accuses Music School Head.

Mrs. Letitia Vance Bushman of Toledo, O., yesterday charged that her stepfather, Carl D. Kinsey, head of the Chicago Musical college, forced her to assign her share of her mother's estate to him. The charge was made in Judge Fred Rush's court. Mrs. Bushman is seeking to have the assignment set aside. She declares that Kinsey now refuses to give her any of her inheritance.

The suit is being heard in Circuit court after an appeal was taken by Kinsey and his attorney, George Schein, from Probate court, where Judge Henry Horner ruled the assignment was obtained through misrepresentation.

Mrs. Bushman's mother, Mrs. Edwina Vance Kinsey, was killed in a train wreck at Forsyth, N. Y., on Dec. 9, 1923. Mrs. Bushman was then 18 years old. Her mother was Kinsey's second wife. She had been divorced from her first husband, a wealthy New York broker.

Claims Educational Costs.

According to Attorney Schein, Kinsey spent large sums of money on his stepdaughter and sent her to a number of eastern schools, including Goucher college, Kemper hall, and Sweet Briar college.

Mrs. Bushman's share in her mother's estate amounted to about $15,000, which figure was increased several thousand dollars when Kinsey collected damages from the railroad. Mrs. Bushman testified yesterday that she was induced to sign her inheritance over to Kinsey on his plea that he could manage her affairs better. When she hesitated before signing, she said, her stepfather became abusive and threatened to turn her out of his home.

Tells of Leaving Home.

After assigning her inheritance to Kinsey, she declared, he continued to be unkind, and finally she was forced to leave his home in April, 1925. She went to New York, where she was married to Edward Bushman, a Toledo salesman. Kinsey has married again and has refused his daughter permission to visit him, Mrs. Bushman declared.

Mrs. Bushman also charged that Attorney Schein advised her to turn her inheritance over to Kinsey. Schein, she declared, told her the will left by her mother was not valid, that it was only a letter, and, furthermore, that her legacy was negligible.

Mrs. Bushman is represented by Attorney Charles R. Holton of the firm of Helmer, Moulton, Whitman & Holton. The hearing will be continued tomorrow and it is expected that Kinsey will be called to testify.

SWINGS SLIPPER ON SISTER-IN-LAW IN COURT BATTLE

Mrs. Gladys Touchrar, 21 years old, 1013 Wolfram street, and Mrs. Alma Aubry, 30 years old, 1049 Wellington avenue, who are sisters-in-law, were taken before Judge Erickson in Town Hall court yesterday when a long standing dispute over money matters waxed vehement.

The presence of the judge did not halt hostilities, however. "I'll kill you!" shouted Mrs. Aubry and started a rush at her adversary. Mrs. Touchrar stooped, slipped off her high-heeled slipper, and swung it at her advancing sister-in-law. The heel struck Mrs. Aubry on the head and her charge came to a halt as bailiffs surrounded the two women.

Mrs. Aubry was carried off to the American hospital, where her scalp wound was dressed, while Mrs. Touchrar was taken into temporary custody. When Mrs. Aubry returned to court Judge Erickson effected a truce between the two women and they left the courtroom arm in arm.

YOUTH IN NEW CONFESSION OF 'RIBBON KILLING'

Tale of Disposal of Rings Proves False.

William Putscher, 19 years old, who on Monday night confessed strangling of Mrs. Mildred Helsing and then recanted, last night made a new statement in the case which, the police predicted, would result in his indictment for murder.

From midnight to dawn yesterday, following his graphic recital of how he choked the young housewife to death when she caught him ransacking her bedroom, young Putscher knelt in his cell at Berwyn police station, praying that the real slayer be brought to justice that he might be absolved from blame.

"Had Me All Wrong."

"You had me all wrong," he confidently told Chief of Detectives Stege upon his return to the detective bureau yesterday afternoon. "I confessed because I was scared of you fellows. It was phoney—I was never within a block of the Helsing apartment."

But Stege had a plan he believed would bring the prisoner to tell the truth. At 4 p. m. Putscher was led into a long bare room and seated at the head of a table. Stege, Deputy Detective Chief John Egan and Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne took chairs along the table and, at the opposite end, facing the prisoner, was seated Reuben Helsing, husband of the slain woman.

Makes New Confession.

The inquisition went on for hours. Goaded by ceaseless questions as to disposal of the two rings stolen by Mrs. Helsing's slayer, Putscher at times became frenzied and stood up to challenge his interrogators to combat. At 11:30 p. m., he began to weep and begged permission to speak privately with Lieut. John Norton.

The others withdrew and Putscher sobbed to Norton that he had strangled Mrs. Helsing in her apartment at 5830 Lake street and taken the rings and given them to two girls, whom he named. Early this morning, Lieut. John McGinnis and the homicide squad went to the Berwyn residence of the girls and returned with them and the rings to the detective bureau. Helsing looked at the rings and shook his head. They had never belonged to his wife, he said. The girls were released and the police said they would search elsewhere for the Helsing rings.

Admits Many Robberies.

Putscher's earlier repudiation of his first confession did not change his admission that he broke into many homes and stole articles. He confessed to more than 100 robberies.

A warrant charging him with the murder of Mrs. Helsing was issued and Putscher was booked on the charge and held without bond. Twenty-nine charges of burglary were also placed against him and his companion, Paul McKinley, 18 years old, by the Berwyn police.

Putscher may expect no help from his parents in fighting the murder charge, they said last night. His father, William, and mother, Mary, in their comfortable home at 1815 South Wesley avenue, Berwyn, said Putscher had been a lazy and ungrateful son.

"He's been incorrigible all his life," said his father. "We tried to bring him up right but he didn't want to be a good boy. In grammar school, he stole and was sent to St. Charles reformatory. He went for a year to Morton High school but had poor marks.

"Then he worked for a while but he had big ideas. He wanted money and jewelry, fine clothes, and a car. He was crazy about his girl [Margaret Killian, 22 years old, 2611 South Clarence avenue, Berwyn] and wanted to give her presents, but he never thought of doing anything for his father and mother. We're not going to mortgage our home to get a lawyer for him."

NEW DOMINGO CHIEF OFFERS JAILED FOE A POST IN CABINET

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, May 20.—(AP)—Federico Velasquez is in jail on charges of fomenting a revolution, but he has been offered the treasury portfolio in the cabinet of Gen. Rafael Trujillo, nevertheless. Velasquez, unsuccessful candidate for president on a coalition ticket, was imprisoned following Friday's election, which gave the presidency to Gen. Trujillo.

It was learned today that the acting president, Jacinto B. Peynado, advised Gen. Trujillo that the appointment of Velasquez to the most important cabinet post would be a good influence toward quieting the opposition. The newly elected chief executive agreed, and Peynado himself carried the offer to Velasquez.

The latter replied that he could not accept while still in jail. It is believed that he soon will be released.

Angel Morales, running mate of Velasquez, was still being sought today on charges similar to those which caused the arrest of Velasquez.

VOTE $264,000 TO PAY BAILIFFS AND COURT CLERKS

The city council passed appropriations totaling $264,000 yesterday for the bailiff and clerk of the Municipal court. The money will be used to pay the salaries of 52 deputy bailiffs and 50 deputy clerks. The aldermen stated that the city has no funds available now to pay their salaries.

The appropriation of $140,000 for Bailiff B. W. Snow was passed by the aldermen to comply with a writ of mandamus issued by Superior Judge Hebel. The writ called for the appropriation to be made by May 7. Lawyer members of the council said that they did not believe contempt of court proceedings would be brought against them for the delay, in view of the fact that the appropriation now has been made.

"We shouldn't penalize James Kearns, clerk of the court, because he didn't mandamus us," said Ald. Louis B. Anderson [2d]. The aldermen agreed with him and passed an appropriation of $124,000 for Kearns.

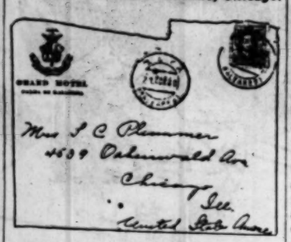
FROM PALMA, BALEARIC ISLANDS

Letter received by Mrs. S. C. Plummer, 4539 Oakenwald avenue, Chicago.



"This letter, sent from Palma, Majorca, in the Balearic islands, on Easter Sunday," Mrs. Plummer writes, "comes from Miss Rose M. Gyles of Hull house, who has been traveling in the south of Europe for a year. She finds in Majorca the most interesting drives over mountain passes she has ever had.

"Writing of Deya, a small village she had visited shortly before sending the letter, Miss Gyles says: 'The houses are remarkably well preserved and very neat. In fact, this is the cleanest place I have ever visited. Excepting for the sound of rushing waters, it is of heavenly peace and quiet. The Majoreans here are all well to do. There is no beggary or poverty, but living is cheap and, excepting for the cold, which they do not notice, very comfortable. Every one looks contented, happy, and gay.'"

Palma, where Miss Gyles' letter was posted, is a flourishing seaport and the capital of the Spanish province of the Balearic islands, situated 135 miles southeast of Barcelona on the southwest coast of Majorca. It stands at the head of the Bay of Palma, which stretches inland for about ten miles between the Capes of Regana and Cala Figuera. The city is the juncture for all of the highways in the island and the terminal of the railway from Inca, Alcudia, and Manacor.

Palma underwent considerable changes in the 19th century and lost much of its old world Moorish character. The principal buildings are the cathedral, the exchange, the palace, now occupied by the captain general; the law courts, the episcopal palace, and the college. Palma has a seminary founded in 1700, a collection of archives dating back to the fourteenth century, and a school and museum of fine arts.

The city has frequent communication by steamship with Valencia, Barcelona, and Alicante and has a thriving trade in grain, wine, oil, fruit, almonds, silk, and live stock.

LABOR MEETING UNANIMOUS FOR DRY LAW REPEAL

Salisbury, Md., May 20.—(AP)—Repeal of the Volstead act and the eighteenth amendment and restoration to the various states of the right to control the liquor traffic was urged unanimously by the Maryland-District of Columbia Federation of Labor convention here today.

A resolution which declared that prohibition has had a fair trial for the last 12 years and had resulted in an increase of drunkenness and attendant evils was passed without discussion when it was reported from committee.

Coast Guard Cutter Bill Approved by House Group

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—A bill to authorize $650,000 for a coast guard cutter for service on Lake Erie was approved today by the house interstate commerce committee.

'SERVED CHURCH,' ASSERT CANNON LAYMAN CRITICS

Issue Statement on Exoneration of Bishop.

Dallas, Tex., May 20.—(AP)—Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy and one of more than twenty laymen who preferred charges of stock market gambling against Bishop James Cannon Jr. of Washington, D. C., before the conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, tonight issued a statement upon Cannon's exoneration.

"The quality of mercy," said the statement, "is not strained. It droppeth like the gentle rain from heaven alike upon erring bishop and erring Congoan.

"Rendered Real Service."

"The laymen who preferred the charges against Bishop Cannon have the consciousness of rendering a real service to their church. The episcopacy committee ordered a trial on the basis of charges preferred by them, accompanied by indisputable proof that Bishop Cannon had been engaged in bucketshop transactions. The committee took this action after hearing Bishop Cannon's defense. The trial was halted only when Bishop Cannon, who hitherto defended his course, confessed his sin and pleaded for clemency.

Doubt "Belated Penitence."

"It is the preaching of Methodists that confession of sin, followed by repentance and promise to sin no more, should meet with clemency and forgiveness. It was this attitude, and this alone, that stayed the trial of Bishop Cannon. Many laymen did not share the feeling of the preachers because the statement of repentance and pledge to reform did not come until after a trial had been ordered. They doubted the belated penitence was genuine.

"The world now knows that bucketshop gambling is abhorred, if not punished, by the general conference, no matter who is guilty of it."

FEDERAL JUDGE GRANTS A JURY FOR MALT TRIAL

Federal Judge Lindley yesterday granted a jury trial to two defendants in an action brought by the government to libel malt extracts, wort and home brewing supplies seized by prohibition agents.

This ruling is said to be the first of its kind in this district and is expected to figure in the similar action against the $50,000 stock of home bottling supplies seized in the recent raid on Joe Grein's store at 210 West Madison street.

Attorney Benjamin Epstein won the jury trial for his clients, Emil T. Henius and E. G. Seufer, owners of two stores allegedly selling contraband wares at 2120 and 2127 North Halsted street. Assistant United States Attorney Joseph Struett opposed the motion for a jury trial. No date for the case was set.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., May 20.—The Cubs were not in the mood to do things in a big way today. They suffered in the face of some more bad pitching. Their fielding was a nightmare and their usually noisy attack was reduced to a whisper. Under the circumstances they had no trouble dropping the final to the revived Cardinals. The score was 16 to 3, giving the league champions the unenviable distinction of copping only one of their four efforts here. The defeat pushed the Cubs down into fifth place, although they're less than two games from the top.

HACK WILSON.

With the idea of restoring some of the team morale, Boss McCarthy returned the crippled Rogers Hornsby to second base, but the alteration brought no favorable results. The presence of the Rajah didn't discourage Pat Malone from engaging in one of his now periodical blowups. Neither did it prevent an imposing list of Cub errors. In fact, Hornsby himself contributed one to this total, not to mention the things he failed to do because of the restricted activity made necessary by his weakened underpinning.

Cards Score Five.

The only good thing accomplished by Malone was two innings of effectiveness. Having done this, he became as loose as dry breadcrumbs in the third, and before Guy Bush was able to restore order five Cardinals were over the plate. Then Bush endeavored to prove his arm is regaining its cunning, but the exhibition was ruined by a three run blast launched against him in the sixth and one for four runs in the seventh.

Hitting was a problem with the Cubs because of Willie Sherdel, the diminutive southpaw who kept a few hits so well scattered that he was never in danger. The one time during the fight when it looked as if he had something to worry about was in the second, when Hack Wilson homed forth with his twelfth homer of the campaign. This was promptly nullified by Malone's blowup.

Carlson Pitches Today.

Hal Carlson will try to baffle the Cubs in the opener of the series at Pittsburgh tomorrow. Just who will relieve him isn't known. Petty may be the Pirate choice.

After Hack's homer into left had given him a 1 to 0 lead, Malone didn't waste any time withering in the third. He walked both Gelbert and Sherdel with none out. Douthit bunted to Hall and Hornsby covered first base, but the peg was to one side and the Rajah's bum heel wouldn't allow him to shift quickly so the runner was out. This filled the bags with none out. The party continued with Malone slipping free passage to Adams, thus making it necessary for Gelbert to score. Then Frisch plunked a double against the chicken netting in right field, Sherdel and Douthit counting and Adams taking third. After a conference among themselves the Cubs decided Malone was not the proper pitcher for the job at hand, and Bush stepped in and was greeted with Bottomley's single, which scored Adams and Frisch with the fourth and fifth runs of the chapter.

It was principally bad breaks of luck against Bush that let the Cards batter him for three runs in the home

Rich Purses Draw Owners of Turf's Best.

BY FRENCH LANE.

It seems rather odd that Chicago in midsummer is to become a meeting place of eastern, middle western and far western society folks, but it has just been revealed that the horses which carry their racing silks will bring them here in late June, during July and in early August.

The Chicago turf fixtures are becoming so important and so rich in value that the owners of valuable steeds are showing a desire to follow them here to see them compete for the prizes both in the flat racing and the steeplechasing. And it begins to appear that when the Arlington Jockey club's season is at its height in July there will be a gathering here as socially prominent and as gay as any that ever met at Belmont Park in May or September and one which will rival Saratoga in August.

Whitney to Seek Championship.

From New York yesterday there came a list of eastern turf patrons who are going to take part in the racing here this season, a number at Washington Park in June, all of them at Arlington Park in July, and others in the meetings that are to follow in Chicago.

The list is headed by Harry Payne Whitney who already has taken a house at Lake Forest for a good part of the Arlington season. Mr. Whitney believes his 3 year old Whichone can turn back Gallant Fox, the Preakness and Kentucky Derby winner, for the championship. The final championship test may come in one of the big midsummer races here as it did last season when Blue Larkspur won the title. The other stars in the Whitney stable also are to race here.

Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney, widow of Payne Whitney, younger brother of Harry Payne Whitney, is another easterner who will patronize Chicago racing this season. She is in racing and production almost as extensively as is her brother-in-law; she is a daughter of John Hay, one time ambassador to Great Britain, secretary of state under Roosevelt, and negotiator of the treaty under which we built the Panama canal. She maintains the Greentree stable, the western division of which will reach Washington park within a few days and will be combined with the eastern division for the racing at Arlington.

Woodward Bringing Gallant Fox.

Mrs. Whitney's son, John Hay Whitney, who has gone into racing extensively both here and in England, also will be represented here, according to the eastern report, as will William Woodward, vice chairman of the Jockey club and president of the Hanover National bank of New York City. Mr. Woodward's chief interest will be in his Derby winner, Gallant Fox, but he will have all the others of his Belair stud stable here between the close of Belmont's early summer meeting and the opening at Saratoga in August. Mr. Woodward will be here most of the time his horses are racing in Chicago.

Other easterners coming for part of the Chicago season are John R. Macomber, wealthy New Englander, whose estate, Framingham, is one of the show places of Massachusetts. His Peter Wrack, according to the reports from the east, will point at Arlington for the Arlington and Stars and Bars handicaps and the Arlington cup.

Mrs. Henry C. Phipps, sister of Ogden Mills, also is sending her horses and will put in at least a part of the season here. Her brother is her partner in the ownership of the Wheatley stable. Mrs. Charles Amory, Maryland's wealthiest sportswoman, also is coming. She is a daughter of Capt. Isaac Emerson, who invented bromo seltzer and made and is still making

PUPIL AND TEACHER AT WORK

Novice Golfer Learns How to Pick Right Club

The best pupil in THE TRIBUNE golf school will be determined at 9 o'clock Saturday morning at the Mid-City course, where the four novices will engage in 18 holes of medal play.

Frank Williams, professional at Skokie, had just returned from demonstrating how to play golf when Tom Milne arrived for his sixth lesson in THE TRIBUNE'S novice golf contest. Williams had played the last nine on Mill Road Farm [A. D. Lasker's private course] in 32, two shots less than any one had ever scored on the nine. His card read 343 344 335—32.

Milne, by the way, also is developing a golf swing, but, as in the case with the other lads, he needs constant correction as minor faults develop. He began swinging a brassie and hit a few very well but then began to shove them off to the right. "You relaxed your wrists too much on that shot," Williams told him. "You can't use your right enough when you relax your wrists that way."

Tom also had a tendency to hit too hard and the professional drilled into him the club should knock the peg tee out of the ground as it swept the ball away.

Then Williams began a "stunt" that made Tom demonstrate to himself the necessity of picking the right club for a shot. Stationing a caddy about a hundred yards from the practice tee, the professional had the boy hit a couple of balls at him with a brassie. Naturally, the shots went far over the boy's head, so Tom hit some more with a spoon, midiron, No. 3, and No. 4 irons, and mashie.

All of them went too far, unless he dubbed the shot, and finally he found the club he needed for that distance in the spade mashie [No. 6 iron]. In the spade mashie Williams had him try to hit a few shots with the mashie niblic and niblic later to show him these clubs were too short. Tom had a tendency to toe-in with the club, thus straightening the face and getting a lower shot than the club was designed to play, until Williams told him the bottom line of the club head and the shaft should be at right angles to the line of flight. It was a practical demonstration in finding out what club to use for a shot of any length.

It's True; People Play Golf at Sunrise, and Like It, Too

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The golfer who tees off at the break of dawn is something of a legendary character to the average layman. Comparatively few ever have seen any one play golf at sunrise, possibly because few get up at sunrise. So, to throw more light on the character and habits of the early morning player, an investigator was commissioned to present himself at the Jackson park course at dawn yesterday and keep his eyes as wide open as could be reasonably expected at that hour.

From his findings he was to prepare a dissertation which would answer the following questions: 1. Do people really get up in the dark and go out to play golf? 2. If so, who? 3. If so, why?

Six Ready to Play.

It was a quarter to five and the east was beginning to grow just a little gray as the investigator approached the scene of his studies. Through a rift in the clouds a waning moon looked down as though a bit anxious to go off duty. A moment later he came to the clubhouse, and there, in the darkness, he saw six men lounging upon benches.

The six seemed so shadowy and mysterious, sitting there beneath the stars, that they might indeed have been characters in a legend. To one who had always associated golf with blazing sunshine, it seemed inconceivable that they would presently go to the tee and bang a ball down the fairway. But their golf bags proclaimed their purpose, and the first question was answered. People really do get up in the night and go out to play golf.

The second question came next. If so, who?

There were 32 of them by the time the starter arrived at five o'clock. The first to tee off was A. F. Enke, who has been playing sunrise golf at Jackson park for sixteen years. He manages to get in his eighteen holes nearly every morning before reporting for work in the loop at half past eight o'clock.

Did Anybody See It?

Teeing off at daybreak is a ceremony which requires at least one assistant, and preferably more. As Mr. Enke addressed the ball his companions, C. E. Braun, J. L. Stoub and R. O. Van Fleet squatted down close to the ground to observe more accurately the line of flight. Mr. Enke swung smartly and the ball went sailing 150 yards into the morning mists.

"Did anybody see it?" he asked.

The watchers reported that they had a general idea of its whereabouts, so the squatting process was repeated until the other members of the foursome had teed off one by one.

Then there came a Scotch-Irish combination—David MacKinzie and Albert Casey, both of whom are employed at a loop department store. Several mornings each week they play at sunrise and get down town before 8:40 o'clock. Casey started the game as a caddie sixteen years ago, but his partner began only last season. James and John Thomas also were among the regulars.

Women Play Early, Too.

Sunrise golf is not a sport for men only. Mrs. E. C. Kingsbury was among the earliest. She said that she and her husband play several mornings each week.

The starter said that during the summer months there will be a line of at least a hundred when he opens at five o'clock. On Saturday nights some sleep on the benches to be sure of an early getaway.

And now the third question comes. Why do people get up at such an hour?

Well, they were enjoying themselves and seemed to consider that sufficient reason in itself. Then, too, there may be something after all in this morning air bucking one up before going to the office.

Mr. Casey Convinces Mrs.

And to top it all, Albert Casey told how he convinced his wife that sunrise play was the thing. One Sunday she decided that a little golf would be nice before dinner, so he took her over to Jackson park to shoot a round.

"I'll park the car," he said, "while you run over and sign up for the two of us. I'll be right after you with the golf bags."

She was back before he had maneuvered into the curb.

"What time is it?" she asked.

"Ten-thirty. What time do we get on?"

"Four-fifty-five."

TOLAN'S CENTURY TIME APPROVED AS WORLD MARK

Simpson's Record of 9.4 Is Rejected.

BERLIN, May 20.—(AP)—Eddie Tolan, Negro sprinter of the University of Michigan, was officially recognized today as the world's record holder for the 100 yard dash and the first sprinter in history to cover the distance in less than 9 3-5 seconds in a well authenticated race run without starting blocks.

The little, bespectacled sprinter from Michigan was clocked in 9 5-10 seconds in the Western conference championships at Evanston, Ill., May 25, 1929. This performance was accepted by the International Amateur Athletic federation this afternoon as the official world's record.

Paddock's Mark Refused.

Tolan's time, made in a memorable race in which he defeated, among others, George Simpson of Ohio State, supersedes the 9 6-10 figure which several sprinters were able to equal but never to beat officially in the long history of the sport.

Charley Paddock once turned in a 9.5 but it was refused recognition because the I. A. A. F. did not approve the tenth-second watches at that time. A 9 4-10 performance by another Californian, Frank Wykoff, was too recent for submission to the present meeting of the international body.

Four other records made by Americans were accepted by the federation at its session today, but the application of Simpson for approval of his 9 2-5 mark made last year, was denied because starting blocks were used.

Approve 16 Records.

All, told, 16 new world marks were inscribed upon the record books as the federation considered for the first time the great performances registered in the Olympic year of 1928 and in the period since then.

The four records set down to the credit of Americans in addition to Tolan's were:

Forty-seven seconds flat for the 400 meter run, made by Emerson Spencer, former Stanford university track captain.

One hundred and sixty-three feet 8¾ inches for the discus throw, made by Eric Krenz of Stanford.

Fourteen feet 1½ inches for the pole vault, made by Lee Barnes, former University of Southern California athlete.

Three minutes 13 4-10 seconds for the one mile relay, made by an American Olympic quartet consisting of George Baird, Morgan Taylor, Ray Barbuti, and Emerson Spencer, in a dual meet with Britain shortly after the last Olympics.

Uplift, Too, It Appears, Needs Profits

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Paddy Harmon, the old lamplighter of the gas house district, a coarse character with no civic consciousness to speak of, has been unable to regain control of the Chicago Stadium, a monument to the altruism and high purpose of some of the more refined citizens.

All persons interested in civic uplift and the suppression of sordidness will be pleased to reflect upon this, as it shows that the better element at last have been able to score a first down against those who are undesirable socially and insensible to their civic obligations.

The Stadium, which is bigger and more elaborate than the Garden corporation's plant in New York, is supposed to have cost $6,000,000. Mr. Harmon built it, in a manner of speaking. That is, if Tex Rickard built the New Garden Mr. Harmon built the Stadium, although in each case built is a rather loose term, for both boys actually put comparatively little money into their respective temples. What they really did was promote them, interesting the so-called Great Big Men of their respective communities by appealing to their vanity as well as their cupidity.

This of itself was no trivial achievement in either instance because Great Big Men in all communities, while they are easily flattered, are slow to invest in projects which seem likely to pay off in civic pride. Both Mr. Rickard and Mr. Harmon had to convince their respective Great Big Men that their stock would go up and that the prestige accruing to them as public benefactors would be in the nature of an extra dividend.

Mr. Harmon had the alertness to make this appeal at a time when money was very plentiful among the Great Big Men of Chicago, most of whom were supporting American industry on margin. As I recall the early prospectuses, the boys were doing this principally to give the city an amphitheater second to none.

Perhaps some of them actually did not give much consideration to the matter of stock values and cash dividends. Money was so loose that, beyond a certain amount, a man might have to pay $1.10 for every dollar of income, which made it expedient to risk a small dab of $50,000 in a futurity enterprise. This is not forgetting, either, the matter of the prestige.

The sporting dukes of England usually inherit their family reputations as patrons of the games, but in this country most of the Great Big Men, being self-made, must roll their own. That is why one sees current millionaires going in for the fantastic luxury of 1,500 acre private parks, with horse barns on them far more luxurious than most workmen's dwellings, in the effort to qualify as Lord Derby's opposite number in the United States.

In the beginning Mr. Harmon, the old lamp lighter from the gas house district, was president of the Chicago Stadium, but after some time, when money became less burdensome to the leading citizens of Chicago, the boys found fault not only with his management but with his personality as well.

Mr. Harmon had gone on from lamp lighting to the operation of neighborhood dance halls and fight clubs. It was while he was operating a dance hall called Dreamland that he dreamt the idea of building the biggest indoor stadium in the world.

Mr. Harmon's idea of sport ran largely to prizefights, six day bicycle races, and wrestling matches, the pleasures of the sort of people with whom his whole life had been cast. Although he had some successful moments, these events could not carry the financial load of the Stadium because, if they did not overstate the cost of the place in their publicity, it would have to clear $1,000 a day above all costs of operation and production to pay the interest on the investment and on the bonds.

Still it was rather surprising that the Great Big Men should wish to displace Mr. Harmon on this account, remembering that they went into the

Hudlin Stops Hose in Opener.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Persons familiar with the shortage of first class pitching talent at Mr. Comiskey's baseball store didn't expect the poor White Sox to win either of their games yesterday with the Cleveland Indians. Always nice and affable and not desiring to cross up the experts, the Sox staged a double flop, 7 to 3 in the first game and 7 to 5 in the second.

WILLIS HUDLIN.

At that, if you could throw out two innings, the second session of the first game and the sixth inning of the second contest, both of which were very sour, indeed, it was a nice afternoon of baseball.

There was a goodly gathering out to enjoy the dandy weather and every once in a while some Comiskey would do something pretty good to make the customers forget the inefficiency that keeps sticking up its sinful head every so often.

The second game was better than the first, perhaps because Willis Hudlin, who won the first game, was a better pitcher than Ken Holloway, who pitched 7 1-3 innings of the second game before being relieved by Wes Ferrell. But before we get all bawled up hopping back and forth between the two games permit us to talk a while about the first game.

Jolley Gets Triple.

In the second inning of the opener the Indians made three runs and grabbed an edge which they never lost, due to some inept playing by Bill Hunnefield and Bill Cissell, and only fair to middling pitching by old Red Faber. Doubles by Shires and Cissell, and a triple by Kamm furnished whatever thrills the spectators got from the total of eleven hits acquired by the Sox.

As previously mentioned, the sixth was the wrecker of the second game.

In this game, however, Smead Jolley finally "got hold of one,"—the first time this championship season the big boy has accomplished one of the kind of hits that made him famous in the minors. It was a line drive triple that hit the top of the wall in front of the center field bleachers.

Bill Hunnefield also came to life for three hits and a walk in five trips to the plate, and Shires got into the offensive with a walk, a double and a single in four trips to the plate, only to have his day spoiled by hitting into a double play with two men on in the last of the ninth to end the ball game.

Meet Tigers Today.

The Detroit Tigers, in much better shape than they were when the Sox met them in Detroit, are in town for their first Chicago stand of the season today. Donie Bush has his first string pitching staff, Ted Lyons, ready to work.

Tommy Thomas may be ready for the game tomorrow, but writing about Tommy these days is reminiscent of our compositions about Gabby Hartnett a year ago this month. Mr. Thomas warmed up for the second game yesterday, but decided he wasn't ready to do his stuff and turned the job over to Ed Walsh, who hasn't even come close to winning a ball game this year.

Outfielder Jim Moore will leave for Dallas today, the White Sox having decided yesterday to return him to the Texas league club of that city, where he played last year. Moore was a promising hitter during the spring training trip of the Sox, but he failed to get going after the season started and an injured hand slowed him up.

The Sox were the first to score in the first game. Metzler pushed off with a single to right and went to second while J. Sewell was throwing out Hunnefield. Reynolds fanned, but Shires doubled to left, scoring Metzler. Jamieson hurt himself trying to make

In the second inning the Sox made Faber feel quite natural by giving him the same kind of support they've been tendering him in many of the games he's pitched this year. Hodapp started the terrible session with a single to left, and stopped at second on Falk's single to right. L. Sewell forced Falk, while Hodapp moved to third.

With an easy double play in front of him which would have finished the inning, Hunnefield kicked Goldman's roller, allowing Hodapp to score and Luke Sewell to reach second. Cissell then juggled Hudlin's grounder with a double play again in sight, but did manage to force Goldman, while Luke Sewell tallied. Cissell did even better the next time, letting Jamieson's grounder bound through his hands to right field. Joe Sewell's single to left then drove Hudlin across. Averill ended the inning with a fly to Reynolds.

Cissell wasted a double in the second inning because he took a notion he'd like to steal third. Bill opened the inning with his hit, then became restless when Kamm flied to Hodapp and tried to make the steal, though there was no crying need for same under normal baseball procedure. The two Sewell brothers had not great difficulty in blighting Bill's whimsical act. To add to Mr. Cissell's embarrassment Riddle forthwith came through with a single to center, which would have scored him. Hudlin then throw out Faber.

Red Through in 3d.

It was in the first of the third that Faber was laid low. Fonseca doubled to left and scored on Hodapp's single to center. Hodapp was caught stealing and Falk flied to Reynolds, then L. Sewell shot a drive at Faber's hip. The ball was deflected and Kamm was able to throw out Luke at first but Faber was through for the day.

Weiland went in to pitch at the start of the fourth and the three players who faced him were unable to get the ball out of the infield.

The Sox brought the score to a 4 to 3 status in the last of the fourth. Cissell led off with his second hit, a single to left, and went to third on Kamm's single to right. Bill scored while the Indians were eliminating Riddle and Kamm with a double play. Weiland fanned.

In the fifth Weiland started a score on the way by hitting Joe Sewell with a pitched ball. Averill then popped to Kamm and Fonseca flied to Reynolds but Hodapp singled to left. J. Sewell stopping at second and Falk singled to center, scoring J. Sewell, Hodapp stopping at second. L. Sewell popped to Hunnefield.

Blankenship Gives 3 Hits.

After Weiland had given way for a pinch batter in the seventh, Blankenship attempted to pitch the eighth. He gave up three singles and a run before being yanked in favor of Caraway. Caraway finished the eighth without mishap, but a single, a sacrifice, and another single in the ninth nicked him for the Indian's final run.

As in the first contest the Sox were the first to tally in the second game. Reynolds singled after two were out, stole second, and went to third on a passed ball. Shires walked, then Jolley smacked a single into left center, Reynolds scoring and Shires stopping at second. Cissell forced Jolley.

Walsh got two men out before the Indians set about the business of tying the score in the second inning. After Fonseca and Hodapp had been thrown out on grounders Falk doubled to right and came in on Myatt's triple. Goldman then fouled to Autry.

The Indians took the lead in the third inning on Morgan's homer, but the Sox tied it up again in their end of the third on a walk to Hunnefield, an error by Hodapp, and a double by Shires.

Indians Reach Walsh.

Walsh began to soften up in the fifth but escaped with one run despite a walk, a sacrifice and two singles. In the sixth young Ed had reached his inevitable mellowness. After Averill had fouled to Autry, Fonseca singled and stopped at second when Hodapp beat out an infield roller. Walk then walked, filling the bases. Walsh then turned loose a wild pitch, Fonseca scoring and Hodapp and Falk moving up. Myatt was given an intentional pass, again filling the bases. Next that little half pint, Jonah Goldman, doubled over Reynold's head, scoring Hodapp and Falk.

After J. Sewell had led off the seventh Walsh was yanked for Weiland and after giving up a run in the eighth, Caraway also made his second appearance of the afternoon. Caraway didn't let the ball get out of the infield in the eighth.

Hits by Shires, Cissell and Kamm gave the Sox two runs in the eighth and drove Holloway to cover.

Illinois Takes Lead in Big 10 Golf Tourney

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Ted Wilson, a tall, slim junior from Ohio State, was leading all Big Ten golfers in their annual tournament at Westmoreland yesterday at the end of 36 of their 72 holes for the individual championship. The Illinois team was leading in the team contest with a total of 623 and Michigan was second with 635.

Conditions were good for golf, although the course was somewhat soft due to recent heavy rains. But missed putts played more influence than any other agency in determining yesterday's results.

Hicks Sets Early Pace.

Jarvis Hicks, a second year man from Michigan, was out in front with a 75 at the end of the morning round but slipped back to 77 in the afternoon and Wilson passed him. Hicks closely resembles his sister, Helen, now in Europe with the American women golfers. He never aspired to any golf greatness during his prep school career, nor for that matter did Wilson.

Wilson's most famous experience was to be put out in the third round of the intercollegiate last year by Capt. Johnny Jones of Princeton.

William B. Catterton of Indiana, Bob Kepler of Ohio, Jack Lenfesty, Michigan; Art Walker, Minnesota, and Bob Crowe, Illinois, all were tied at 154 for third place.

The Minnesota team wound up in third place and Wisconsin trailed them for fourth.

Hicks Takes a 7.

In making his 76—75—151, Wilson had a flock of 3 putted greens and was in traps four times. At the 18th in the afternoon his first and second shots were buried in the soft fairway. Hicks got into the bushes at the ninth in the afternoon and he took a 7. Besides this he 3 putted five times.

The team scores:

Civic Uplift, Too, It Seems, Needs Profits

thing originally only to give Chicago a stadium of which all the citizens might be proud. I suppose the boys began taking stock of their odds and ends of assets after the crash in the market and said to themselves that, after all, a little profit would not be inconsistent with their civic duty and service.

At any rate, Mr. Harmon was voted out, and recently the civic leaders in the company voted unanimously in favor of a proposition to rent the Stadium for dog races at $5,000 a day. This came as a distinct surprise to some Chicago citizens, as dog racing is a racket of racketeers. The Chicago tracks, which had been operating under a strange injunction, belonged to Al Capone and Bugs Moran. Inasmuch as Mr. Capone last year warned all persons not to promote dog races in the Chicago Coliseum under penalty of the usual reprisals, it was natural to wonder why he did not now protest against the installation of a dog racket at the Stadium.

Several members of the Stadium directorate are members of the Chicago crime commission, a determined body of men who have decided to enforce order in the town. They have denounced Mr. Capone in a ringing proclamation, and I am sure they would have nothing to do with his racket nor Mr. Bugs Moran's racket, even for $5,000 a day. Yet they did vote to entertain the dog racket, and both Capone and Moran seemed acquiescent about it.

This probably was merely an error of policy and anyway the boys of the crime commission have been spared any embarrassment by a ruling of the Appellate court dissolving the injunction which for several years protected the dog racket for Capone and Moran. There will be no dog races in the Chicago Stadium.

I think I can imagine the temptation of $5,000 a day to a civic uplifter and crime commissioner whose income isn't what it used to be. In times of plenty one can afford to be more civic than in times of stringency.

Not me to scold the uplifters for this. In my present status I should be indignant if some prize fight manager should try to bribe me with a five dollar bill. But five dollars means no more to me today than a $50,000 block of stock in a civic stadium meant to an uplifter a couple of years ago.

In a banker it's Integrity

in a cigarette it's Taste

GOOD REPUTATION and high standards—these are among the banker's chief assets. Likewise, Chesterfield's.

SMOKERS THE WORLD OVER stick to Chesterfield because of its thorough dependability of quality, its unchanging good taste.

GOOD TASTE!—What smoker would trade it for any number of cigarette claims? No Chesterfield smoker would. For here choice tobaccos are blended and cross-blended to a finer aroma and a richer, milder flavor to give you the utmost a cigarette can offer . . . "TASTE above everything".

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price.

BRAVES DEFEAT GIANTS IN TEN INNINGS, 4 TO 3

Berger Leads Attack with Homer and Triple.

New York, May 20.—(AP)—The Boston Braves scored their fourth victory in their five game series with the Giants today by taking the final contest, 4 to 3, in ten innings. It was the third extra inning game of the five.

Wally Berger led the Boston hitters by connecting for his fourth home run of the series and his ninth of the season in the sixth inning and hitting a triple which drove in another run. George Sisler was as effective with the bat, getting a single with the bases full in the tenth inning to drive home the two runs that decided the game.

The Giants got to Ben Cantwell in the tenth and scored one run with none out, but Bob Smith came in and stopped them. Larry Benton pitched the entire game for New York. Score:

Yankees Beat Red Sox, 7-4, in 10 Innings

Boston, Mass., May 20.—(AP)—Two relief pitchers, Herb Pennock of the New York Yankees and Ed Durham of the Red Sox, staged a great battle from the fourth through the ninth innings today, but Durham weakened in the tenth and gave the Yankees three runs and a 7 to 4 victory.

Durham gave the Yankees just one hit from the time he relieved Horace Lisenbee with none out in the third until the extra inning began. Then he walked Combs, Lary and Lazzeri singled, and Gehrig doubled to score the three counters. Pennock went in in the third and allowed three hits.

BROWNS, 8; TIGERS, 2.

Detroit, Mich., May 20.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns pushed the Tigers back into the American league cellar today by winning the series final, 8 to 2, after dropping the first three games. The win put the Browns in seventh place.

The Browns put on a five run rally in the seventh, driving Elon Hogsett off the mound. Lena Blackburn, coach of the Browns, was ordered off the field for objecting to the banishment of Heinie Manush after he had heckled Umpire Van Grafian. McNeely replaced Manush and drove in two runs.

BUSINESS AND RACING.

IN previous periods of business depression, it has been noted that baseball attendance and race track speculation, or betting, do not fall off as heavily in volume as trade generally. The Wake has no theory to account for this except that baseball admission prices are not high and more people have time to attend diamond pastiming. At race tracks, where an extra and comparatively high fee is exacted to enter the clubhouse enclosure, that patronage falls while the general admissions hold more to an even keel.

Thus precedent was followed at the Kentucky Derby Saturday. Attendance, according to the management, was larger than a year ago but smaller than two years ago. "Handle" in the mutuel machines, or volume of betting, was down only about 8 per cent, where as high as 15 per cent had been anticipated. Many former $100 bettors, however, were observed at the $10 windows. Derby speculation reached its high point in 1927, a year of mild business recession, when $2,098,000 passed through the machines, contrasted with $1,641,549 this year.

Possibly an event like the Kentucky Derby is not a true criterion because those present are mainly visitors and obviously they have money to spend or they would not be there.

Another strange feature was that betting on the Derby race itself was nearly two-thirds the loss from 1929. That perhaps was due to the fact that Gallant Fox was such a strong favorite with western aversion to betting on an eastern favorite.

When Washington Park and Arlington open with a preponderant local patronage, we'll have truer line on how much business depression affects racing. There's no reason to suppose precedent will not be followed with a smaller falling off than in business as a whole. Our American public likes to speculate.

Rainy Afternoon.

A melody—an old refrain—
Runs through the patter on the pane,
Which leads me gloomily to look
Through letters old and yellowed book,
And chest where finery is laid.

I try the quaint effect again
Of velvet gown with graceful train;
And now from out a shadowed nook
Comes claiming me a handsome spook

NORTHWESTERN LOSES TO ILLINI TEAM, 14 TO 4

Northwestern's baseball nine had a bad day of it in the field yesterday and dropped their fourth conference encounter to Illinois, 14-4. It was the seventh Big Ten victory for the Illini, who are now firmly in second place.

WISCONSIN, 13; MINNESOTA, 9.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 20.—[Special.]—A ten run rally in the fourth inning enabled Wisconsin to triumph over Minnesota, 13 to 9, here today. By winning the Badgers maintained their lead in the Big Ten race and assured themselves of a tie for first place. Maury Farber, who started for the Badgers, was knocked out of the box in the sixth frame, but brilliant work by Sommerfield kept the Gophers from knotting the count.

sixth. With one out Sherdel got a fluke Texas league single between English and Wilson in short center. Douthit dropped the same kind of a hit back of first base. Then Adams walloped a legitimate single to left, Sherdel scoring. Douthit went to third and Adams scored when Cuyler fumbled. After a pop-up had disposed of Frisch, the two runners scored on Bottomley's double to the right field corner.

Four more Cardinal runs in the seventh started with an infield single by Orsatti. Jim Wilson bounced to Bell and the latter tried for a force play at second, but Hornsby dropped the ball when bumped by the runner. Gelbert cracked a single to right to score Orsatti and placed Wilson on third. Sherdel retired himself by bunting a foul on the third strike. Douthit stepped into the argument with a hit, scoring Jim Wilson. Hack booted the ball, so Douthit continued to second and Gelbert to third. Adams drove the two fellows home by singling over English's head. Bush fanned Frisch and Bottomley to end the disturbance.

Scoring two in the eighth didn't make the Cubs look a bit more impressive. This little meaningless flurry opened with a pass to Dan Taylor who batted for Bush with one out. English slipped a single into center. Heathcote spanked one solidly but Bottomley knocked it down behind first base and threw to Sherdel in time to get the decision.

Hornsby then singled to center, driving Taylor and English home. As soon as Shealy started to work in the eighth he walked Hafey. Orsatti singled and a walk to J. Wilson loaded the corners. Then Gelbert stepped forth with his homer into the left field bleacher, rounding out the total of sixteen Cardinal runs.

AURORA SELECTS FAVORITE, THEN SEES HIM LOSE

Little Gyp Outruns Old Bob Rogers.

Hawthorne Dates

OFFICIALS of the Hawthorne race track yesterday selected dates for the running of their more important stake races. The Hawthorne handicap, carrying $25,000 in added money for 3 year olds and upward at a mile and a sixteenth, will be run on Aug. 9. The Chicago Business Men's handicap worth $10,000 at a mile and a furlong will be up for a decision on Aug. 16. The Chicago Juvenile handicap also worth $10,000 will be run Aug. 23. The Fort Dearborn handicap worth $5,000 will be decided on the same date.

Several old time favorites of Chicago turf crowds hooked up in the Little Show purse at Aurora yesterday, among them Jack Alexander, Bob Rogers, Little Gyp, and Favorite II.

And their noble deeds of the past so divided the speculative judgment of the crowd that it was hard to pick a favorite among them. Finally Bob Rogers went to the post as the choice, but the crowd guessed wrong, as Little Gyp turned up the winner. She performed her task quite brilliantly and handily, galloping to victory by five lengths after running the fastest six furlongs of the afternoon.

Maybe Jack Alexander and Bob Rogers are growing gallant in their old age, for both were fighting hard for a place near the front until the field of eight hit the head of the stretch. Then Little Gyp raced on into a long lead, while Jack Alexander dropped back out of the money, permitting Bob Rogers to finish second and La Belotte to take down the slim end of the purse.

Little Gyp ran the six furlongs over the drying track in 1:16, and to her loyal backers paid dividends of $10.20 in the two dollar market. Jockey J. Boucher, who is making quite a reputation at Aurora, hustled her to victory.

It was theatrical day at the Aurora course and most of the stars from the loop shows were in the gathering trying to pick the winners. If they started playing the favorites they were off to a rough journey, for until Miss Joan won the fourth race, a juvenile event, the public choices were beaten one after another. And Miss Joan had no easy time rolling up her triumph, for Zebra, a daughter of Zev, forced the far western filly to the limit all the way. Good Friend was closing fast and wound up in third place.

Becker Finds Where the Big Ones Hang Out

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Blaney, Upper Peninsula of Michigan, May 20.—The trails to the trout streams in this neck of the woods have not been crowded with fishermen during the last few days. Where the rod and creel boys are we do not know. Maybe the recent freezing weather has sent them back to the steam radiators. Anyway, the rough, winding road which took us down to the Crow river this morning was deserted when we were on our way to the stream with tackle, coffee pot, frying pan and plenty of warm clothes.

The Crow flows into Lake Superior and makes a lot of trouble for itself and all fishermen while covering about 3 or 3½ miles to reach the big lake. The first mile is fairly open water where a fellow can wade and flycast with a short line. Then the stream loses all idea of behaving like a decent trout haven. It plunges into a tangle of fallen cedars, beaver dams, logs, branches and other snags which make practically all fishing impossible. This section is a wonderful hangout for the trout, of course. We saw one old lunker nearly 18 inches long rush from his hideout when we were sliding over and around the logs.

After a half mile of hard luck for the would-be fisherman the Crow again opens up and conducts itself like an orthodox little river. In this good section we had a lot of fun because fish were everywhere around the snags and logs. At one point in the stream, where a crooked old cedar dipped into the current, we stood in water up to our waist and, putting a trout teaser right under the tree, we snagged a plump ten incher. The spot produced nothing more, so we waded down stream. Twenty minutes later G. L. Cox, our fishing partner, came along, worked the same cedar, and hooked a 13 inch fish.

Gordon, Weldon Hawkeyes' Hopes in Big 10 Track Meet

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Iowa isn't one of the four universities favored to win the Big Ten track meet Friday and Saturday at Northwestern, yet the Hawkeyes should score heavily. Two Iowa athletes are expected to win championships.

L. D. WELDON.

Edward Gordon, Negro broad jumper from Gary, Ind., and L. D. Weldon, the best javelin tosser in the Big Ten, undoubtedly will win these events. In addition, Henry Canby probably will place in the pole vault and, if George Saling has recovered from an infection, he can be counted in the scoring in the hurdles. The Hawkeyes also have excellent chances to place in at least two other events.

Throws It 200 Feet.

Weldon has been throwing the javelin consistently around 200 feet this spring. His best mark was 202.48 feet at the Drake relays, an effort which won the event. He also took the title at the Texas relays but was second at Kansas with a mark of 195 feet 5½ inches. Hammond of Southern Methodist university won that day with a toss of 202 feet 7¼ inches.

Weldon won the junior championship of the National A. A. U. meet in 1929, establishing the record. It he can do better than 207 feet 7 inches Saturday he'll break the Big Ten outdoor record held by Northrup of Michigan since 1926.

Gordon is equally certain to score five points for Iowa in the broad jump but De Hart Hubbard's five year old record of 25 feet 3½ inches probably will stand. Gordon's best mark is 24 feet 11⅜ inches, but he hasn't reached this in competition this spring.

Won at Drake, Kansas

At the Kansas relays Gordon jumped 24 feet 6½ inches for the title and won again the following week at Drake with a mark of 24 feet. He also won the broad jump in the Illinois indoor relays.

The Negro was a member of the 1928 Olympic team. Last year he was the best broad jumper in the Big Ten and won the event in the National A. A. U. and National Collegiates. He also competes in the high jump and was joint Big Ten outdoor champion last year. He was runner-up last year in the national collegiates. His best jump is 6 feet 1 inch.

Three hundred and twenty-four Big Ten athletes are entered. The preliminaries start Friday afternoon at 2:30 and the finals will be held at the same time Saturday.

IRISH CAPTURE 13 TO 6 VICTORY FROM BRADLEY

Notre Dame, Ind., May 20.—[Special.]—Notre Dame won a free hitting game from Bradley here today, 13 to 6. The Irish took a five run lead in the first inning and were tied in the third. They came back in their half for three more and were never headed. Sullivan, Notre Dame, and Steiger, Bradley, shared hitting honors with a home run and two singles apiece.

NORTH. TRUST OFFERS RIGHTS OF $4,400,000

Increase in Capital Stock Planned.

BY O. A. MATHER.

On the heels of remodeling and adding to its banking edifice, the Northern Trust company, one of Chicago's big downtown banks, yesterday announced an increase in capital and attendant stock purchase rights which mean a "melon" of more than $4,400,000 to its stockholders.

SOLOMON A. SMITH.

The directors called a special meeting of stockholders for June 24 to authorize increasing the capital stock from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. It is planned to give stockholders of record June 25 the right to subscribe to one new share at $300 for each two shares held. On the basis of yesterday's market price around 965 for the present stock, the rights to buy new shares would be worth about $221 and their total value on the stock now outstanding would be $4,420,000.

New Dividend Plan.

It is planned to pay dividends at the rate of $18 annually on the increased capitalization, compared with 16 per cent regular and 2 per cent extra paid heretofore. The directors also voted to transfer $1,000,000 from undivided profits to surplus.

As the result of this change and apportionment of the $3,000,000 derived from the sale of new stock, the bank will have capital of $3,000,000, surplus of $6,000,000, and undivided profits of about $3,000,000. It will have total capitalization of $12,000,000 and total resources around $72,000,000.

"The business of the Northern Trust company has been constantly increasing in volume," President Solomon A. Smith explained. "With facilities ready for the expanding needs of all departments, the directors believe it now is advisable to have a larger capital structure. This increased capitalization will enable the bank to serve its growing clientele to better advantage. Recent additions and improvements have been paid for out of reserve accounts."

Despite the fact that a number of industrial concerns recently have reduced or omitted dividend payments, the New York Stock exchange reported yesterday that cash dividends paid this month by corporations other than banks and trust companies totaled $262,300,000, an increase of $51,400,000 over May, 1929.

Cuts Payment.

But yesterday's dividend news was not as cheerful. The Calumet & Hecla Consolidated Copper company cuts its quarterly payment in half with a declaration of 50 cents. Three months ago $1 was paid, six months ago $1.50 was disbursed, and prior to that three dividends of $1 each were paid. The current reduction follows that of other copper companies and reflects the recent price cut in the red metal.

The Gotham Silk Hosiery company omitted its common stock quarterly dividend of 62½ cents due at this time. President S. E. Summerfield said unsettled conditions in the industry led the directors to conserve cash in order to maintain a strong financial position. The Mergenthaler Linotype company omitted its usual extra payment, which was 25 cents three and six months ago and 50 cents in previous quarters.

Recession in Steel.

A slight further recession in steel production, accompanied by further price shading in some finished products, and a moderate increase in petroleum production were other bits of adverse news. Steel mill operations this week are placed at 75 per cent of capacity, compared with above 76 per cent last week and 96 per cent a year ago. However, the United States Steel corporation has maintained last week's rate of around 80 per cent. Chicago steel producers reduced prices on steel plates and structural shapes by $1 a ton on large tonnages to meet price cutting by eastern concerns.

Daily average gross crude oil production last week totaled 2,607,900 barrels, an increase of 12,750 barrels a day over the preceding week, according to the American Petroleum institute. Large increases in Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas, Wyoming and New Mexico more than offset a decrease in California. Refineries took slightly less oil and operated at 75.2 per cent of capacity last week, compared with 75.7 per cent in the previous week.

American Smelting Co. Reduces Price of Lead

New York, May 20.—(AP)—The American Smelting and Refining company today reduced the price of lead from 5.60 to 5.50 cents a pound.

Chicago Area Seen Logical Workshop of Continent

BY SCRUTATOR.

The Chicago metropolitan area is primarily a workshop. Advantage of location, including ease of transport, make it the logical place where the raw materials produced in the center of the North American continent are brought together for further shipment or for processing into goods ready for human consumption.

Within the limits to which economical transportation for such raw materials reaches are greater natural resources, on the whole, than exist anywhere else in the world in such diversity. And it would be difficult to find any metropolitan area where greater opportunities for employment exist than here.

Employ Large Numbers.

A number of the industries employing large numbers of men and women are to be discussed here. The first is iron and steel. In northern Indiana and northern Illinois alone the best statistics show that 80,000 or more workers, earning some 150 million dollars a year, are engaged in changing ore from the mines of the lake states into steel ingots and taking these same ingots and carrying them further along into machinery, cans, pipe, girders and all the myriad of things that the world must have from its ferrous metals.

Indiana and Illinois, according to figures formally offered the interstate commerce commission recently, have an ingot capacity approaching eleven million tons a year, or considerably more than 20 per cent of the capacity of the entire country. Gary and Indiana Harbor account for 5,680,000 tons, slightly more than half. South Chicago and Chicago account for 3,724,000 tons. Joliet has a capacity of 708,000 tons and Chicago Heights of 86,435.

There is a certain amount of ingot production in one Indiana city, Kokomo, outside the metropolitan area, and in three Illinois downstate cities, Peoria, Alton and Granite City.

New "Steel City."

When it comes to capacity for manufactured iron and steel articles, Gary, East Chicago and Indiana Harbor have 4,400,000 tons. Chicago and South Chicago have 1,750,000 tons, Joliet 428,000, Waukegan 190,000, and Chicago Height 101,000. In Wisconsin, Milwaukee has plants, or had at the time the report was made, to manufacture 327,000 tons of steel goods a year.

The United States Steel corporation announced some months ago its intention to increase ingot capacity around the lower end of Lake Michigan by more than two million tons a year. A new "steel city" projected near Gary, is said to involve an investment of about forty million dollars or more within three years.

At times during 1929 the Chicago district produced more steel than the Pittsburgh district proper. This may happen recurrently in the future, although capacity to produce is still much greater in the Pittsburgh section. Indications are, and it has been predicted by competent steel men, that the Chicago district will eventually overcome this lead.

Raises Production.

From 1912 to 1928 the local district raised its production from less than four and a half to nine million tons, while the country as a whole was going up only 60 per cent—from thirty to fifty million tons. Incidentally, the Gary steel making began only in 1908.

Chicago's metropolitan area today can give the country more steel than the country used for all purposes in 1900. American per capita consumption is growing steadily. In 1900 it was only 300 pounds. In 1928 it was 950 pounds. Consumption in the central states is going up with population increase as well.

It might be confidently predicted that 8 to 10 per cent of the metropolitan population will continue to gain its livelihood from steel and the processes that it involves. That proportion may grow even greater when the new Illinois waterway furnishes rates that will permit the local plants to sell in the south and southwest, as Pittsburgh mills now sell theirs by grace of the Ohio waterway.

NEW YORK STOCK VALUES DECLINED SLIGHTLY IN APRIL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 20.—Reports were current today in Wall street to the effect that the Van Sweringen interests, who acquired a one-half interest in the Denver & Rio Grande Western through their recent purchase of control of Missouri Pacific, were considering plans for liquidating back interest on the Rio Grande general mortgage 5s, clearing the way for payment of dividends on the preferred and eventually on the common.

Unpaid interest and preferred dividends total $13,619,100.

Accumulated unpaid interest on the $29,808,000 general mortgage sinking fund 5s, due 1955, amounts to 25 per cent, or $7,452,000. Interest payment was not obligatory from 1924 to Feb. 1, 1929, but the accumulations must be paid before any dividends may be inaugurated on the 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock, on which $37.50 per share, or a total of $6,167,100 in back dividends had accrued up to May 1, 1930.

Interest payments were inaugurated on the general mortgage 5s of 1955 on the first obligatory date, Aug. 1, 1929. The interest had been earned in previous years, but the directors applied the available earnings and sinking fund payments to the program of rehabilitation of the property.

Pittman Bill Thwarts Hope for Midwest Relief: Haynes

Washington, D. C., May 20.—Relief the middle west hopes to get by means of rail and water routes would be substantially thwarted if the bill introduced by Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.], forbidding rail competition with boat lines operating through the Panama canal becomes a law, according to testimony given today before a subcommittee of the senate interstate commerce committee.

Speaking for the National Industrial Traffic league, a nation-wide organization of shippers, James P. Haynes, executive vice president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, declared that the Pittman bill was the worst piece of legislation of the kind ever presented to congress. Congress, he said, should kill the bill in the interest of the public.

Foreign Competition.

Passage of the bill, contended Mr. Haynes, would prevent American railroads not only from competing with American intercoastal boat lines but with foreign lines carrying goods, for example, through the canal to the Pacific coast. American rail lines also would be prevented from continuing low export rates to the far east.

"There are routes today," he said, "partly by water and partly by rail, that are in competition with routes through the Panama canal. Such joint water and rail routes operate via the Atlantic ocean and gulf of Mexico, thence by rail to the Pacific coast and via the great lakes, thence by rail to the Pacific coast. Moreover, through routes and joint rates via the Missouri and Mississippi rivers, thence by rail, are in contemplation. The pending bill would, therefore, legislate in favor of the water carriers operating through the Panama canal to the disadvantage of competing water carriers operating via other routes."

Mr. Haynes characterized the bill as "class" legislation because it singled out one particular situation of the many of its kind and accorded it treatment differing from that accorded to the others. The interstate commerce commission, he pointed out, would be free to pass on other departures from the so-called long and short haul provision of the law, but not on the question of whether a railroad should be permitted to compete with boats using the Panama canal. He asserted that the proposed legislation contravened on the very basic principle of our legislation which contemplates uniform and fair treatment.

Seven States Oppose.

Opposition of seven central states to the Pittman bill was testified to by J. Paul Kuhn, member of the Illinois commerce commission, speaking for Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Minnesota, Iowa, and Kansas. Commissioner Kuhn related to the committee how the Illinois commission had called a conference of the state commissions on the bill last Saturday.

The commerce commissions of the states named all expressed themselves in opposition to the measure. Commissioner Kuhn said they all feared the effect of passage of the bill on the middle west. He said its passage would increase the disadvantage suffered by the middle west on account of the Panama canal.

The bill was also opposed by R. N. Collyer, representing the large eastern railroads, and Fred Farrar, general counsel of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company of Pueblo, Colo.

SUGGESTS ADS TO CLEAR AWAY UTILITY 'MYTHS'

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—Advertising as a means of clearing away misapprehension on public utilities was advocated today before the Public Utilities Advertising association section of the Advertising Federation of America by B. J. Mullaney, president of the American Gas association.

Mullaney, who is also vice president of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company of Chicago, suggested advertising as a means of dissipating that "white whiskered old falsehood about extortionate rates to produce dividends on watered stock." He said that it would also help to do away with the "monopoly myth" and the assumption of a "breakdown in state commission regulation."

Freight Loadings for Week Off 8,968 Cars

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—Revenue freight loadings for the week ended May 10 were reported by the American Railway association to have totaled 933,931 cars. This was a decrease of 8,968 cars below the preceding week, and a reduction of 115,029 cars below loadings for the corresponding week a year ago.

Second Security Bank to Erect $200,000 Addition

Work is expected to start shortly on an addition to the Second Security bank of Chicago at 1951 Milwaukee avenue at the intersection of North Western avenue, from plans by Zimmerman, Saxe & Zimmerman. It is estimated that the cost may be in the neighborhood of $200,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 20.—Traders talked tariff today and let the stock market shift for itself. The result was that price movements were highly irregular. During most of the day the predominating tendency was toward lower levels. Leading issues yielding close to their lows of the recent reaction.

A rather spirited little rally developed in the last hour, however, and many of the earlier losses were materially reduced and in some cases replaced with gains. Experts attributed the recovery more to an oversold condition of the market itself than to any genuine bullish enthusiasm.

News of the day was not particularly inspiring, dispatches from leading steel centers indicating a further slight contraction in all operations but neither—on the other hand—was there anything in the overnight grist to be alarmed about. One of the smaller copper companies cut its dividend and a silk company voted omission of the quarterly payment due at this time, but that just about tells the bear end of the tale.

As for Tariff—

As for the tariff—well, both sides agreed that the market as well as business stood in a way to be benefitted by the earliest possible disposal of the problem. Until then one must make the best of a bad situation, or something to that general effect.

Outside of the late rally, the feature of today's proceedings was the sharp breaks suffered by a number of high priced issues in the forenoon trading. Auburn Auto crashed a dozen points or so to a price more than 100 points below its level of a month ago, but came back smartly to close where it did last night. Johns-Man-

Looking toward the Young Loan...

On May 12th, the Bank for International Settlements was officially brought into existence at Basle, Switzerland. It is now discussing the terms of the $300,000,000 German Reparations Loan which will be offered, it is expected, within the next few weeks. Press reports indicate that these bonds will have a 5½% coupon and will be offered at a price that will give a return of around 6%.

The offering of this large German loan will be made in several countries. The American share will probably amount to about $85,000,000 par value.

The publicity which will attend this important financial operation will again direct the attention of the American investor to the attractive investment opportunities in German dollar issues. It will emphasize the financial and economic strength of Germany and its leading industries. It may well, as the offering of the Dawes Loan in 1924 did, initiate a broad upward movement of the market prices of German bonds.

This situation suggests to the investor the advisability of considering right now the German issues which are available on an attractive basis.

We shall be pleased to furnish complete information on the following issues, representative of our German underwritings:

WITH SENTIMENT BEARISH, PRICES OF GRAIN SUFFER

July, Sept. and Dec. Oats Hit New Low.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Lack of a broad speculative interest is counting heavily against the price of grain, and, with sentiment bearish, prices dropped steadily from the opening of the markets, with July, September and December oats selling at a new low for the season as the result of scattered liquidation. Wheat at the inside was 2¾@3¾c above the season's low. Corn came within 1@1¾c and rye 1@2¾c of the inside figures of the crop year.

News apparently has little lasting effect on values, especially that of a bullish character. Weakness in the Liverpool wheat market led to local selling. Some stop loss orders were caught on the way down, the July at the inside showing 3¾c under the high of Saturday. The close was at net losses of 1⅞@1¾c, with May $1.03⅛ and July $1.03⅝.

Shorts Give Support.

Bulk of the buying in wheat was credited to shorts who were taking profits on sales made Monday and late last week. The fact that Europe must buy liberal quantities of North American cash grain almost regardless of price, and that stocks on ocean passage are the smallest in twenty-three years, counts for little at the moment, due to the absence of general speculation in the market. There is no bull leader except the Grain Stabilization corporation, which has been doing little for a number of days, apparently confining its operations to disposing of the cash grain recently secured on future contracts.

From a statistical standpoint the world situation is much stronger than a year ago, but the prospect is that the carryover at the end of the season will be somewhat above the average of recent years. European crops promise to fall short of what they were in 1929, and Broomhall's summary indicated that dry weather was now urgently needed abroad, with some mention of rust. Black rust talk was in circulation during the day, with winter wheat in a few sections of Texas and Kansas showing infection as the result of the persistent wet weather.

There was some buying of futures here during the day that was regarded as removing hedges against export sales, but the seaboard failed to confirm any business of consequence. Winnipeg was heavy and 1⅝@1½c lower for the day, while Liverpool was off 1¼@1½d on more favorable Canadian crop comments and on a lowering in the asking price of Argentine offers. A private report made condition in the three Canadian provinces 96 to 101, with the moisture situation in Manitoba slightly better than the ten year average, while in Alberta it is 85 per cent, and in Saskatchewan 91 per cent.

Liquidation in Corn.

Weakness in wheat and oats with the forecast for fair and warmer weather led to scattered liquidation in corn. With the country showing more disposition to sell grain, to arrive prices dropped 1⅝@1¾c from Monday's close and finished within a fraction of the bottom, with net losses of 1⅜@1⅝c, May being 78⅜@78¾c, and July 80@80⅛c. Private reports indicated that field work was making rapid progress in parts of the belt, and, with a letup in the rain, the completion of planting is looked for within a few days over a large area. The country sold 62,000 bu to arrive, the largest day's business so far, and central Iowa offered rather freely, although asking about 1c more than buyers were willing to pay.

Selling of September oats credited to a local professional ran the market into stop loss orders, and prices dropped 1¼@2c from Monday's finish, support being lacking on the way down. Around the inside figures cash houses took the May and shorts, and investors the deferred futures. Final trades were at net losses of 1¼@1⅝c, with May 40⅝c and July 39⅝c.

Trade in rye was light and the market easier in sympathy with wheat, closing 1⅝@2c lower, with May 58c and July 61⅞c. Russia was said to have made liberal sales for May-June shipment at 51c c. i. f. Rotterdam.

FINAL COTTON RETURNS SHOW LITTLE CHANGE

A government report giving the final returns yesterday on the crop of 1929 estimated production at 14,828,000 bales, compared with 14,919,000 bales issued by the department of agriculture in December. Acreage as revised was 47,067,000, compared with 45,981,000 as given by the department. Yield per acre of lint was 155 lbs. The actual ginning was 14,821,499 lbs.

As a market factor the report had no significance, the trade being more interested in the weather and the operations of the coöperatives than in any other factor. Shorts were good buyers at times and the market closed around the best prices, with gains on old crop futures 1 to 12 points, of which 7 to 12 points were in New York. New crop deliveries were mostly 3 to 8 points higher, Chicago gaining 4 to 6 points. Spots were 10 points higher in New York at 16.40c, 5 points up in New Orleans at 15.60c, Galveston 15.75c, and Houston 15.40c. Liverpool closed 15 to 18 points net lower with spot sales 2,000 bales. DISTRIBUTORS BUY LARD

Distributors were fair buyers of July lard yesterday and commission houses bought July and September. Business in all was fair, with a few trades in May. The open interest in the latter, however, is said to be small. Hog prices were 10c lower and receipts at western points larger than a week ago but smaller than one and two years ago. Liverpool lard was unchanged. Export clearances from the seaboard 903,825 lbs.

Trade in bellies was light, with May 2½c higher and other deliveries 2½c lower. Cash trade was fair. Export clearances 39,500 lbs. Fat backs and Cumberlands in Liverpool were 2s lower. Prices follow:

IT is a carefully made statement that there is "nothing else in investment literature like this book."

It gives you a cross-section of the real problems that confront investors—as revealed by the questions they ask. These questions have been answered by the Old Counsellor over the nation-wide network which carries the Halsey, Stuart & Co. radio program every Wednesday evening.

From more than one hundred questions discussed by the Old Counsellor over a two-year period, those of widest application have been selected and reprinted in this book—also the addresses of twenty eminent guest speakers.

The complete text of these radio talks is legibly but compactly printed on thin paper, making a handy book, small enough to slip into the pocket or convenient to keep in your desk.

Readers of this book may get from it a good grasp of investment fundamentals. If kept for reference, it may often help in deciding some difficult investment problem.

A copy will be sent upon request—ask for booklet CT-5.

CHICAGO STOCKS SPURT AHEAD IN CLOSING HOUR

Mo-Kan Pipe Line Co. Reports Income.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

After splashing about in the liquidation which held the list in check during most of the session, stocks on the Chicago exchange yesterday spurted in the last half hour of trading and closed the day with a flourish of strength.

Not all of the issues finished higher, but closing prices were generally well above the lows for the day, and a few stocks cleared with substantial net gains.

Conspicuous in the latter group were Winton Engine and Majestic Household. Strength in General Motors on the big board brought good buying in Winton, which advanced 1⅛ selling ex dividend. Buying orders in the stock were said to come mostly from New York. The company will be acquired outright by General Motors if stockholders approve the purchase plan proposed by directors.

Majestic Sales Heavy.

Sales in Majestic topped 35,000 shares and, while touching a low near 9 during the day, it mounted rapidly to 9¾, to finish with a net gain of ⅞ points. Dealings in Grigsby Grunow were not as heavy, and the price was off a small fraction at the close.

Cities Service was the most active stock on the board, but the price range was narrow. The close was down a fraction from the previous day.

Other features of the session were a further recovery by H. O. Stone common and a last minute jump of about 2 points by Super Maid. Auburn was a spectacular performer, dropping to a new low for the year at 150 and rebounding to finish with a net gain of 4 points. The issue was comparatively active, sales approximating 1,100.

Elsewhere in the list final prices were irregular within a narrow range compared with the previous day's close. Gains of a point were chalked up for Swift and Swift International, Inland Utilities and Bendix. Adams Manufacturing and Jefferson Electric each lost a point.

Adjusts Balance Sheet.

Missouri Kansas Pipe Line was steady around 34 on fairly active trade. The company yesterday filed with the exchange the income account for the fiscal year ended March 31 and a balance sheet as of the same date, but adjusted to give effect to the application of the proceeds from the sale of stock made since that time. The stock sold since then consists of 898,-611 common shares and 1,598,193 shares of class "B" stock.

The report shows net income for the year of $109,871 after charges including depreciation and depletion. Deductions for depreciation and depletion were based for the most part, the company stated, on rates determined by independent engineers. The earnings are equivalent to slightly more than 6 cents a share on 1,583,918 shares of common stock outstanding at the end of the year.

In the detailed earnings statement by months a definite upward trend was shown. Earnings for March, 1930, amounted to $51,865 compared with $16[illegible]402 in September, 1929, and $10,728 in April, 1929.

The balance sheet reflecting the sale of stock since March 31, revealed total current assets of $27,475,106, which included $26,881,895 in cash and working funds and $301,127 in marketable securities. Total assets were shown at $26,314,501, including property, plants, and leaseholds listed at $6,265,839.

Total current liabilities were $770,-820. Included in this figure was $534,-429 as liabilities on acreage purchased and commitments for affiliated companies.

Chicago Curb Exchange Stocks

Spirited trading in a number of the lower priced issues featured yesterday's Chicago curb session. Rustless Iron finished fractionally higher and Hammond Clock rights and Midland United rights changed hands actively throughout the day. A good demand for Automatic Musical nearly doubled the value of this issue. On the soft side McCord and Niagara Hudson were off a point and Sundstrand dipped two points to its lowest price of the year.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP)—Cotton goods were in a little better demand in the fine gray cloth division. Crepes have sold freely. Finished goods were selling moderately. Moderate duplicate orders for men's wear were coming forward. Silk showed little change. Burlaps were in light demand.

COMMON SENSE applied to a COMMON STOCK Investment

FOLLOWING are a few simple "common sense" reasons for our recommendation of Southern Union Gas Company Common Stock.

The Company is a public utility holding and management company engaged through its subsidiaries in the Natural Gas industry.

The Natural Gas industry is acknowledged by authorities to be the most promising field for profitable investment at this time.

Southern Union's operating territory now is the great and growing Southwest section of the country. In five states it controls and manages ten subsidiaries serving Natural Gas to some forty cities and towns.

Expansion has been sound and aggressive. In pursuance of a definite plan, properties have been acquired in diversified territories where the available domestic and industrial markets for gas insure profitable operation and the natural growth of population and business is certain to provide increasing earnings and stability for the Southern Union system.

Southern Union is building for the future—a well organized and correctly financed company, it represents a practical expression of carefully matured plans, still being extended, by which it already is one of the leading companies in the Southwest and through which it is in the not distant future destined to occupy a commanding position in the industry.

There's a right way and a wrong way to do everything—even to solving storage problems. Perhaps you can store twice as much of raw material, finished product or office records in the space you are now using . . . and make finding things easier, too. Perhaps your storage facilities appear too limited—when, as a matter of fact, a different arrangement would prove them entirely adequate.

Why not consult a specialist? Surely the advice and counsel of men who have spent years in the study of storage problems would be of value to you—particularly when the service is gratis!

And here's news of special interest to Chicago business men. Our Chicago branch has been moved to new, larger and more convenient quarters—in the North American Building, second floor, at State and Monroe Streets.

This will be Chicago headquarters for handsome, practical and enduring GF Allsteel Office and Storage Equipment. Here also are experienced men ready to give you counsel or service. A phone call will bring one of them to your office—any time.

MODERNISM TO BE DISCUSSED BY ARCHITECTS

Chicagoans to Attend the Washington Meet.

BY AL CHASE.

"Modernism" will be the theme of a national symposium at the sixty-third annual convention of the American Institute of Architects which will open today in Washington, D. C., with President C. Herrick Hammond of Chicago, presiding. More than six hundred architects, representing the institute's chapters in all parts of the country, will attend. Fifteen Chicago architects left this city yesterday afternoon to attend the convention as delegates.

C. HERRICK HAMMOND. [Moffett Photo.]

Chicagoan to Speak Today.

Charles Butler of New York is organizing the symposium, which will occupy today's sessions of the convention and at which Louis La Beaume of St. Louis, will preside. Both are directors of the institute.

The whole field of contemporary architecture will be discussed. Both the modernists and the conservatives will be heard. Dean Everett V. Meeks of the Yale school of fine arts, Earl H. Reed Jr. of Chicago, and Ralph T. Walker of New York will be this afternoon's speakers.

Many Topics on Program.

Development of the national capital, city and regional planning, public education, industrial relations, preservation of historic mounments, registration laws for architects, plans to develop "The Octagon," headquarters of the institute in Washington, as a national center of architecture are among other topics to be discussed.

President Hammond will end his two terms of office as president of the American Institute of Architects at this convention. The next head of the national organization probably will be a New Yorker, as two gentlemen from Manhattan are announced as probable candidates and no other city, so far as is known, has any name it is backing.

Consolidated Cigar.

Kindly give me details on Consolidated Cigar.—M. G. N.

Consolidated Cigar corporation was formed in 1919 as a consolidation of several companies. Properties include 26 factories located in New York, Philadelphia, Allentown, Lancaster, Pa., and several smaller cities. The cigars manufactured retail from 5 cents to 25 cents and include the "Henry George," "The Harvester," "Mozart," and "Dutch Masters."

By absorbing the G. H. P. Cigar company in 1926 the company doubled its earning power. Further growth was evidenced in 1927 and 1928. Earnings last year declined somewhat from the year before, but from 1923 to 1928 an increase was shown each year.

The company has mechanized its plants to a point where about 85 per cent of its output is made by machine.

Net income for last year was $3,314,090, equal after preferred dividends to $9.57 per share on 250,000 no par common shares, against $3,613,797, or $10.64 a share, in 1928. Net in 1927 was $2,921,638, compared with $2,372,754 in 1926, $1,523,162 in 1925, $1,081,432 in 1924, and $471,985 in 1923.

Net profit for the first quarter of the current year was $497,473, against $668,924 in the like period of 1929.

As of Dec. 31, 1929, current assets were $19,200,758 and current liabilities were $1,134,500, leaving a net working capital of $18,066,258, which compares with $17,836,440 a year before. Surplus was increased from $2,095,785 to $2,587,069 during 1929.

Dividends on the common have been $7 per annum since 1927.

In addition to the common shares there is outstanding $10,655,000 of prior preferred stock and $3,226,500 of preferred stock, both of $100 par value.

Both classes of preferred deserve a fairly good rating. The common is medium grade and somewhat speculative.

Crucible Steel.

Do you regard Crucible Steel 5 per cent debentures as a good investment for part of a school teacher's funds?—E. A. S.

Crucible Steel Company of America $10,000,000 ten year 5 per cent debentures, due May 1, 1940, recently offered by Chase Securities corporation and Mellon National bank are reasonably sound, a suitable investment for a portion of one's funds.

Net income of the company and its subsidiaries, available for interest on funded debt, for the year ended Dec. 31, 1929, was equivalent to more than eleven times the annual interest requirements of the entire funded debt to be outstanding upon the completion of this financing.

For the five years ended Dec. 31, 1929, such net income averaged 8.8 times these interest requirements. Net tangible assets are reported to be $11,760 per $1,000 debenture. Equity junior to these debentures has an indicated market value of around $65,000,000.

THREE CHICAGO CURB OFFICIALS ASKED TO RESIGN

Thirty members of the Chicago Curb Exchange association have signed a petition asking for the resignation of three of their governors who, according to the petitioners, have been active in the development of the securities market of the Chicago Board of Trade. The curb association has a total membership of 200.

The petition is an outgrowth of the controversy between the two bodies over the dual listing of the stocks of the Walgreen company and the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. The governors named in the petition are Leo J. Doyle, George A. Kroehl, and David H. Annan. The petitioners claim that their presence on the governing committee "jeopardizes the welfare of the Chicago Curb exchange and the business of all of its members."

It is expected that the petition will be presented to the board of governors at their meeting tomorrow. A conference between President John A. Bunnell of the Board of Trade and a committee appointed by the curb is also scheduled for tomorrow.

Chicago Board of Trade Stocks

An order for 1,500 shares of Electric Bond and Share was executed on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday and one single trade of 1,100 shares was made. In all, 9,950 shares of this security were sold with a break of nearly 3 points at one time and a recovery to 99¼, or the same as Monday's finish. Ford Motor of Canada broke ¼ on a sale of 400 shares. Standard of Indiana lost ¾, closing at the bottom on sales of 300 shares. Walgreen was off a point with only 150 shares sold. The list in general was mainly easier.

CHICAGO MUTUAL CONCERN PROFITS RISE 16 PER CENT

JAMES S. KEMPER. [Harris & Ewing.]

The Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company made profits of $2,307,388 during the last year—a gain of over 16 per cent over the preceding year — President James S. Kemper of the company told policyholders at their annual meeting here yesterday.

Of this sum $1,757,104 was returned to policyholders in dividends, $250,000 was added to voluntary reserves, and $300,284 was added to surplus. Cash assets of the company now total $11,638,980, including net cash surplus of $1,827,884. During 1929 premiums written totaled $12,162,720.

"Of the company's $7,500,000 invested assets," Mr. Kemper said in his report, "62.6 per cent are in government and municipal bonds, 1.5 per cent in federal farm loan bonds, 0.8 per cent in public utility bonds, 26.4 per cent in first mortgage loans on real estate, and 8.7 per cent in bank and insurance stocks. Since organization in 1912 the company has not lost a dollar in either principal or interest on any of its investments."

CASTLE FINDS FOREIGNERS USE MORE U. S. GOODS

A growing demand on the part of Europe for American made goods of a modern character is seen by Ward C. Castle, executive vice president of the National Bank of the Republic, who returned to Chicago yesterday after six weeks study of conditions across the Atlantic.

WARD C. CASTLE.

Europe seems particularly interested in American building materials and in Italy the demand for patented and processed roofing and insulating goods has grown to large proportions, Mr. Castle said. Italy, he stated, gives an amazing outlook for prosperity.

"Our greatest worry about Europe right now is what will be done in the way or retaliation against the new tariff," said Mr. Castle. "The French are particularly bitter about the tariff bills as they now stand and my observation is that they are prepared to take drastic 2steps for retaliations should there be no modifications."

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Look for Improvement.

Many traders in the financial district are looking for an improvement in the market for railroad stocks shortly. They expect the Cousens resolution, which would probably bring to a halt all plans for mergers and consolidations in the transportation field, to die in committee, it is said. They also expect further progress in the way of consolidations. Several railroad groups are said to have definitely agreed on plans which they will file with the interstate commerce commission shortly.

May Pay Initial.

Directors of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railway are scheduled to meet tomorrow afternoon. Wall street heard on very good authority that they will vote to pay an initial dividend on the company's common stock of $1 a share.

Cigaret Sales.

The American Tobacco company seems assured of turning in an excellent earnings statement for 1930. In all probability it will be the best in the company's history. Sales of Lucky Strike cigarets in the first four months of this year were 1,826,000,000 in excess of those in the corresponding period of last year. In April the increase was 262,000,000 over April, 1929.

"BEATING" the NEWS OF THE STOCK MARKET

How many wise investors are making their commitments at most advantageous prices?

WHEN you are contemplating the purchase of sound, profit-making securities, it is of vital importance that the price you pay should not too greatly discount future possibilities.

Price-appreciation plays a leading part in the program of profit-building which every wise investor lays out for himself.

If you could devote all your working hours to an intensive study of business and the stock market, you might be reasonably sure of securing favorable prices, at least part of the time, provided that you also had unlimited resources of information and all the necessary facilities for investigation.

But, since such a combination is next to impossible for any individual investor, it becomes necessary to call in outside assistance.

A dependable service

A large and growing army of investors have learned to depend upon the Standard Statistic Company—the largest analytical and advisory organization in the World—for sound advice and information available through no other source concerning the most profitable opportunities for the investment of their funds.

Through a group of highly-trained analysts, located at strategic points throughout the country, "Standard" is in a position frequently to "beat" the news of the stock market, and to discover the most profitable investment opportunities for its clients.

How it works

And "Standard" is highly successful in doing just that. These field investigators are continually studying industrial and other properties at first hand, through intimate contact with corporation executives, bankers and others, who are glad to give them the most cordial co-operation.

As a result, our clients in many instances have the benefit of vital information long before it becomes public property. And, thus they are enabled to "get in" before the rush.

Investigate now

If YOU are interested in such a service—if you have an investment in securities sufficiently large to warrant the payment of a fee ranging upward from $1500 a year for sound guidance—you owe it to yourself to investigate Standard "Supervisory Service."

We are prepared to place at your command, through Standard Supervisory Service, the results of an expenditure running into millions of dollars each year, every penny of it devoted to the development of investment and business information and advice.

Standard Supervisory Service is not one of the thirty services which this company publishes. It is not a "ready made" service, but a strictly personal, individualized service designed to meet the particular needs of each and every client.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 9,000 hogs, 19,000 hors, and 11,000 sheep.

Big prices on the cash trade were forced down 10@15c yesterday in spite of the fact that receipts are running unusually small for the time of year. The extreme top and general average prices were off 10c at $10.30 and $10.00, respectively.

Trading was quiet throughout the day and closing sales were lowest, with 4,000 still unsold. Larger houses finished about 2,500 hogs at the full reduction late in the day, but refused to pay the $10.00 line for good light butchers.

Chicago expects 19,000 hogs today, against only 12,200 the previous Wednesday, while four other points estimate 47,000, against 45,000 a week ago.

Trading on the hog futures market was slower yesterday and prices from weak to slightly lower in sympathy with the break on the cash trade. September lights were sold at $10.20. Top light carried bids of $10.30 at the close, while $10.00 was the highest bid on June contracts.

There were several buyers for July pigs at $10.25, but the lowest offer was $10.50 when the market closed. Both the "to arrive" market, heavy hogs for all week were bid $10.05 and for Friday's delivery, $10.20.

Yesterday's increase in cattle receipts nearly offset Monday's decrease and when 9,000 more were posted for today, against 5,872 the previous Wednesday, buyers encountered little difficulty in operating at weak to 25c lower prices. Plain quality added to the weakness, some medium grades showing more than the general decline late in the day.

A shipment of prime Iowa beeves averaging 1,516 lbs. sold at $14.35, matching Monday's peak, while few others were good enough to bring more than $12.50. Several loads of 1,100@1,160 lb averages sold as low as $10@9.50. Cows and heifers showed little change. About 200 yearling steers averaging 624@750 lbs, sold at $10.40@11.00. Calves sold stronger. Stockers and feeders were steady.

There was a shortage of California spring lambs yesterday and prices advanced 25@50c, while the market for clipped shorn stock dragged along on a steady basis most of the day. "Tops" from the spring lambs sold to packers at $11.25 and to city butchers at $11.40, comparing with $10.75 and $11.25 for top kinds Monday.

U. S. MOTHERS GO TO 'FRONT LINES'; REST AT VERDUN

To Visit Five American Cemeteries Today.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VERDUN, France, May 20.—American Gold Star mothers arrived here tonight in Verdun amid a heavy rain. As the sightseeing buses transporting them rounded the last curves, they saw in the distance the blue ridges of the Argonne, where so many American boys met death in that last thrust of 1918, and in the foreground on a high hill they saw the memorial lighthouse above the Ossuary of Douaumont.

Verdun itself was a surprise. Mothers saw the ruins of medieval structures, an occasional shell scarred skeleton of a house, a jumble of debris and plaster, and streets lined with shiny new shops resembling some fast growing village on the Nebraska plains.

Weary After Long Ride.

The visitors arrived at 6 o'clock this evening. Most of them retired at once, worn out by the long motor ride. Two of the mothers are slightly ill.

The motor caravan on leaving Paris headed for the valley of the Marne. In the course of a few hours, they had skirted scenes of momentous battles. First was the region of the Marne, northeast of Meaux, where the lacerated French army of 1914, headed by Marshals Joffre and Foch, caught the victorious, but exhausted, Gen. von Kluck days ahead of his supplies and changed his march into Paris into a four year deadlock in the trenches of Picardy and Flanders.

Another spot was the little town of Chalons sur-Marne. During the war, Chalons was an important French supply base, and was subjected to almost continual bombardment. Chalons is recalled by American doughboys as the scene of A. W. O. L.'s, where they sang in the cellars heedless of bursting shells. It was also at Chalons city hall, where America's unknown soldier, who now lies in Arlington cemetery, was chosen among six other bodies, all unidentified.

See French Memorials.

At Chalons the mothers noticed many buildings still scarred from the war, and in the railroad yards were seen a dozen pieces of heavy artillery rusting on the tracks, their silent muzzles still elevated.

Along the route all small towns boast impressive monuments to French war heroes. On the outskirts of Laferte, a few feet from the road, is a lone grave decorated with a British flag, with the inscription in English.

From Chalons the party headed northeast, skirting the edge of the champagne country into the plains of Picardy and the valley of the Meuse. Tomorrow morning the mothers will be received by the mayor of Verdun. They will split into small groups to visit the battlefield and five American military cemeteries.

The sixteen mothers of the Suresnes group remained in Paris. Tomorrow they will make their third pilgrimage to Mount Valerian, where their sons lie.

NOBLE, BRANDED CARD CHEAT BY LATE KING, DIES

Wed U. S. Girl Day After Disgrace.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 20.—The death of Sir William Gordon Gordon-Cumming at the age of 82, at his home at Altyre, Scotland, today, revived among Londoners reminiscences of the most sensational slander case ever heard in a British court—the great baccarat scandal of 1891, in which the late King Edward VII., then the prince of Wales, was involved.

The scandal, which drew the future ruler into one of those highly colored episodes so common to the nineties, was an outgrowth of a series of games of baccarat played at Tranby Croft with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson at a house party during Doncaster race week.

Charged with Cheating.

Several of the guests believing they noticed a curious system of playing on the part of Sir William, watched him closely, and later openly charged him with cheating.

The nobleman indignantly denied the charge, but finally consented to sign a document promising never to play cards again as long as he lived. Those present bound themselves to secrecy.

The episode, however, leaked out and became the sole topic of conversation in London society, of which Sir William was a most prominent member. He was thus forced either to tacitly admit his guilt or else take steps to clear his reputation. He chose the latter course, suing the other guests for slander.

Played with Prince's Chips.

The trial was eagerly followed all over the world, and it drew all London society into the courtroom. The prince of Wales was forced to take the stand on the second day, admitting he had brought Sir William to the party and furnished his own chips bearing his crest of three plumes. He testified that he had trusted his friend implicitly, but when so many others made the charges it was difficult to believe that they had all been mistaken.

On the seventh day the court found the defendants innocent of the slander charge, thus spelling Sir William's social ruin.

Married American Girl.

He immediately resigned from all of his clubs and was removed from the army, where he had held the rank of lieutenant-colonel. One person stood by him, however, an American girl, Florence Josephine Garner, daughter of the late Commodore Garner of the New York Yacht club, to whom he was engaged. He offered to release her, but she refused, and they were married the day after the verdict turned against him.

Previous to the fatal baccarat game Sir William Gordon Gordon-Cumming was known as a gallant soldier, a popular sportsman and a member of London society. He participated in the African war of 1879, in the Egyptian campaign of 1882, in the Nile expedition of 1884, and went on numerous big game expeditions. He owned 38,500 acres of land. These estates are inherited by his two sons and two daughters. Lady Gordon-Cumming died in 1922.

—a household word wherever Konjola is known.
There is a reason why seven million bottles of Konjola were used in two years, and that reason can be summed up in just three words—KONJOLA Makes Good.
Read now, before you do anything else, the words of Mrs. Krolick:

MRS. ROSE KROLICK
945 N. Drake Ave., Chicago
"I was in a nervous, run down condition for a year. My appetite was poor and after meals gas formed and caused pain around my heart. I was so nervous at times that I shook all over. I tried many medicines but got no results until my brother-in-law brought me a bottle of Konjola. To date I have used three bottles, and my stomach is fine; appetite is improved and nerves are in fine condition. I am glad to let people know what Konjola will do, and I must heartily recommend and endorse it."

SYNOPSIS.

Catherine West, of Boston, on her way to Paris, meets Geoffrey Macadam in the Reve to Paris train. Macadam is an Englishman who lives in Paris. Catherine tells him that she is going to visit her cousin's widow, Mme. Belmont Bender. She is a little apprehensive about the coming visit because she had received just before sailing a letter from Hermione Cushing, who tells her that Mme. Bender is far from well. Macadam is a lawyer and he tells Catherine that his firm handles Mme. Bender's affairs, but he doesn't know the widow very well. He had heard that she was ill. Arrived in Paris Catherine is a little disappointed when her cousin's chauffeur is not at the station to meet her. Geoffrey sees her into a taxi, giving her his address and telephone number. He tells her that he will be anxious to know how things are at the Bender apartment and she promises to call him. Arrived at Mme. Bender's apartment, she is treated coldly by the servants and Jeanne, Mme. Bender's maid, suggests that she go to a hotel. Catherine insists on staying in the apartment, as she is suspicious of the servants. Jeanne tells her that Mme. Bender attempted to commit suicide the night before. The next morning Catherine goes in to see Germaine Bender, who is pathetically glad to see her. She tells Catherine how she had taken poison by mistake.

Geoffrey invites Catherine to dine with him and it is a relief for her to get out of the apartment and to tell him of her vague fears. He is disturbed too. Geoffrey escorts her back to the apartment. The door is locked, but Geoffrey arouses Eduardo, who says he thought Miss West had come in long before.

The next morning Catherine calls on Miss Cushing, who takes her to her milliner, where she sees a man she has noticed hanging around the Bender apartment. Back in the apartment she finds the gallery open for the first time and she goes in only to discover a number of pictures and tapestries missing. She asks Jeanne about them and the maid says they were sold shortly before Mr. Bender's death. Catherine feels she is lying and believes she and Eduardo are thieves. She finds Jeanne is exerting a baneful influence on Mme. Bender. She denounces Catherine to the invalid. Catherine tells Geoffrey her fears and he puts an investigator to work on the case.

INSTALLMENT XLV.

AN EXCURSION.

For the first time Catherine caught something in Geoffrey's eyes which unsettled her previous conception of him. They stood for a moment speechless, and a little disconcerted, eyeing each other, but in the end all Geoffrey said was that she had better bring a warm coat.

"I thought we'd lunch in town at Ledoyen, then drive out into the country."

"Splendid! I was hoping you'd say that. I am longing to get out of Paris."

He took her coat from her to put it over his arm, and in doing so touched her hand. The blood mounted to his face so that he wondered uncomfortably if she had noticed it.

"I say," he remarked, businesslike as usual, "are you obliged to get back for anything this evening? Because if you are free I was going to suggest we make a day of it and dine out as well?"

Her eyes shone.

"O! You don't know how I should love it! I only meant to come back and write letters, a most dull proceeding. Let me run and tell Berthe not to expect me in,"—and she vanished on her errand.

She returned directly to say that the cook was enchanted, for now she would have the entire evening off.

"And Mme. Bender? Have you seen anything of her?"

Her face clouded.

"Not for days. There is no good forcing myself on her while she feels towards me as she does. Jeanne has advised me to keep away from her, but I shouldn't try to go into her room in any case now. I'm afraid there's nothing I can do."

He preserved a significant silence as they left the building, but as soon as she was seated beside him in the car he spoke with more decision than he had yet used.

"Listen to me, Catherine; I am not happy about your being there. I wish you would make up your mind to leave."

She turned her eyes upon him reproachfully.

"Et tu, Brute!" she murmured lightly, though with a catch in her voice. "Why me too?"

"Wait. I have something to show you."

He was a little curious, but said nothing as the car slid into the Avenue Kleber and headed for the Etoile. In the Champs Elysée he halted before a flower shop and, leaving his companion for a moment, returned with a large cluster of lilies-of-the-valley, crisply fresh in their frame of shiny green leaves.

"They go with your frock," he remarked shortly, laying the offering in her lap.

She buried her nose with delight in the flowers' cool depths.

"O!" she cried rapturously, "if anything was wanting to make today perfect it was this!"—and she thanked him with a glance which went to his head like champagne.

Something had happened to Geoffrey today which was like the premature melting of ice after a long winter. He felt it when they entered the restaurant Ledoyen, half hidden by flowering chestnuts, and made their way to the table he had reserved at the far corner of the glass lined room. The sun pouring in through the high windows and lighting, with splendor the brilliant flower beds outside shone no warmer than the glow within him. The buzz of chatter in several languages, the popping of corks, the waiters hurrying about with obsequious importance among the gay lunchers, all formed a suitable accompaniment for his mood. It pleased him to take in the subtle elegance of the well dressed women, smart with the restraint of the uncharacteristic of Paris, the carmine lips, the jewels flashing in the sunshine, and it contented him still more to note that there was no eclipsing blonde there for the girl opposite him, serene in her poetic green frock, with the look of naturalness always dear to an Englishman's heart.

"Now what is it you were going to tell me?" he said when they had ordered.

With her eyes raised to his over the rim of a cocktail glass she made a little sign to be patient. He watched her fingers busy themselves unclasping the glittering brooch on her shoulder in order to transfer the lilies-of-the-valley to its keeping. Then when she had enshrined the nosegay in the front of her frock and surveyed the result with satisfaction, she opened her hand skin bag and took out an envelope which she laid in front of him.

"What do you think of this?" she asked. "Read it."

He saw his eyebrows go up in astonishment as he recognized the crabbed writing, and an expression of annoyance settle over his face when he had read through the letter's contents.

"The old devil!" he exclaimed softly. "What's the meaning of this? You never told me he'd written to you."

"It was sent off almost immediately," she said with composure. "Soon after he had talked with Jeanne, I think."

He looked quickly towards her.

"How did you know she came to see him?"

"I passed her in the street outside. She didn't see me."

He could tell that he was not only ruffled but embarrassed. For a moment he avoided her eye.

"Please don't pay the least attention to this," he said constrainedly. "I mean, to the tone of it. I hardly know what to say."

"I'm not angry," she answered, "though I was a bit at first. He makes me feel he doesn't believe a word I said. Not only does he imply that I'm to blame for meddling in what doesn't concern me, but that I may be doing positive actual harm."

"Rubbish!" he muttered impatiently.

"It's not rubbish. There's a certain amount of truth in what he says at the moment. She would be upset if I insisted on seeing her, only I am afraid that's only temporary. Things can't go on like this. I'm only saying my time."

"God knows I hope we shall soon know something definite about these things," he remarked after a pause.

"Do you believe we shall?"

"I don't know. We've established the fact that the Manet hasn't passed through any dealer's hands, which is something."

"That's good!" she cried eagerly. "O! I hope we are not trying to put down innocent people."

"Don't bother your head about that. I'm as sure as you are they have a good deal on their consciences."

She took back the letter and glanced at it.

"Another thing—you see what he says about finding some older, more experienced woman to look after Mme. Bender. Surely he must know that she has relations?"

He frowned over this information.

"You are certain there is no one?"

"Germaine declares that Germaine has absolutely no family living, and I ought to know if any one does. Since I have been at the apartment I have never seen or heard of any one connected with her. I have never heard any one so completed isolated."

"That's odd," he observed ruminatingly. "It does make things extremely awkward."

"Of course it does. That's why I feel so responsible."

"Do you know, I don't believe I've ever properly grasped that fact before. What was Mme. Bender's maiden name, by the way?"

Spiritual Life Real as Body, Canadian Says

Speaks to Scientists and Writers at Montreal.

BY STANLEY JACKSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., May 20.—Dr. A. S. Eve, president of the Royal society of Canada, gave special commendation to the spiritual in life in his address tonight to the annual convention of the society. The meeting was attended by scientists and men of letters from all parts of Canada.

Dr. Eve told the members that whereas their researches may often lead them to cold and comfortless beliefs as to immortality and the future generally of man on earth and even the earth itself, yet the spiritual shouldn't be thrown out as a non-existent force. He advised the members to tune in on these spiritual things.

"To suggest that life is merely mechanism is to confuse two terms with quite different meanings," he said. "Machines are contrived from without, but living things are organized from within, and we cannot definitely demonstrate either conscious purpose or intelligent directing mind. Yet we do see the most marvelous coördination of the whole, due to the coöperation of the constituent parts.

"I am speaking of such things as trees and bees, and of many happenings within our own bodies. Were these events left to our conscious and intelligent selves, then our lives would not be prolonged for a minute. We have not intelligence enough to manage even a minute part of our bodies for a small fraction of a second. For example, who of us would dare to assume complete responsibility for the output of new blood corpuscles; or for the necessary continual repairs, say to his eye?

"Who can overemphasize the importance not only of intellectual capacity, but also of sympathetic tuning in all mental fields, where in again form, structure and style are nearly as important as subject or substance?

"No less is this true in all forms of art. It is the glory of the artist to create an artistic field. Appreciation of this field by the observer or recipient again depends on the receptivity both as regards capacity, quality, or value. In mental and artistic fields all the precision of mathematical physics is lacking. Measurable quantities are entirely absent. Judgment, good sense, and experience are the sole guides of value.

"But there is beyond all this, indefinable and precious, that inspiration and genius which persuade us there is something more and something greater than we can include and define in purely physical fields. Yet, if we are going to chop up the universe into wholly independent regions, we at once lose that simplicity and generality which it is our hope and ambition to achieve. It is believed that, when conflict arises between two domains of thought, for example, religion and science, the reason for such conflict resides in our limited knowledge and intelligence. When conflicts occur in nature, readjustment necessarily and inevitably corrects them.

"Greatest of all are those fields where the spirit of man is tuned to the spirit of the universe, so that man is, as it were, a god or is in complete communion with God. Are these ideas idle dreams, or fantastic visions? No, we can claim as much reality for spiritual fields as for mental, artistic, or physical fields.

"The direct evidence of spiritual fields is found in the attributes and experience of those who, finding themselves en rapport with the Divine Light, bear testimony, by their lives, by their actions, by their thoughts, by their influence, that the inner light guided by reason is no mere illusion or dream."

Sir Ernest Rutherford, president of the parent body in England and a graduate of McGill university, spoke from England by radio for half an hour to the delegates assembled in Moyse hall at McGill. Afterward Dr. Eve chatted with Sir Ernest. Similar conversations followed between Sir Ernest on the other end of the 3,000 mile tieup and Sir Arthur Currie, principal of McGill university, and Sir Robert Falconer, principal of the University of Toronto, on this end.

MORE GIRLISH GIRLS, WOMANLY WOMEN FASHIONABLE NOW

New York, May 28.—(AP)—Frills are supplanting thrills among the younger set and feminity is pushing feminism into the background. At least that's the observation of Lady Armstrong, wife of the British consul general here.

"Women are softer and more feminine right now than they have been for more than ten years," she said today, "and clothes have had much to do with it."

Lady Armstrong was born in America of English parents. She has watched the debutantes come and go for years.

"During and after the war girls put on mannish clothes and did men's work," she said. "They accomplished something in business and art, and it was all very well. But the reversion has come. They're back in frills—and glad to be there, in spite of the little fuss they seemed to make about it.

"The smartest, prettiest debutantes aren't smoking these days. They aren't drinking, either. By the scores I see them refusing cigarets and cocktails. "'Mother does,' they say, 'but I don't, thank you'."

Fourteen American Women Will Bow to Queen Next Week

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 20.—Fourteen American women will be presented at the third and fourth Buckingham palace courts next week, May 27 and 28, by Mrs. Charles G. Dawes, wife of the American ambassador.

Those to be presented at the third court are: Mrs. Guy Goff of Clarksburg, W. Va.; Miss Carolyn Widman, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Miss Helen Howell, Lincoln, Neb.; Miss Vera Bloom, New York City; Mrs. Frederick Thwaits, Milwaukee, Wis.; Mrs. George Carr, Chicago; Miss Elizabeth Plankinton, New York City, and Mrs. George Phelps, Detroit, Mich.

Those to be presented at the fourth court are: Mrs. Jacob Baur, Chicago; Mrs. Edward Spafford, New York City; Miss Maxine Adams, Rexburg, Idaho; Mrs. Hoffman Nickerson, Oyster Bay, N. Y.; Miss Carolyn Leech, Louisville, Ky., and Mrs. Franklin Terry, New York City.

Opera Dancer Added.

Kathleen Crofton, member of the Chicago Civic opera ballet, will be among those presented at the British court next week, according to word received yesterday from London. At the close of the opera season she left Chicago, sailing from New York City early this spring. The date of her presentation is May 28. She is an English girl.

Medical Advice Urged to Curb Jail Crowding

Woman, Illinois Official, Talks to Doctors.

The solution of Illinois' prison problem is not to be found in the building of bigger and better jails, but in the use of more intelligent probation methods, according to Mrs. George Thomas Palmer, state probation officer at Springfield. Last night she addressed the annual convention of the Illinois Medical society at Joliet.

Mrs. Palmer urged the creation of a staff of physicians to act as advisers to judges. She said that was the only permanent check to "a situation which in large measure might be prevented."

"Probation as it is understood in Massachusetts, Indiana, Rhode Island, and Illinois not only will make new jails unnecessary, but eventually will empty many a cell block in jails now built," she declared. "Fifty cents on every dollar being paid into the Illinois treasury today on general taxation is going toward the care of wards of this state. Our correctional and penal institutions are all overcrowded. We are receiving prisoners at the rate of 1,000 a year without a corresponding decrease in dismissals or parole, which means more taxes to take care of a preventable situation.

"Adequate treatment of human delinquency will be impossible until this working arrangement has been completed so every judge and court will have at hand an impartial, official adviser to measure the effect of illness or diseased conditions on the conduct of individuals brought before the court in early stages of a possible crime career."

Dr. George V. I. Brown, professor of plastic surgery at the University of Wisconsin, drew a sharp distinction yesterday between plastic surgery as practiced by quacks, to bring youth to old faces, and legitimate plastic surgery used to correct actual deformities.

"What is needed is a greater cooperation between the general practitioner and the advisor in plastic surgery," he said. "If the surgeon in general practice does not see that surgical work of this character is done by the proper surgeons the work will be done by inexperienced surgeons and quacks."

Most persons who seek to rejuvenate their faces through face lifting operations were characterized as "borderline psychopathic" cases by the Wisconsin surgeon.

Turning to the positive benefits of plastic surgery Dr. Brown exhibited a series of "before and after" photographs showing how terrible deformities have been corrected.

Dr. Frank P. Norbury of Jacksonville, addressing an earlier session, pointed to the series of suicides in Chicago as an example of what happens when problems of mental hygiene are not dealt with in their early stages of development.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

Would you like to be presented to the queen of England?

The Answers.

Miss Elizabeth Hemingway, 1027 Clarence avenue, Oak Park, secretary. — I would welcome the opportunity. We can't meet a queen every day. But I would have to have enough money to get over there and then enough for correct attire. Apparently one has to be almost lined with diamonds.

Miss Emily Kazmarek, 5310 South Kedzie avenue, stenographer.—I would rather meet the prince of Wales, or Allen Hoover. They are more democratic and one presented to them wouldn't have to be decked out in such bright array nor bow so much.

Miss Marvel Showalter, 1447 North Dearborn street, manager.—I am not particularly interested. I would not care to meet her as a court formality. But I would enjoy meeting her on the same basis that I would any other notable person. She is one of the most important women of today.

Miss Mildred Kristof, 4745 South Loomis street, clerk.—I would love to. A presentation to the queen is a recognized source of rise in social prominence, whether we approve of it or not. If I had that opportunity I should make the most of it.

Miss Virginia Reese, 6236 Lake Shore drive, secretary. —Not particularly. It is considered an honor to meet royalty, but I would much prefer to meet the President of the United States or his wife. I would consider that of more importance to Americans.

THE STAGE

WALLACE FORD, of "Pigs," "Broadway," "The Nut Farm," etc., is now acting the rôle of the young man who is a kind of phantom father in "Many a Slip" at the Cort theater, in place of Douglass Montgomery. In such cases comparisons are out of order; the second player is always at a disadvantage because he has to compete with the glamour of first impressions. He is raw in the rôle where his predecessor was seasoned.

So young Mr. Ford and younger Mr. Montgomery will not be compared in this column. Each is unique. The essential differences of their personalities, however, may be noted. Mr. Ford is droll and deliberate; Mr. Montgomery is eager and intense. With either of them as leading man, the verdict upon "Many a Slip" stands as before: one of the most appealing and best acted comedies of the season.

A drop-in on "Hello, Paris," at the Grand Opera house, discovers an altered "Chic" Sala. Or, rather, the comedian has returned to the line of characterization in which he won his popularity; he is a mild, quaint, amiable old codger, full of comic crotchets. The gleam of "The Specialist's" fanaticism has faded out of his eyes; he is now a sweet, eccentric grand-dad. The show is much improved by the change. Incidentally, a rehearing of "Deep Paradise" emphasizes the first impression that this is one of the most striking musical numbers of the musical comedy year.

Donald Brian, recently of "The Merry Widow," will fall heir to the title of Prince Rudolph in "Candle Light," at the Princess, on Friday evening. Reginald Owen, the retiring prince, will go to California to act Alfred Lunt's rôle in "Caprice," with Fay Bainter as his opposite.

The Shuberts announce that a new "Artists and Models," to be known as the "Paris Edition of 1930," will open at the Majestic theater, New York, next Monday night. Heading the company will be George Hassell and Vera Pearce, the latter an English comedienne who is now making her American debut.

"Maria Doxapatri," a modern Greek tragedy telling a story of Byzantium in the thirteenth century, will be staged at the Civic theater for one performance next Sunday night. It will be offered by the Greek-American Community of Chicago and Western Suburbs. Bernardakis, a Greek dramatist of the last century, is the author. Theodore Protantis, a veteran of the Athens stage, is directing rehearsals.

Paul Robeson seems to have pleased London with his "Othello." Cablegrams quote Hannen Swaffer [he who got slapped by Lillian Foster] as saying "Robeson's art conquers everything" and the Morning Post as declaring it "a noble performance."

Lawmakers Crowd City as Women Meet

State Federation Opens Springfield Session.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—Springfield has hung out the S. R. O. shingle.

Just as the welcome mat was being spread for the state convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, the members of the general assembly swooped down on their privileged stamping ground in response to the call for a special session of the legislature. Hotels are jammed, sleeping space is at a premium, and Springfield is both proud of its popularity and peeved at the congestion.

Asserting their prior right of possession, the state representatives—with more justice than gallantry—elbowed the federation convention right out of its proposed meeting place in the house of representatives, and into the less spacious quarters of the adjacent Centennial building.

Some inconvenience thus was occasioned the workmen on the new wing of the Centennial structure, who have been cautioned to swing their hammers less enthusiastically.

Gov. Emmerson contributed his share to the city's earnest endeavor to submerge in its hospitality the minor difficulties involving the delegates by opening the club convention this morning with an address of welcome. He coupled with commendation of their work a recommendation for study of the duties of citizenship.

Discussing the purpose for which the present special session of the assembly was called, he said:

"I have called the legislature together in an effort to find a way to remedy the revenue situation—to reduce taxes by making a fair assessment against all classes of property. You will be called upon in the future to discuss the tax problem. Please remember one thing—tax revision will not raise taxes against any property now being taxed. In fact, the reverse is true, but it will bring a way to tax the hidden millions of dollars of intangible property now hidden away in lock boxes and vaults."

Electioneering among the delegates provided the main interest at the convention today. Downstate women are enthusiastically endorsing Mrs. Mary A. Wall of Murphysboro as candidate for state president to succeed Mrs. J. Marc Fowler of Chicago. It is regarded as certain that Mrs. Fowler will not consent to renomination, nor is any opposition to Mrs. Wall's candidacy apparent as yet.

Capital is being made by proponents of Mrs. Wall of the fact that Chicago and the Chicago area have had thirteen state presidents, while downstate has had only four. They have adapted the Chicago slogan in the state legislature, "Equal representation," an apt phrase for the situation.

Call of the Pack Sounds for Cubs, Boys 9 to 11 Yrs.

Plans for organizing cub packs, the Boy Scout younger boys' program recently formulated, were laid last night at a meeting of interested persons in the City club. This will be the first formal step in the program for boys from 9 to 11 years locally. The cubbing plan is the result, E. Urner Goodman, scout executive, said, of three years of study which extended into 28 countries carrying on the younger boy programs, and is now a well established movement rather than an experiment. The cub uniform of dark blue shirt, shorts or knickers with gold decoration, is especially designed for cubbing. The cub will be awarded badges of cub ranks of wolf, bear, and lion, with arrow points for special achievements.

Prince of Wales "Sells" Pens for Actors' Fund

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 20.—The prince of Wales, speaking as "one of the public" today, delivered a humorous speech at the Actors' Benevolent fund luncheon at the Savoy hotel. After a warm appreciation of the stage's work, the prince showed himself a good salesman by calling the attention of the guests to the brand new fountain pens lying beside their places. These pens would belong to them, he said, if they signed a donation check to the actors' fund. Due to the prince's good natured plea, most of those present earned the right to pocket the pens.

Harrison High School's Band Faces U. S. Contest

Capt. John H. Baradasa and his 100 piece Harrison High school band, which last week won the city championship, will leave this morning at 9 o'clock over the Grand Trunk railroad for Flint, Mich., to seek the national title.

It will meet the best high school bands from every city in the United States. In its repertory will be the Chicago's World's Fair March, composed by Director Carl Mader of the 131st U. S. infantry band, and which it played in the championship finals here.

Members of the city council raised a purse of $2,300 to defray its expenses. The Harrison Band Mothers' club will be at the Polk street station this morning to see the boys off.

Kreisler Plays Dawes' Piece During Concert in London

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 20.—Fritz Kreisler held an audience of 2,000 spellbound at Queen's hall tonight. He played his only concert in England this year. One feature of the program was his playing of "Melodie," composed by Ambassador Charles G. Dawes. Kreisler played that piece twice, once as a regular part of the program and then as one of the half dozen encores. Ambassador Dawes was present with friends. Premier MacDonald also had guests at the concert.

THE TRIBUNE was in error yesterday when in a story on the governor's revenue and legislative program it mentioned the outlook for reappointment of Brig. Gen. Roy D. Keehn to command of the Thirty-third division. Under the law, Gen. Keehn's appointment is for life, or rather until the retirement age of 64.

Hubby Neglects Her; He's "Air-Minded," Is Wife's Complaint

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Betty's is the first complaint registered in this department against a husband who has gone "air-minded." It probably will not be the last. Undoubtedly there are wives the country over who can appreciate Betty's state of mind and heart at the current moment.

"He used to show some interest in me," Betty writes, "but now he hasn't a thought for anything or anybody unless it's about airplanes or people concerned with them. He comes home from work. I'd like to go out somewhere, once in a while. He eats dinner hurriedly and buries himself behind an air magazine or book or article on aviation.

"Days off, and afternoons off, he is away to some airfield and his whole ambition is to save up enough money to take up the work seriously. If he'd only say as he used to, "Come on, Bet, let's take a walk," but he never does. His kisses are like ice and he often forgets to give me one when he comes home. We've only been married four years and are both still young."

The golf widows, one suspects, will give way now to air widows.

At 22, Betty's age, it is pretty tough to have a companion night after night who "won't speak a word after supper until he is through his book on aviation, by which time it is always bedtime." On the other hand, it would be a lot harder were the young husband engrossed in such idle and sometimes dangerous pursuits as keeping other husbands away from home, night after night. At least, she knows where he is—also, she might try to realize that a young man with such concentrated effort must eventually get somewhere with his ambitions.

However, youth is youth and there should be some playtime in which all parties are considered. An evening or two a week, at least, should be subscribed to a young wife's pleasure.

Were I a wife of 22, married to an air-minded boy, I think I'd get the air-mind, too. What a field of common interest that would open to a married couple. I'd step right along with him; read the books and the articles, go out to the aviation field, if he'd take me along. I would try my best to be a cooperative pal and not an objector to a pursuit that unquestionably is today's great venture and tomorrow's big business opportunity.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Time for a Declaration.

"Dear Miss Blake: After going with a girl four years she is losing interest in me. How can I get her to love me again? GEORGE."

After four years a girl has a right to know definitely what your intentions are. You'll have to speak up.

My nephew, Sydney, aged 9, came home from school shortly after 10 o'clock one morning. He said he did not feel well, so his mother called Dr. S——, who said:

"Son, just where do you feel badly?"

"In school, M. N. replied. H. M.

Little Jane on our street is much handicapped socially by having the constant care of a naughty little brother. One day I was making place cards for a party our small Nancy was giving. She stood watching. "I don't know," she remarked, "whether you need to make one for Jane or not. I told her if she could come without Tommy she was invited, but if she had to bring him she was uninvited."

Led on by Curiosity.

Curious to know what it was all about, I pushed my way through the crowd to find myself facing an astrologer. He was advertising the use of the horoscope. After listening, I decided to buy a copy of it. The astrologer asked me in which month I had been born.

"September," was my reply. "Ah," said the man, "the month of Virgo, which is beauty, and God gave you plenty." The crowd glanced at me and laughed furiously. I blushed and walked off. Curiosity will never again draw me, you may be sure. T. G.

P. L. Coonleys Building Home in Berkshires

BY THALIA

Mr. Prentiss L. Coonley and her daughters, Miss Alice and Miss Eleanor Coonley, have arrived at Folly Farm cottage, at Great Barrington in the Berkshires, with six hunting horses, from Aiken, S. C. There they will spend several weeks this spring.

Riding over the Folly Farm trails is a favorite diversion of the family and their friends. The Coonleys, who were Chicagoans until a few years ago, are building a Cotswold house at Folly Farm. A year ago they visited one of the old Cotswold villages in England, and were so taken with the type of houses there, that they decided to have one on their 550 acre estate.

The building stone was taken from an abandoned quarry at Mount Hunger, Monterey, a small Berkshire town fourteen miles from Folly Farm. Much of the interior paneling came from old English houses. Great Barrington friends of the Coonleys say that their new Cotswold house will cost a million dollars. Miss Alice Coonley is expected to come to Lake Forest this summer, to visit her aunt, Mrs. Edward L. Hasler.

Other Berkshire news—Mrs. George Hickinson, who broke an ankle when she was in Washington, D. C., fell recently at the Ledge, the Higginson home at Lenox, Mass., injuring the same leg, and is now getting around on crutches. Mr. and Mrs. James Hazen Walker of Chicago have opened Fair Acres at Stockbridge, and are with Mrs. Henry Eugene Meeker of New York City as a guest.

One of the numerous house parties planned for over Memorial day at the Lakeside Country club at Green Lake is one to be given for Miss Peggy Lawes of Memphis, by Miss Charlotte Welch. Miss Lawes and her mother, Mrs. Bradford Lawes, arrive next Monday to be the house guests of Miss Louisa Burrows of Lake Forest for a week or two, during which time they will be extensively entertained. Miss Lawes was one of the most popular of the Memphis debutantes during the last season. Miss Burrows is to give a dinner at the club, followed by a theater party, on June 2.

The formal opening of Lawsonia will take place on Memorial day, and the new eighteen hole golf course is to be dedicated then. Weymouth Kirkland and Robert B. Upham have donated prizes for the men's golf events, and Mrs. Henry F. Norcott and Mrs. Walter G. Smith have donated prizes for the women's events. Some of the shareholders who are to have guests include Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Bendix, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Skinners, the Walter Aaggs, Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Norcott, and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick K. Lawrence.

The spring meeting of the Farmington society is to be held tomorrow at the residence of Mrs. Taylor Strawn of Lake Forest. Mrs. Darlene Stevens Reeve is to speak on "Farmington Fifty Years Ago Together with a Sketch of the Chicago Society."

Mrs. Reeve went to Farmington with her sisters, Harper and Blanche, with her sisters, Harper and Blanche, in the '70s and was president of the club. The Chicago society numbers 160 members and among its philanthropic activities have been the endowment of a room at the Passavant hospital, the support of a visiting nurse, and contributions to Farmington lodge, a recreation home for working women.

The board of the Winnetka branch of the Infant Welfare society will give a tea for its members and contributors on Friday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Leslie Gorden at 38 Indian Hill road. Philip D. Armour, president of the society, and Miss Sara B. Dunn, director of infant welfare, will speak.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garfield King are back in Chicago after having spent most of the winter in their new residence at Santa Barbara. They will be at the Drake until the latter part of June, when, with their daughter, Miss Barbara King, and their son, Garfield, who will be home soon from St. Marks school, they will go west again for the summer.

Work on their new apartment in the Lenox building on Astor and Goethe streets is progressing so slowly that it probably will not be ready for occupancy until some time in November.

Dr. Hugo F. Simon, the German consul general, and Mrs. Simon of 443 Lake Shore drive are to sail tomorrow on the S. S. Berlin to spend a few months with friends in Germany. They will return about July 1.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, May 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Sidney C. Borg gave a luncheon at the Chatham for Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. Among those present were Mrs. James Leeds Laidlaw, Mrs. Oliver Harriman, Mrs. Herbert Lehman, Mrs. Joseph Swan, Mrs. Benjamin Stern, Mrs. Casper Whitney, Mrs. Martin Vogel, Lady Armstrong, Mrs. Grover Whalen, Mrs. Charles Rumsey, and Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Kemmerer returned from Europe on the Bremen. They had passed a month touring the British isles and the continent.

Claire Dux, Stock, Grainger Festival Stars

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The stars of the second concert in the Evanston music festival were three. Naming them in the order of their first appearances, and with no present desire to estimate their respective artistic voltage, they were Frederick Stock, Claire Dux, and Percy Grainger. The festival chorus, which, together with Dean Lutkin, took the spotlight the night before, remained present, but silent in the bank of the seats at the rear of the stage.

Mr. Stock, who is merely the orchestral conductor at this year's festival, though he is to occupy a more exalted position next season, took the Chicago Symphony orchestra through Beethoven's "Prometheus" overture, later the symphonic poem by Semtana called "The Moldau," and finally another symphonic poem, "The Pines of Rome," by Respighi.

All three are familiar items to those who go to the symphony concerts at Orchestra hall during the winter seasons. Presumably it is because they are both familiar and approved they were used on this occasion.

Certainly they are popular music in the best sense of the term. Nothing in the orchestra repertoire could have been any better liked than they were as evoked for festival purposes, and nothing could have been better played by the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

Mme. Dux made two appearances, and the only regret was that the number could not have been stretched to three or four. It is true that encores made her singing the equivalent of more than was officially announced, but the official announcements were confined to arias from two operas, Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro" and Wagner's "Lohengrin."

She is one of the world's great and famous authorities in this music, with a voice that covers all of its possibilities and a brain that comprehends what the confrerers did as plainly as though they had been on the spot to give her the benefit of their coaching. Encores followed, in two cases the songs of Richard Strauss, but in other cases Schubert and one of the moderns.

Mr. Grainger was present in two capacities. The first was to be the piano soloist in John Alden Carpenter's concerto, a work which he introduced about fifteen years ago and which by virtue of its sprightly rhythms and Mr. Grainger's expert performance thereof still is as vital and interesting as it was then. His second manifestation was as conductor of the orchestra in two works to which he has given his own name, "The Nordic Princess," dedicated to Mrs. Grainger and entirely his own work, and "Spoon River."

J. S. Sumner Defends, Others Attack Censor on Books Sold Public

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

New York, May 20.—[Special.]—The whizbang of the American Booksellers' association, which opened its 30th annual convention at the Pennsylvania hotel yesterday, exploded today with much noise and a little tearing up of the surrounding dirt, but no casualties. Before 1:30 o'clock the chairs in the hotel ballroom were filled by reporters, publishers, well-wishers to John S. Sumner or ill wishers to the whole scheme of censorship.

The rush was caused by the presence of four speakers: Mr. Sumner, president of the New York Society for the Suppression of Vice, whose business it is to keep literature pure; Morris Ernst, who has defended most of the book suppression cases brought by Mr. Sumner; Mary Ware Sennett, whose pamphlet on sex caused a national upset when it was suppressed as indecent; H. V. Kaltenbarn, a former newspaper editor. He lately has turned author. He was the last, loudest, and funniest of the detonations. Harry Hansen, once of our town, was chairman.

Mr. Sumner said naughty books made naughty boys. His one colorful remark was that any hobo, temporarily sober, can find a publisher nowadays for his indecencies.

Mr. Ernst, with legal earnestness, surveyed the history of prosecution of so-called indecent books.

Mrs. Sennett opined that youth needed the sunshine of sex education.

Mr. Kaltenbarn argued the business of suppressing books was a profitable one for the suppressed. He talked of that easy popularity which comes with Mr. Sumner's beneficent intervention. He suggested that G. B. Shaw's being Comstocked as "that Irish smuthound" boosted Shaw to popularity.

Six to Twelve Calls for Companionship of Other Children

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"My little girl used to be so contented to play by herself, around the house—satisfied with my companionship. Now she wants children, children."

"My young son seems to think it a tragedy if he has no one to play with. And when a friend appears on the landscape he's a changed being—transformed. I hate to think he has so few resources—that he's so dependent upon other boys for pleasure and satisfaction."

Do you have misgivings like these? Do you feel set aside a little—especially if you've been close and companionable with your daughter or son? If so, don't.

Perhaps your girl or boy is passing through that phase of relating him or herself to other people; that is, your child has come to the next stage in his social development which we have been thinking about each day since Sunday. Perhaps your child is feeling the needs that children feel so strongly during the period from 6 to 12 years of age.

Excepting all the many exceptions, which we must always do, we may expect changes in our children from babyhood up. Of these, perhaps the outstanding one is their craving at a certain age for the companionship of children of their own age.

They begin then to be less interested in their playthings—those trucks and derricks and dolls—and more interested in each other. They feel the need of some one who talks their language—and no one, however understanding, talks that language except another child. They learn to adapt themselves to others—they like to play with a group, especially in the years from 9 or 10 to 12. Then they have the "gang" instinct. "Our crowd" begins to be important. They don't want to be "different.' They become most conventional in many ways, as determined by what "all the kids" are doing. What the other children think has a great influence.

Also they don't on the whole enjoy adult society as much. They may, of course, be just as close, as sweet, as companionable with their father and mother and congenial relatives—but the point is that they need other children terribly when they get to be 10 and 11 and 12. Also, boys mostly prefer boys at these ages—though girls don't exclude boys!

Of course, our guiding hand and our sense of proportion must be there. But it helps a great deal to know that our children, if they do change in this way, are only changing naturally. This is one more phase for us to understand.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover, who is daily improving from her accident which resulted in an injury to her back, spends several hours each day, when the weather is good, in her wheeled chair on the south portico of the White House and in the gardens south of the mansion.

She has several secretaries, one for her private correspondence, one for her Girl Scouts work, and one for her official contacts. When one of those women is not with her she has her old friend, Miss Susan Dyer of New York, beside her.

Miss Dyer has been a guest at the White House for several months and, with Mrs. Hoover, "listened in" on the President's reviewing of the fleet off Hampton Roads today.

ALICE WHITE explains why some girls are so Enchanting

ALICE WHITE, petite First National star, in the bathroom created especially for her in Hollywood. She says: "Lux Toilet Soap gives my skin that peach-bloom smoothness that is so important to a girl's charm."

Alice White

"WHEN a girl is fascinating," says dainty Alice White, whose vibrant charm carried her so swiftly to stardom on the screen, "you may be sure of one thing. Her skin is lovely!

"Beautiful skin always attracts. It is certainly the most important charm any girl can have.

"In Hollywood, you know, the directors all found out long ago that if a girl is to win millions of admirers on the screen, her skin must have that peach-bloom smoothness that is so ravishing.

"The glaring close-up lights would reveal even the slightest imperfection in the skin. And so, of course, every star in Hollywood guards her complexion most carefully.

"So when I say we use Lux Toilet Soap—almost all of us—you may be sure we think it is a splendid soap. Such soothing lather, and it leaves the skin so exquisitely smooth and soft.

"It is such a simple way to keep the skin lovely! Any girl can follow it, with the same good results."

LORETTA YOUNG
First National Star

9 out of 10 Lovely Stars use it—in Hollywood—on Broadway—in Europe

Of the 521 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 511 are devoted to Lux Toilet Soap. All the great film studios have made it the official soap for their dressing rooms!

The lovely Broadway stage stars, too, have discovered that Lux Toilet Soap gives their skin just the gentle care that is required.

And now the European stars are using this fragrant white soap! You, too, will want to try it. Order several cakes—today.

Wedgwood's Pottery Shown; Other Exhibits

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

So many exhibitions are piling up this week that a brief mention of each new opening is only fair. Marshall Field's antique galleries announce an interesting exhibit of rare and authentic Eighteenth century English furniture. In the Wedgwood room there is a memorial exhibition in honor of that master potter, Josiah Wedgwood. There are unique pieces designed by the master craftsman himself and lent to Field's by the Wedgwood museum in Etruria, Stoke-on-Trent.

The thirty-sixth annual exhibition of oil paintings by members is current at the Palette and Chisel club, 1012 North Dearborn street. There opens today in the Hoosier art gallery, 211 West Wacker drive, an exhibit of figure paintings and portraits by Crewes Warnacut of Chicago and of sculpture by Robert Davidson of Indianapolis.

Word comes from the Walden-Dudensing galleries that in addition to the modernist landscapes of Arnold Blanch, they also have on exhibition some spirited etchings of horses by Thomas Blandforth.

At the O'Brien art galleries there has just opened an exceedingly attractive exhibit of paintings and etchings of dogs by Diana Thorne, an English artist whose work is marked by great charm and imagination. Miss Thorne is in Chicago for a little time and will undertake a few commissions for dog portraits. James Topping is having a one man show of landscapes at the Midland club, 172 West Jackson street. This clears the atmosphere fairly well except for an item from the Art institute.

The 1930 annual fellowship competition of the school of the Art institute will terminate on May 26. It has run one month of intensive work. Interest is higher this year than in previous years because the awards are larger. The fellowships to be assigned for foreign travel and study are the Edward L. Ryerson traveling fellowship of $1,500; the Anna Louise Raymond traveling fellowship of $1,500, the Bryan Lathrop traveling fellowship of $1,500; the John Quincy Adams traveling fellowship of $1,500. In addition the American traveling scholarship of $250 is available for use in visiting the more important art centers in this country. The subject for the competition is "Athletics" and it may be developed in any manner the contestants choose.

Fifteen painting students have been admitted to the final competition as a result of a preliminary trial. These students are Hubert Bailey, Irene Bianucci, Leoline Clarke, Richard Crist, Mabel Ebersole, Ralph Hendricksen, Edwin Boyd Johnson, Eugene Montgomery, Raymond Ostrenga, Merlin Pollock, Philip Perkins, James Prendergast, Anthony Skupas, Laura Slobe, and Glen Werther.

And won't the men who fall heir to this gift have many pleasant and diverting hours with it once it graces their amusement hall! The institution that would like to add this table to its possessions should write me for it at once: please do not telephone.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

S. L.: A HEALTHY TONGUE should be moderately red, clean, and moist. If it is coated, stomach or liver derangement is indicated and a tainted breath is bound to result. Cleanse the tongue, then use an antiseptic mouth wash. Lime water is an excellent alkaline wash.

MISS G. F.: TWEEZE OUT THE straggly hairs that grow above and outside the eyebrow proper and down toward the eyelid. Shape the brow to a nice arch by thinning out the hairs toward the inner and outer edges. An eyebrow tonic may be had for a stamped addressed envelope.

Hats and Gloves Win the Battle of Chic

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.] —Hats and gloves are the most important allies of feminine charm. Every Parisienne knows that to be becomingly hatted and fittingly gloved is half the battle of chic. The new hats never hide—they frame and set off—a pretty face or they lend charming shadows to a less regular one. Anyway, if there's a really plain girl left in France it's not the fault of the Paris modistes.

Gloves have regained in Paris fashions an importance they have not enjoyed since the romantic days of the Renaissance, when they were fittingly considered as strong enhancers of feminine allure as perfumes, and when glovers and perfumers were synonymous.

The latest innovation is period gloves to accompany the picturesque short-sleeved frocks that are such a feature of summer fashions. Three styles are sketched above. The Louis XVI. glove shown at the top would be pretty with a flowered fichu frock. It's in pale beige suède with diagonal cuff incrustations in soft browns; the tiny wreath on the back of the hand is embroidered in gold threads. The center glove is inspired by the magnificent epoch of Louis XIV. It's in beige suède, with a narrow scalloped cuff of red kid and is embroidered with the Sun King's insignia in gold thread and red silk. The Empire glove just underneath it is in tan glacé kid with its scalloped edge bound in blue kid and it's stitched together in blue silk. The Napoleonic bee mounted on the Imperial "N" is incrusted in blue kid with red kid wings. This glove is just the thing to put an original finishing touch to the Empire and Directoire frocks we're wearing for afternoon.

The picturesque bonnet from Le Monnier in the center of our drawing follows the high forehead, Florentine line that is the newest thing in beguins. The calotte proper is of black panamalaque, molded into double turn back wings, that take flight from a jeweled pin. The hair shows almost to the center of the head through a visor veil of horsehair lace. Needless to say such a hat calls for perfect features.

No less beautiful but easier to wear is the large hat from Marcelle Lely at the bottom of our illustration. It's of bakou edged with a transparent horsehair lace brim draped and ruffled in a masterful and flattering fashion.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S DRESS.

A slender appearance that comes from vertical lines is evident in this printed silk crêpe in black and white, relieved with plain white. It is a conservative design, suitable for street or afternoons. The jabot revers break the width through the bodice, while the curved seaming and wrapped treatment of the skirt also tend to minimize width.

The pattern, No. 2504, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 39 inch contrasting and 2 yards of 1 inch wide ribbon.

Too Much Harping on Youth Drives One to Rebellion

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

After a study of the birth and death rate, a prediction was made recently that our country, a generation or so hence, would be a country of old people. Upon which announcement one middle aged woman of my acquaintance volunteered a "Thank heaven for that! Then I can be myself."

I do think we have gone a bit blooey on this business of trying to look, act, and be the 16 we "ain't" and never will be. In fact, I have a mind to predict that the very repetition of this "youth" theme is going to be the cause of a revolt one of these days.

On a shopping trip the other day with an infant not quite 2, to cinch her sale of a spring hat and coat the saleswoman stressed the fact over and over again that that outfit [1 year old size, mind you] was "youthful." Sez I to myself: "Great Jehosephat, does that matter at 2?"

At another stop in the day's shopping adventure a practical day handbag was under contemplation—adult size handbag, not one for the less than 2 year old. "This," said the saleswoman, "is a youthful bag, and that's what you want, isn't it?"

An acquaintance swears that when she was trying to decide between two different makes of sedan for herself, the youthfulness of the body line of one of the cars was stressed. If this keeps up, you can see what we're in for. We'll be insisting, unless we get right-er in the head, that we have a youthful train to travel on; that the train run on youthful railroad tracks; that the dining room offer us only young carrots, young potatoes, young steaks, roast beef and chops; that our heads rest only on young pillows and our bodies on young mattresses. It sounds darned silly to me, and I'm surely not one who would go in for advocating needless age in face, grace, or figure, as you know.

But aren't we honestly getting just a little bit hipped on the young stuff? And wouldn't a bit more sanity on the subject be appreciated by all and sundry? Wouldn't a calmer acceptance of maturity dissipate a lot of the resentment and wrinkles seen in faces now?

Maybe I'm just peeved this a. m. because the busman didn't compliment me on the nice YOUNG dime I handed him. I dunno. Only I hope no one tries to sell me a youthful broiling pan. The rummy old reliable turns out such swell steaks now.

Decorating Birthday Cakes.

The old fashioned pound cake was frequently used for birthday cakes, but almost equal to it was a well made cup cake, the common recipe for which was doubled for a large cake. Some people have called this cake an inexpensive pound cake. The making of a common icing and mixing part of it with the yolk of an egg for writing on the cake has been an inexpensive device mothers have used in getting up quite charming home made effects for the child's birthday. A few years ago, everybody was using gum drops, of which there are a considerable number of grades, but the use of these is no longer a novelty.

Probably there was humerous intention in decorating a birthday cake for the beloved Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes [it was in the year 1886], when he returned from a famous hundred days in Europe. He recorded this fact as follows: "In these days of birthday books, our chronology is not a matter of secret history, in case we have been much before the public. I found a great cake had been made ready for me, in which the number of my summers was represented by a ring of raisins which made me feel like Methuselah."

Sometimes tiny angel cakes have been made for birthday cake decorations, especially when there has been the desire to have some small individual forms or shapes. Always it has been counted a privilege to cut the birthday cake, and nowadays candles are put on usually with the idea that the cutting must be provided for. In the case of a large cake, a knife is run around about half way between the center and the margin and that part is left to stand alone while the outer part is cut into pieces and served. There will always be a candle in the center under such circumstances. When is is desirable to have individual parts, the angel cake cut up into rounds and iced for what is called snowballs. Sometimes it is baked in something of a sheet, triangular little pieces cut out to be used for candle when the service is to be buffet, and little paper cases are used to set the candles in. A long time ago triangle were, for some reason, called "God's cake."

Again we must say that it is not so much the composition as the icing and garnishing that make it a birthday cake. The elaborate built up layer cake can be left to the professional but the smaller ones can be made at home.

How Kotex protects your nerves and health

Kotex absorbent is used in 85% of leading hospitals . . . conclusive proof of its hygienic safety!

WHY take chances with your nervous and physical health at a time when vitality is low when you can have the very same hygienic protection that the greatest hospitals give their patients?

Kotex is made of the very same material that is used today by 85% of the leading hospitals in America! This is Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding . . . a cellulose substance which performs the same sanitary function with 5 times the absorbency of the finest cotton.

Stays soft for hours

Doctors consider this high absorbency very important. It carries moisture away from the surface, leaving the surface soft and delicate. The pad remains soft and comfortable for hours.

Because Kotex absorbs so thoroughly, bulk and weight are not needed. You've no unpleasant consciousness of sanitary protection . . . no nervousness . . . no worries. And doctors will tell you it's most important to relieve yourself of all nervous strain at this time.

There are other reasons why Kotex appeals to fastidious women. But surely health alone is sufficient reason! When you use Kotex, you know that the greatest hospitals can offer nothing finer to their patients. Kotex Company, Chicago, Illinois.
